LASSETTER'S, THE LEADING UNIVERSAL PROVIDERS.

THE FEDERAL TARIFF.

Notwithstanding and in spite of the FEDERAL TARIFF, LASSETTER'S GUARANTEE to the PUBLIC, with reference to their GLORIOUS LOW PRICES, stands good now as it did before.

This GUARANTEE, that brings ease and comfort to THOUSANDS of Homes, cannot too often be repeated, and it is this—LASSETTER'S GUARANTEE THE PUBLIC that their GLORIOUS LOW PRICES are AT LEAST 2½ PER CENT. below any other UNIVERSAL PROVIDER.

LASSETTER'S say at least advisedly, for in most cases their prices are from 10 TO 15 PER CENT. below. In this sense, and this is the only legitimate sense to use the term, LASSETTER'S ARE THE ONLY UNIVERSAL PROVIDERS that give the PUBLIC the best value.

LASSETTER'S hold the key to the present situation by carrying THE LARGEST STOCK in AUSTRALIA. LASSETTER'S STOCK is more than DOUBLE the next two LARGEST HOUSES put together, being over a MILLION STERLING, so that the PUBLIC need not be afraid of the FEDERAL TARIFF for many a month to come, for LASSETTER'S GLORIOUS LOW PRICES will rub off the sharp edges of it, and LASSETTER'S CUSTOMERS will hardly be aware that there is such a thing as a FEDERAL TARIFF.

Amusements.

RICHELIEU RICHELIEU
AND
AS YOU LIKE IT.
Mr. F. M. ALEXANDER, Vocal and Dramatic Studios, Equitable-building, has pleasure in announcing that he has decided to produce "Richelieu" and "As You Like It" during his third Shakespearean and Classical Season in Sydney, and rehearsals will commence at an early date.
APPLICATIONS will now be received from Ladies and Gentlemen desirous of appearing in these productions. Full particulars regarding Mr. Alexander's SHAKESPEAREAN SOCIETY may be obtained at the Studios, Equitable-building.
SYDNEY PRESS EXCERPTS RE MR. ALEXANDER'S FIRST AND SECOND PRODUCTIONS.
THE DAILY TELEGRAPH:—Everywhere there was an evidence of careful and earnest study and flashes of merit in the delivery of the lines, and the comedy was well dressed. Miss Edith Tasca-Page played with fine spirit the trial scene, in which she delivered the "Mercy Speech" effectively.
"Hamlet" at the Criterion Theatre.—THE IMPRESSIVE WORKING OUT of the great play was KEENLY WATCHED by the audience, who rewarded the performers with warm-hearted and encouraging applause. The performers generally are to be commended for the knowledge they showed of the text. . . . and for their intelligent and spirited delivery of it.
In many respects the second performance of "Hamlet" was an improvement on the first effort, and the audience heartily expressed their appreciation of it, Mr. ALEXANDER as HAMLET and Miss EDITH TASCA-PAGE as OPHELIA especially being singled out for commendation. "Hamlet" was again produced. The audience heartily applauded the principals, and at the end of each act Mr. Alexander was enthusiastically called before the curtain.
S. M. HERALD:—The performance went more smoothly than had been anticipated . . . and as rich and picturesque costumes had been secured, while the general staging was in every way suitable, the CORDIALITY WITH WHICH THE WHOLE WAS RECEIVED BY THE LARGE AUDIENCE can be easily understood. Interest centred naturally in Mr. F. M. Alexander's appearance as Shylock. He threw a good deal of individuality into the part. He was especially successful in the fawning manner and wheezy, chuckling laugh, alternating with furious outbursts of rage, in the scene with Antonio and Bassanio. HIS SCHOLARLY ELOCUTION carried him through the trial scene, where, it may be added, all concerned were at their best. Miss EDITH TASCA-PAGE here LOOKED REMARKABLY WELL in the picturesque scarlet robes of the young counsellor, and an EXCELLENT DELIVERY of the "MERCY SPEECH" and the FINAL JUDGMENT won her hearty applause. The popular elocutionists' brought to a successful close a theatrical venture of considerable ambition and daring.
"Hamlet" was chosen, and was accordingly staged at the Criterion Theatre last night. The applause showed that the audience thoroughly enjoyed hearing the noble lines of the great play. Interest naturally centred in Mr. Alexander's impersonation of Hamlet. He plays the part with warmth and feeling for activity . . . MAKING HIS SUCCESSES by his forcible elocution IN THE GREAT SPEECHES. Mr. Alexander was recalled several times during the evening. Miss Edith Tasca-Page showed the requisite pathos in the mad scenes.
The SYDNEY BULLETIN.—Mr. Alexander's Shylock was a fine piece of work. Miss Edith Tasca-Page put much energy into her mad scene in "Hamlet," and, as far as a mere lay person can judge, her insanity was correct in every item.
EVENING NEWS.—Mr. F. M. Alexander's Hamlet frequently reached a VERY HIGH LEVEL. He won many GENUINE RECALLS.

THE HUMAN VOICE cultivated and developed for Singing and Speaking, by the NEW METHODS, at Mr. F. M. Alexander's Vocal Studio, Equitable-bldg.
NATURAL ELOCUTION and DRAMATIC TRAINING.

THE PIANOLA.
A PIANO PLAYER FOR THOSE WHO DO NOT PLAY THE PIANO AND FOR THOSE WHO DO.
The PIANOLA is musically artistic, therefore it is a source of pleasure to everyone. To this the critics everywhere agree.
To the novice the PIANOLA offers access to the musical literature of the world, Ancient and Modern—a Liszt Rhapsody or the latest Song and Dance.
When we say access we do not mean simply ability to turn on music as in the case of a musical box—but actual access to the music world—participation.
The PIANOLA gives each individual the pleasure of producing music for himself, and of playing any composition as he desires to hear it played.
THE PLAYER CONTROLS THE EXPRESSION.
Accent, Tempo, Touch are all subject to his will, giving to his rendition his own musical personality. All this the Pianola offers. It removes all technical difficulties. It brings into use thousands of Pianos which have been silent for years.
Call and see the PIANOLA. Do not hesitate about calling to see something you do not expect to purchase, as our Showrooms are especially set apart for Displaying the PIANOLA, and we employ a large staff of men whose sole duty it is to play the Instrument and explain it to Visitors.

WE ARE PROFESSORS IN PHOTOGRAPHY.
PHOTOGRAPHY is one of the Professions which admit of all classes of aspirants. As sure as the various standards of Gold differ in value, so sure is there an equal difference to be found in Photographers.
IF A PHOTOGRAPHER be not an artist he is but a machine, working by rule to obtain a given result. But the work of the artist appeals to the heart.
OUR WORK IS an incentive and an inspiration to every true lover of Art.
WE HAVE supplied the Public with Artistic Portraiture, and gained for ourselves the reputation of being the recognised Artists of Sydney.

EDEN IN A NUTSHELL.
THE LEADING PHOTOGRAPHER,
SYDNEY AND MELBOURNE.
PHOTOGRAPHERS AND THE PUBLIC ALIKE HAVE OFTEN CONJURED AS TO HOW MR. EDEN CAN MAINTAIN SUCH MAGNIFICENT PREMISES, PAY THE LARGEST SALARIES, PRODUCE WORK "PAR EXCELLENCE," AND YET CHARGE SUCH MODERATE PRICES; BUT THE WHOLE SOLUTION TO THE PROBLEM IS "IN A NUTSHELL." AT THE "EDEN PHOTO STUDIOS," ALTHOUGH A BUSINESS OF SOME £15,000 PER ANNUM IS DONE, YET NOT £5 IN BAD DEBTS IS MADE, NOR ARE ANY "DEAD-HEADS" TAKEN. OF LATE A PRACTICE HAS GROWN UP AMONG PHOTOGRAPHERS OF MAINTAINING BUSINESS BY INVITING PERSONS TO SIT; FIRST IT IS THE DOCTORS, NOW THE DENTISTS, THAT ARE INVITED. THE SELF-VANITY IS APPEALED TO BY STATING THAT THE PORTRAIT IS WANTED FOR SOME WELL-KNOWN NEWSPAPERS, BUT AS A MATTER OF FACT, UNLESS THE SITTER "ORDERS," THE PORTRAIT NEVER SEES THE LIGHT OF DAY, AND IF ONE DOES ORDER, HOW HE IS CHARGED! ONE INVITED GUEST SHOWED US A BILL CHARGING HIM £4 4s FOR ONE DOZEN, WHEREAS HAD HE PATRONISED THE EDEN STUDIOS HE COULD HAVE OBTAINED THE SAME PROCESS PORTRAITS FOR 20s. IT IS NO COMPLIMENT TO INVITE PERSONS TO SIT, FOR IN LAW ONE CANNOT PROHIBIT THE USE OF HIS PORTRAIT IF HE SITS BY INVITATION. BUT SHOULD HE PATRONISE THE EDEN STUDIOS AND PAY, HE CAN CONTROL THE SALE OR USE OF HIS PORTRAIT.

PRELIMINARY NOTICE. NOW IN COURSE OF PREPARATION.

"A HISTORY OF THE FEDERAL MOVEMENT."

This work will also contain a Record of the INAUGURATION of the COMMONWEALTH in SYDNEY, and the SWEARING-IN of the FIRST GOVERNOR-GENERAL on JANUARY 1st, 1901; and of the VISIT of the DUKE AND DUCHESS OF CORNWALL AND YORK to the various AUSTRALIAN STATES, and the OPENING of the FIRST FEDERAL PARLIAMENT in MELBOURNE by HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS on May 22nd, 1901.
TOGETHER with an ACCOUNT of the COMMERCIAL POSITION of AUSTRALASIA at the BEGINNING of the COMMONWEALTH.

In commemoration of the accomplishment of the Federation of the Australian Colonies, we have decided to issue a work which shall be a historical record of the movement, from its inception to the opening of the first Federal Parliament.
The FEDERAL GOVERNMENT have given their support to this undertaking, and the Right Hon. Edmund Barton, K.C. (Prime Minister), has promised to provide the material for a chapter dealing with the passage of the Commonwealth Bill through the House of Commons.
Other contributors include:—Hon. B. R. WISE, K.C., State Attorney-General (New South Wales); and the Right Hon. Sir JOHN FORREST, G.C.M.G., Federal Minister for Defence (Western Australia). There will also be chapters by prominent Federalists in each of the other States. In this way the value of the work, from a historical standpoint, will be placed beyond question.
The work will be profusely illustrated; and in this connection it is intended to reproduce in its pages Portraits of all those who have been prominently associated with the Federal movement.
There will also be a section devoted to the TRADE and COMMERCE of Australia; and it is, in fact, intended that the work, when completed, shall form a complete portrayal of the political and commercial life of Australia as it was at the commencement of the Commonwealth.
This great work will be issued by subscription, and full particulars may be obtained on application to the Publishers,
WILLIAM BROOKS AND CO., LTD., SYDNEY AND BRISBANE.

LOST PROPERTY.

THE STORY OF MAGGIE CANNON

BY W. PETT RIDGE.

CHAPTER III.—Continued.

Baby girl appearing, found herself handed around as though she had been cake, an experience to which she was becoming accustomed. Two frock-coated youths standing in a corner of the room with something of the appearance of having been blown in from the park by error looked on fearful of being called upon to nurse the open-eyed little woman and seemed to be meditating flight, but only went so far as to say in a duet, "Well, I suppose we ought ——" and then, astonished at the sound of their own voices, stopped and smiled foolishly. Miss Margaret Cannon, in white, the centre and object of an admiring group of large-hatted women, crowed exultantly, and, at Watson's particular request, endeavoured with some success to pronounce one word which sounded like Baloo-baloo, but which Nurse, as interpreter, declared to be the word Watson, as plain as plain.

"I suppose," said the eye-glass lady with a cough of apology, "she will—hem—change a good deal as she grows older."

"I don't want to see her change, Miss," said Watson respectfully.

"The amelioration," lectured Mrs. Malden, "will under my system be gradual. It will be as unlike the sharp acute alterations with which they would have met in their ordinary lives as it is possible."

"Glig-a-glig-a-glig," said the baby suddenly.

"You're quite right there, you little dear," agreed Nurse Watson. "You are indeed as you say a lucky girl to be looked after and to have all these ladies admirin' you. Bless her heart!" added the affectionate young woman.

"And you think that their course in life, dear Mrs. Malden, is not already determined by—by—What is the word?"

The baby looked up at the puzzled lady with an amused air as though she knew, but preferred not to tell.

"You know the word I mean."

One of the two young men started at being thus pointedly appealed to, and dropping his gloves came forward blushing.

"What is the word that means—I understand what it means—but I can't find the word." The lady tapped her forehead with her eyeglass to arouse dozing memory.

"Please help me. You know everything."

The youth confessed that he did know a tolerable lot of things, but in the present instance—was the word (this with sudden intuition)—was the word psychology.

"No, not psychology. Not in the least like psychology."

The youth, holding himself tightly by the lappels of his frock coat, said that really don't you know if the word was not psychology it was a bit difficult to guess what it could be. The youth seemed wishful to hail his colleague, now intent on the view across the hill, but the lady turned appealingly to Mrs. Malden.

"Can't you give me the word, dear Mrs. Malden?"

"Sorry," replied Mrs. Malden, turning one of her rings so that the baby could clasp it with her plump fist, "but I've forgotten what you were talking about. What was the subject?"

"I fear," acknowledged the other helplessly, "I've forgotten that now."

The baby twitched its mere incident of a nose and chuckled aloud, as though diverted by the deadlock in which the conversation had found itself.

"I hear," whispered one of the other ladies mysteriously, as the youth returned to the window, "that the engagement between that awfully good man in Harley-street, and—you know who I mean—has been broken off, because she discovered to her great surprise that——"

"Watson," interrupted Mrs. Malden commandingly, "take the dear child upstairs." She turned to the others with a warning manner, as Watson and the baby left the room. "One can't be too careful," she added, "before children."

The life of the youngsters at Albert-terrace was not of unruffled joy, for the elders of five or six were taught under Mrs. Malden's direction by a governess from Haverstock Hill. Here, as in other matters, Mrs. Malden had her own views, and in this regard she insisted that no time should be lost in teaching elementary facts, but that the start should be made at a more advanced stage. Special attention, moreover, was paid individually to the children who already bore, in theory, a label indicating the particular form of talent which they were in after life to exhibit. Thus the eldest boy, having been marked out for the stage, had Shakespeare read to him by the lady from Haverstock Hill to his great distress; the eldest girl (aged four) being destined for the profession of a nurse found herself furnished with a toy hospital, and entering into the spirit of the game with too much zeal, broke up the arms and legs of all her dolls and eventually beheaded them. Mrs. Malden found encouragement in this incident and declared to Mr. Malden that twenty years hence the eldest girl of four would be nursing wounded soldiers: a possibility which Mr. Malden did not feel himself in a position to deny. Also in the nursery were a politician, who could recite the first sentence of one of Burke's speeches, and an authoress who could spell several words: it was only the career of Margaret Cannon that had not been determined. Parents of her companions came at certain intervals to see them and she stared at them curiously, as though under the impression that mothers and fathers were new inventions; but Nurse Watson always on these days assured her that she was a lucky little dear not to have any horrid relatives, and indeed those who came to Albert-terrace were not the finest flowers of their class. The lady's maid especially disliked them, for they seldom agreed to go away without some article of clothing to be promptly pawned in High-street, Camden Town.

The children, goaded by the carefully directed and well-meant efforts of the governess, sometimes broke out into rebellion, and in Regent's Park rushed away from Watson and the mail cart with her favourite charge, to play muddy games near the fountain with deplorable youngsters from Somers Town, returning home to the demure house in Albert-terrace in a condition that made the ready tear come to Mr. Malden's eye and caused Mrs. Malden to upbraid everybody. After these outbreaks they would conduct themselves for a space with decorum; but as Watson said in the kitchen you never knew how long this would last. It was in the kitchen that the baby seemed happiest. This might be explained by the fact that cook, an excellent woman, but stout, and ever adopting, with no success, newly advertised devices for reducing the figure, had always some sweet delicacy for the mouth where four little white teeth were now in evidence; whatever the explanation, the fact remained that it was in the kitchen that she crowed and talked and laughed the most, learning new words with greater facility when they represented articles of food. At this period her vocabulary consisted of no less than six words, which Watson, as professor of the language, declared to be—

First: Watson.
Second: Jam.
Third: Ta-ta (variously an expression of farewell and a desire to take air in the park).
Fourth: Master (meaning Mr. Malden).
Sixth: Baby (herself).

Further, the sport of moving on the floor was being relinquished for a new game, which was to push a chair along, and thus learn the first rudiments of the art of walking; her admirable efforts in this direction extorted compliment even from Mr. Lammer, the footman, a gloomy young man with a morbid desire to be cremated after he had ceased to be, and with no great interest in anything alive. Mr. Lammer sometimes went out for an hour and found recreation by flattening his face against the windows of every undertaker's shop. This and a doleful admiration for Nurse Watson made up his joys. The house was not without incident.

No. 25 Albert-terrace had a day of importance when a philanthropic girl duchess consented to visit the house and inspect the working of Mrs. Malden's scheme. The intervening space between Mrs. Malden and the Duchess had to be reached by using three or four junctions, so that Mrs. Malden had first to communicate with the wife of Canon A (the first junction), who thereupon journeyed to the Honourable Mrs. B, who in the kindest manner saw Lady C, who happened to be the duke's aunt on his mother's side. Mrs. Malden, self-possessed in regard to her own manner, felt anxious for the good behaviour of the nursery.

For the greater certainty of perfectness, rehearsals were held every day in the large room upstairs, with Mrs. Malden as the Duchess entering importantly and making gracious inquiries after the health and behaviour of the members.

"Are you quite well, my litte man? Progressing excellently, I trust, with your studies, eh? Be always respectful to your elders, my dear child, and remember that your favourite motto should be—"

Mrs. Malden conducted the management of these scenes. To her annoyance most of the children declined to regard the matter seriously, and danced with amusement whenever Mrs. Malden entered. The very eldest boy seemed to be working out some problem of an abstruse character, and declined to show any interest in the proceedings, preferring to examine the pattern of the linoleum. For his obstinacy he was made to recite thirty times in public the words "I will behave, I will be good," which he did in a sulky manner that belied the spoken promise. A few guests were invited by Mrs. Malden to assist her in receiving the Duchess; she requested also the attendance of two ladies from prominent fashion and society journals. The Duchess had begged (to cook's regret) to be excused from coming to lunch.

"If anything can make me grow thin," said cook, "this disappointment 'll do it."

The inspection was fixed for three o'clock in the afternoon.

NEW MUSIC.

Messrs. W. H. Glen and Co. forward new music. "Won't You Try?" by Ewan Dale, is a little ballad, with a change from grave to gay, suited to a popular concert. L. Denza has arranged Mascagni's famous "Intermezzo," so as to form a harmonious duet for two voices. Francis Thomé's "L'Extase," is the entr'acte from his "Mlle. Pygmalion" pantomime, and is noteworthy as furnishing a pretty theme for flute (and piano), but little music for which seems to come into the market. "My Heart is Thine" is a particularly graceful and refined song by Guy d'Hardelot, the music of which nicely expresses the fantastic sentiment of the verse, which is French. "Waitin' at de Door," by Joseph Frederics, is a pretty coon song of a sentimental character, which might be advantageously introduced on the stage. "Sparrow and Wife" is a dashing vocal waltz by Louis Lackenbacher. "The Dusky Minstrels," by Felix Burns, is a sparkling and taking barn dance, or schottische. The "Danse Elegante," by John Henley, is a lively piece for violin, which sounds more difficult than it really is, being written in the "first position." Lionel Elliott's "Wagoner Willy" is a ballad with a playful love-story from rustic life. Sydney Shaw has arranged Balfe's "Killarney" effectively for 'cello and piano. The "Au Revoir" Gavotte, by Charles Godard, is pretty and simple.

Messrs. W. H. Paling and Co. publish "Three Marches" (under one cover), by Brigade Bandmaster W. G. Bentley, A.R.C.M. The best of these is "Fighting Bobs," a dashing and attractive march which deserves to be widely known. "Allivanna," which is in the style of Sousa pieces, moves brightly along. The "America" consists of a setting of "Wait for the Wagon," "Marching through Georgia," and other popular airs.

Messrs. Elvy and Co. publish "God is a Spirit," a short anthem for the opening of service, or for general use, by Alfred Barry, organist of St. John's Church, Parramatta. The vocal harmonies are rich and effective, and well suited for singing by a quartet without accompaniment, or by chorus.

THE AUSTRALIAN MUSEUM.

The report of the trustees of the Australian Museum for the year 1900 was laid on the table of the Legislative Assembly on Thursday. It was stated the total number of visitors recorded was 116,927, showing a decrease of 4692 for the year. The average was 325 on week-days (345 the previous year) and 601 on Sundays (590 the previous year). The largest attendance on any one day again occurred on Monday, October 1 (Eight-hours Day), when 2291 persons entered the building. The whole of the decrease occurred during the months when the plague was at its height in Sydney. The funds voted for the financial year 1900-1901 amounted to the same as for the previous year. Some readjustment of the incidence of the votes had allowed of minor improvements, but for the present no new schemes could be entered into. The great needs were funds to send out collectors, and to purchase books and collections of national importance. The purchases amounted to 1645 specimens, the most noticeable acquisitions being:—Thirty-eight ethnological specimens from Mrs. Jeffreys, 35 from Mr. H. Stockdale, 12 from the Bishop of Melanesia, 17 fossils from Mrs. Hope, and one grizzly bear from the New South Wales Zoological Society. The collection of specimens still remained dependent on the voluntary efforts of members of the staff and friends who were willing to devote some portion of their leisure time to it. By this means about 1842 specimens were acquired. Through insufficiency of funds, many valuable and possibly unique specimens were permanently lost to the State. The trustees urgently requested that adequate funds be provided.

WAUGH'S BAKING POWDER obtained the only first-class award of highest degree of merit. Waugh's Baking Powder, the best.—Advt.

CURRENT LITERATURE.

SOME STORIES.

"The Warrigals' Well," by Donald Macdonald and J. F. Edgar (Ward, Lock, and Co.), is a capital story of life in the Northern Territory of South Australia. The heroes of the story are employed by a syndicate to go out and annex a stupendously rich piece of ground, and they find themselves thwarted at various stages by the emissaries of another syndicate, which has the same piece of ground within view. The interest of the reader is well maintained throughout and the characterisation of the various personages of the drama is marked with much clearness.

"Casting of Nets," by Richard Bagot (Longmans, Green, and Co.) is one of the novels with a religious purpose with which certain authors have familiarised us of late. In this story the head of an old family marries a Roman Catholic girl and submits to the conditions suggested by the Roman Catholic Church. In the course of time they visit Rome, and the young wife has not been there long before she considers herself justified in relieving her husband of these conditions.

"A Millionaire's Love Story," by Guy Boothby (George Bell and Sons), describes elaborately the method which a very rich man took for the purpose of proving that a lady whom he had seen once or twice did not murder a person whom he had not seen quite so often. Mr. Boothby's hero succeeds quite by accident in spite of the assistance of a famous detective.

Messrs. Angus and Robertson forward three American books. "A Carolina Cavalier," by George Cary Eggleston, deals with the war of the Revolution, and contains much thrilling narrative. "The Heritage of Unrest," by Gwendolen Overton, has to do mainly with frontier troubles in Arizona, and with the doings therein of a United States captain and his Apache wife. In "The Autocrats," by Charles K. Lush, we come still nearer our own days, the story concerning itself mainly with the attempts of a millionaire to make haste to be richer by means of an iniquitous concession.

THE NEW SOUTH WALES LAWYER.

Mr. H. V. Edwards was well advised when he bethought himself to write "The New South Wales Lawyer: a handbook of the everyday laws of this State for justices of the peace, bankers, trustees, executors, and men of business in general" (William Brooks and Co.). There are some legal points upon which all citizens should be informed for their own comfort, especially in transactions of ordinary occurrence which have to do with such matters as the sale of land or the lease of a house. Upon matters such as these Mr. Edwards's little work will be found very useful.

Mr. Frank Wilkinson makes a valuable contribution to the history of the military movement in New South Wales in his "Australian Cavalry: the New South Wales Lancer Regiment and First Australian Horse" (Angus and Robertson). The book is evidently founded on trustworthy information, obtained, one can see, at the cost of much trouble in the matter of research. The illustrations which it contains will be highly valued, and the particulars furnished about the New South Wales cavalry and mounted infantry employed in the Boer war will be appreciated.

Mr. Charles T. Bateman writes informingly about "Sir Thomas Lipton and the America Cup" (Oliphant, Anderson, and Ferrier). Given certain things and Sir Thomas would now be the hero of that large section of the world which is interested in aquatic pursuits. But though defeated in this enterprise, Sir Thomas Lipton looms largely in the eyes of the world to-day, and the public generally will be moved to read all details about his life—about how he rose from the position of errand-boy at 2s 6d a week to the prominence which he now enjoys. This little book is full of matter.

Mr. D. Tallerman's "Markets and Marketing: A Sequel to Farm Produce Realisation" has been brought into prominence again by the efforts of the author to secure the aid of the Colonial Secretary and of the Agents-General in a public demonstration of the nutritive and commercial values of Australasian frozen meat.

Of religious books lately to hand "Thoughts for the Sundays of the Year" (the Religious Tract Society) may be mentioned as the most prominent. It is the republication of a series of essays by Dr. Handley C. G. Moule, who has lately been appointed to succeed the great theologian, Dr. Westcott, in the see of Durham.

In "The Brahmo Samaj and Arya Samaj" (Macmillan and Co.) the Rev. Frank Lillingston seeks to sketch the development of monotheistic thought in India, and to contrast this monotheism with the monotheism of Christianity. It is a large subject, full of difficulties to the ripest scholar, and Mr. Lillingston does not profess to have made a complete study of Indian Theism. Still the book is of considerable interest and contains much information.

THE SEPTEMBER REVIEWS.

THE CONTEMPORARY.

Jean de Bloch, whose work on the standing armies of Europe inspired the Czar with the views which led to the holding of the Peace Conference at the Hague, contributes an opening article this month on "The Wars of the Future." He vigorously attacks the privileges of the military caste, maintaining that no organisation has ever remained so exclusive, so secret, and so powerful, and so contrary to the well-being of civilisation as that of the men whose profession it is to kill or be killed. Yet there is no State in Europe or in the world, he contends, with economic resources sufficient to fully utilise its military strength for the length of time that a war under present conditions must last. England, he says, is being gradually drawn into the maelstrom of militarism. Some of his sentences are striking, as when he comments on the situation of the romance of war, "Military operations have become as prosaic as ore smelting, and far less respectable." Even courage is become a drawback—war is an international calamity—science and civilisation have turned over a new leaf, but the man of arms keeps his eyes fixed on the old and faded page, neither learning nor forgetting—out of ten generals, probably not more than one will be found resourceful enough to steer clear of the appalling risks to which the new order of things will expose him and his forces—these are some of M. de Bloch's reflections. Speaking of the Czar's appeal he says it is without parallel in history as a noble and Titanic effort to help the human race, and he quotes a late Russian War Minister's regret that the consequences of war are not capable of turning back the obstinate fanatics of militarism from the road they have mapped out for themselves. He also devotes some pages to interesting comment on the Boer war.

Francesco Crispi is written about by Paolo d'Albaro in terms of hero-worship of the man and his policy, and in marked contrast with other verdicts which have formed themselves respecting the dreamer of a new Rome of the Scipios in Africa and Italian naval greatness. Adowah and the public debt tell another story, and it may be that Crispi aimed too high. The writer credits him with a sincere sympathy with France, though policy led to the Triple Alliance.

The second of the papers on the Billion Dollar Trust is given, and in view of Federal Ministers' scheme for creating an iron-working industry here it should prove interesting local reading. The Trust is a standing threat to the British market, the writers say, and it will be still more so in a few months when there is a surplus of American production over requirements. Under present conditions, it is insisted, British manufacturers are behind in the manufacture of tin-plate bars, soft steel billets, plates and strips, and Bessemer steel generally. The belief is expressed that Mr. Schwab will cut prices as soon as it suits his purpose. To meet the competition it is suggested that the British steel manufacturer will have to make his peace with the trades unions, by making them co-operators in the work. This is the yeast in the dough of American commercial life. Then he and his fellow-manufacturers will have to form a good working combination, not necessarily on the American Trust model, but one that shall be racy of the British soil. The gradual growth of this process of amalgamation is indicated, and the necessity for up-to-date equipment is insisted on. A recent inquest on an accident in one of the best steel works in England showed that while they were up-to-date so far as England was concerned, they were ten years behind the time in the larger sense. A protective tariff, these two writers say with plain directness, is at once the crudest and most wasteful instrument whereby a trade can be supported. The main drift of their argument seems to be that things point in the direction of nationalisation of coal mines, iron and steel works, cotton mills, tin-plate works, and railways; and that amalgamation on something like Trust lines will be a great step towards that end.

Writing about the organisation of mankind, E. Wake Cook takes another view of this. If we get beaten in the scramble for foreign markets, he says, there are other sources of prosperity open to us. He finds that the organisation of trades and trusts is outrunning that of the State, and the question arises whether they are to annex the State or the State them. Their nationalisation may be the means needed, however, to force the Government up to a state of efficiency.

In a thoughtful discussion of the genius of Russia, Havelock Ellis says that the world has never yet seen an Empire so colossal and so youthful. It is this sense of largeness, he thinks, the immensity of the fate before them, which seems to emphasise unconsciously the gravity and responsibility of the people. They have that receptivity, humanity of feeling, idealism, and a sense of the relationship of ideals to practical life, which in the end make for civilisation more than either an outrageous militarism or the capacity for frantic industrial production.

Other papers deal with certain aspects of art and utility, the evolution of religion, the message of India, and some recent books.

THE NINETEENTH CENTURY.

The unevenness of the Reviews is strikingly illustrated by the contents page of the "Nineteenth Century" for the month. The political situation, if the term may be used, is dealt with in a contribution by Sidney Webb relating to what he calls Lord Rosebery's escape from Houndsditch. He thinks that the political force of the old Liberalism is spent—an opinion which constant repetition has rendered familiar. It is out of touch with the ordinary citizen as he renews his youth from generation to generation. The old school is mistaken in accounting for the party collapse by the personal quarrels of leaders. So far as the war is concerned, it has but promoted the party from insignificance to unpopularity. He finds the hope of Liberalism in its policy with regard to the Poor Law, and in dealing with the sweated trades, municipal sanitation and housing, national education, the military question, and House of Commons procedure. To create a live Opposition, he says, still more to construct an alternative Government, this new thought and this new propaganda must be undertaken.

Edward Dicey writes on the attitude of the Irish members in Parliament. The gist of his argument is that the abnormal representation conferred on the Irish electorate by our existing system constitutes a grave peril to the working of parliamentary government, and affects in consequence the welfare and safety of the commonwealth.

In view of the approaching coronation of Edward VII., Somers Clarke, architect to St. Paul's Cathedral, writes about Westminster Abbey and the preparations for the pageant there. Among other papers we find something about the trials and vicissitudes of early settlers in South Africa, international boat-racing, an alternative to Kaffir labour, and some sketches in a northern town. It seems a little out of date to discuss the manner and matter of Lord Lytton's novels as Walter Frewen Lord does here, and the sieges of Derry and Limerick are old stories. Sir Wemyss Reid has his usual noteworthy and informing paragraphs about the impressions of the preceding month, the death of Empress Frederick, the "unhappy condition" of the Liberal party, and a revival of reports about Mr. Rhodes's contribution to the Liberal funds. The story here is that Mr. Schnadhorst obtained a promise from the Liberal leaders that they would not support any proposal for the evacuation of Egypt, and that Mr. Rhodes in consequence paid £5000 to the funds of the party.

Prince Kropotkin has his customary valuable paper about the advances made in recent science, the Hon. Auberon Herbert concludes his contribution "Assuming the Foundations," and M. Jusserand has a paper about tennis.

THE FORTNIGHTLY.

An unmistakable tribute to the position of Lord Rosebery in English politics just now is given in an open letter here by "Calchas." It reproaches him with lack of selfish and resolute ambition. It appeared, he is reminded, that after the South African disaster only two men would count in public life, himself and Mr. Chamberlain. The question now is if Mr. Chamberlain alone is to count. Lord Rosebery is admonished that his destiny has reached its crisis, and that on his present determination to sink or swim with the fortunes of one party or the other will depend whether history is to devote to his career the damaging footnote or the appreciative chapter. Only as a Liberal leader with a Liberal programme, he is told, will he find a team or plough any furrow of his own. The party cannot dispense with him nor he with Liberalism, and the letter goes on to outline a party policy of the future. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, Sir William Harcourt, Mr. Asquith, and Sir Edward Grey would prove unable to compete with Mr. Chamberlain in an appeal to the democracy, and it is not for Lord Rosebery to create the ideal middle party. What the country desires, he is told, is to see him resuming his place at the head of Liberalism and reviving the party system. He is assured that he himself is more interesting to the country just now than either the Government or the Opposition, and that he alone has expressed with insight and passion that spirit of national regeneration which is the greatest need of the land. Incidentally the writer alludes, without explanation, to what he calls the "rapid sterilisation of the race in Australia."

George Paston contributes a paper about Mrs. Lynn Linton as a censor of modern womanhood. At twenty-three she entered on the independent life she denounces in her fellow-women, perhaps with the insight that personal experience alone can give. There is certainly a touch of the impatience of the woman who knows in her complaint that the new women wanted to be received as masters before they had served their apprenticeship, and to be put into office without passing an examination or submitting to competition—though much of that is changed now. Perhaps the key to Mrs. Lynn Linton's comment on her sex is in a line from one of her letters in which she speaks of women as demons,—"as a race we are monkeyish, cruel, irresponsible, superficial."

Some observations on social psychology in contemporary French fiction are contributed by L. Marillier. He is principally interesting in what he says about Rosny, who studied those "theorists of obscure, bewildered soul, . . . their hearts burning with a passion for justice, their eyes filled with the vision of human happiness which is to come with the day now positively dawning, who share their bread with the starving in the intervals of rearranging the map of Europe and rebuilding the universe on an entirely new plan, or manufacturing overnight in a garret bombs which they propose to throw about next day for the love of humanity."

Mr. W. H. Mallock has the first of some papers on religion and science at the dawn of the twentieth century. A good many years have passed since he asked the world to consider if life was worth living. He now proposes to present an estimate of the position as between religion and science, not as a discoverer or a thinker, but as a much humbler kind of person whom he describes as a sort of intellectual accountant. He aims at setting forth what each side has to say, to reduce arguments to their simplest forms, to note or to strike out such as do not consist with others, and to so arrange the whole that the inquirer may tell how the account on each side really stands. He uses the word religion not as denoting Christianity, but the belief in a personal God, the soul of man, and free will. His object is to see exactly what science has to say on these points. In his first paper he forecasts the result, which is that the theologic position is practically more calculated to command the assent of mankind than are all the arguments, as distinguished from the facts, by which modern scientific philosophy is endeavouring to prove it unteuable.

"Do Men Desire Immortality?" is a question elaborated here by F. C. S. Schiller in a paper advocating the claims of the Psychical Research Society. Judge O'Connor Morris writes about the Irish University question, and J. A. R. Marriott on university reform in the Victorian era. Those who are interested in book-collecting will find something here relating to it as a means of investment, and there is the usual article about South Africa. The "Anticipations" are continued by H. G. Wells, Charles Benham writes about the Empress Frederick, and there is a not very noteworthy sonnet entitled "Hereafter." In a readable paper Beatrice Marshall sketches a clever outline of the scope of Hauptmann's dramatic work, and in the literary supplement there is a comedy by Mrs. Clifford.

A MOTH INVASION.

We are informed by Mr. James S. Bray that a moth invasion has set in similar to that experienced towards the end of the year 1889. On Wednesday afternoon last the sandy beaches north of Manly were thickly strewn with both living and dead bodies of this moth. In places the surface of the beach during the incoming tide was literally carpeted with the bodies of this insect. Taking the beaches of Narrabeen, Deewhy, Curl Curl, Freshwater, and Manly, there were altogether many millions of these moths in sight. The greatest number come across was found on Deewhy Beach. These moths are honey-feeding, and consequently great competitors against honey bees, by reason of their vast numbers, in extracting the honey from native flowering and honey-producing plants. During the time the moths were here in 1889 they occasioned great alarm among apiarists. The moths, however, are only an enemy to bee life in extracting honey from flowers visited by bees.

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC NOTES.

London seems to have accepted in a kindly spirit the new development, termed "the American invasion," by which, for two or three years past, half a dozen of the chief theatres have been simultaneously staging American pieces, with or without artists from the United States. Australia, too, has participated in the new movement. Miss Nance O'Neill has left us, but during the present week the Globe Musical Comedy Company, from San Francisco, has been appearing at Newcastle, the World's Entertainers occupy the Palace Theatre, Sydney, and next week a third American company will be appearing at the Criterion. In 1902 this state of affairs will be accentuated, as, in addition to the "Ben Hur" Company from the United States, Mr. J. C. Williamson will introduce quite a number of important attractions from the same country. In regard to one of these, "Sherlock Holmes," Mr. Williamson has just been advised that the production at Liverpool was entirely successful, and that Mr. William Gillette, who will appear here with the detective drama next year, will stage the piece at the Lyceum on September 9. The Australian actor-manager has also received a letter from New York, by which Mr. Charles Frohman specifically cedes him the rights of "Are You a Mason?" for this country. This farcical comedy is written by G. H. Broadhurst, author of "What Happened to Jones," "Why Smith Left Home," and "The Wrong Mr. Wright," pieces in the repertoire of Mr. Charles Arnold. The acquisition of "Are You a Mason?" by Mr. Williamson is due to a contract into which he entered with Mr. Charles Frohman for all that manager's pieces for Australia. This contract was the most important result of Mr. Williamson's recent visit to New York and London. Mr. Charles Frohman has been described as the Napoleon of theatrical finance, owing to the magnitude of his operations, and the "American invasion" already alluded to was largely the result of his genius. In New York he directs the Criterion, Lyceum, Garrick, Maddison Square, Garden, and Knickerbocker Theatres, and just now he is also controlling Wallack's Theatre. He also has innumerable companies on tour in the United States, as he belongs to a syndicate which includes Messrs. Alf. Hayman, Klaw and Erlanger, now staging "Ben Hur" and other pieces throughout America. In London Mr. Charles Frohman owns the Duke of York's Theatre, and is at present also interested in the Criterion, the Lyceum ("Sherlock Holmes"), the Apollo, and the Shaftesbury, where Mr. George Musgrove is producing "Are You a Mason?" This all-powerful entrepreneur, who was the first to bring forward Miss Maud Adams, the most popular classic actress of New York, now proposes to stage "Romeo and Juliet," with Miss Adams as the hope of the house of Capulet, and Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, as Romeo. Miss Edna May, now appearing in "Kitty Grey" at the Apollo, is also on the list of the Charles and Daniel Frohman syndicate. It is in this way that Mr. J. C. Williamson has been able to arrange for the appearance in Australia during next year, or as soon as their dates ahead have been filled, of three American star artists—William Gillette, Maud Adams, and Edna May. As Mr. George Musgrove will also be in the field, the year 1902 promises to be a period of prodigious activity.

Mr. Henry Hallam, who opens at the Criterion Theatre next Saturday with the Josephine Stanton Opera Company, has been absent from Sydney nearly 28 years. When little more than a youth the tenor appeared here at the old Victoria Theatre with Miss Alice May as prima donna in such diverse operas as "Lily of Killarney" and "Genevieve de Brabant." Mr. G. B. Allen, composer of several charming songs introduced here by Mme. Amy Sherwin, was the conductor of this season, which occurred in 1873. Miss Alice May, who must not be confused by latter-day playgoers with a soubrette actress of this city, now in England, visited India with this company in 1875, and afterwards went to London, appeared as Josephine during the long run of "Pinafore," in succession to Miss Emma Howson and other artists in the same role, and sang at the Alhambra and other leading theatres. Miss Alice May then settled in America, where latterly, her voice having become heavier in tone, she sang with success such roles as Katisha in the United States. This singer, so favourably remembered in Australia, died in America three years ago. At the close of the Indian tour already referred to Mr. Hallam went to London, where he created the role of Pluto in Miss Kate Santley's production of Offenbach's "Orphee aux Enfers" at the Royalty Theatre, and he also created the tenor role of Conrad in the production of "The Beggar Student" at the Alhambra Theatre in April, 1884. This cast also included Miss Marion Hood, Miss Alma Stanley, Mr. Fred. Mervin, and Mr. G. Sinclair, all of whom afterwards visited Sydney. Since that date Mr. Hallam has remained in America, where he has enjoyed a brilliant career. For five years he was leading tenor at the Casino Theatre, New York (1885-1891), where he sang the part of Eugene in Jacobowski's opera, "Erminie," 726 times, besides appearing for a whole year with Miss Lilian Russell in "The Brigands," and for nearly that time in Chassaigne's French opera "Nadgy." Mr. Hallam, who has since been a good deal into management, formed his present company last March. Miss Josephine Stanton, a soprano of approved merit in America, was engaged as star, and Mr. Arthur Pell as musical director. After opening at Duluth, Minnesota, the company, to the number of 36 persons, appeared at many cities in the States, and successfully visited Honolulu and New Zealand before their arrival in Sydney. Their opening piece at the Criterion will be "Said Pasha."

After a retirement of 18 months since her highly successful debut as a student at the Y.M.C.A. Hall, Miss Alice Hollander is about to enter upon a concert tour, and will make her debut at the Melbourne Town Hall next Thursday. During this retirement the youthful contralto has studied assiduously under Mr. C. C. Bethune, has toured New Zealand with financial profit, and has created unusual interest in private musical circles here by the improvement shown in the development of her beautiful voice. Had Signorina Bassich been unable to sing the part of Siebel, which does not form portion of a prima donna's repertoire, it is probable that Miss Hollander would have made her debut with the Italian Opera Company last week. Mr. J. C. Williamson, who has always encouraged young Australian singers, joined Signor Hazon and Mr. Henry Bracy in hearing the new contralto, and expressed himself as delighted with the voice, although, in the result, the role was willingly filled by the Dalmatian soprano. Many other connoisseurs have lately heard the new contralto, including our recent visitor, Mr. Vincent, the special commissioner for the "Times" throughout the tour of the Duke and Duchess of York. This well-known journalist records his impressions in the English illustrated journal, "Country Life," of August 17, in the words:—"On my return to Sydney I had a private audience of an Australian contralto whose voice will most certainly electrify London next season. To witness if I am a false prophet, let me add that her name is Miss Alice Hollander." Miss Hollander, who sails with Mr. Bethune by the Oruba this afternoon, will tour Victoria, and will then return here to appear at a concert at which Mr. Bethune will sing prior to his return to Europe, where he proposes to settle permanently.

The most important work the Amateur Orchestral Society will perform at their next concert will be Mendelssohn's Scotch Symphony. Mendelssohn brought this work to England in 1842, and conducted it at the Philharmonic concert on June 13 of the same year. After the performance he obtained permission to dedicate it to her late Majesty Queen Victoria. The symphony is ranked as one of the most melodious Mendelssohn has written, and on that account has been a favourite even with the non-musical section of the public. Amateurs hardly need reminding that this beautiful piece derived its title from the composer's wish to leave on record the pleasant impressions derived from his visit to Scotland. Hence it concludes with a "March," sometimes called "The Gathering of the Clans." Mr. Sydney Moss will also conduct the Amateur Orchestral Society for the first time in "Liszt's Rhapsodie No. 3" (No. 6 in the original pianoforte series), and in Elgar's "Salut d'Amour" and other novelties.

Miss Grace Fletcher, who, before her departure for Europe two years ago, sang at M. Aengenheyster's Pleyel Concerts, with the Amateur Orchestral Society under Signor Hazon, and at one of the Maud M'Carthy violin recitals, has since been studying at Brussels. On her arrival there the young mezzo-soprano learned that in order to enter the Conservatorium she would have to waste a great deal of time in classes for general subjects, and in preliminary work with which she was already acquainted. Miss Grace Fletcher accordingly elected to enter herself as a private pupil of Madame Cornelis, the head teacher of singing at the Conservatoire, who adopts the Marchesi system. Miss Fletcher's voice has become more robust with the change of climate and further training, and now partakes more of a contralto quality. She is to persevere with her studies until the end of the present year, when she will make her public debut in Brussels, and will then visit England to learn the English ballad style. At the end of next year the Australian mezzo-soprano will return to her home in Sydney.

NOTES.

At a meeting of the Draughts Association Council Mr. Moloney (the secretary), resigned, and Mr. Holmes was appointed secretary pro tem, Mr. Moloney's resignation not being accepted, as the council were loth to lose the services of so able a secretary. The president ruled that protests be in writing for the consideration of the council. Messrs. Stormont and Griffin were appointed adjudicators of the unfinished games referred to in last issue. Mr. Mills was appointed umpire. The results of the premier matches played to date follow:—Rookwood won 4 points, Sydney 3½, Forest Lodge 2½, East Sydney 2, others nil. The pairing for the next round: Forest Lodge plays Newtown, East Sydney the School of Arts, Sydney plays Rookwood.

A sealed handicap tourney with 12 entrants was finished a few days ago at the East Sydney Club. Mr. Pringle won the first prize. Messrs. Bodman, O'Connor, Griffin, and Holmes tied for places. Mr. Griffin, who won 38 games, stood 12 points behind scratch, and had to win 42 out of a possible 44 to win, a very hard task considering the strength of those he had to meet. The system of placing players behind scratch is reprehensible. The better plan is to award a handicap as per classification, thus:—The first-class to give the second one or two points start, say six games to be played, and so on, with the other classes, pro rata. This system has answered well at the S.S.A.C. on several occasions.

By late advices from Western Australia a match was played between Messrs. Evans and Gardner for the championship of the State and a stake of £100. Some time back Mr. Evans defeated Gardner for a similar amount and the championship only by the odd game in a 20-game match. Mr. Gardner not being satisfied with his defeat, re-challenged Mr. Evans, hence the match, which has been won by the latter with the score of five wins to one, with 11 draws. Mr. Milne, draughts champion of the goldfields, will be willing to play Mr. Evans about November next, the match to be played at Kalgoorlie. Mr. Milne was formerly the champion of Newtown and a well-known player in New South Wales. He should give a good account of himself in a match.

Henry Spayth, analyst, compiler, publisher, at the age of 77 can still play the game with all his wonted vigour. Were it not that his wheel of memory will now and then "slip a cog," he might make a tour of America with no fear of inglorious defeat. He seldom knowingly ventures from the strongest, safest lines of play. His favourites are the back sides of "single corner," and both sides of "cross" and "Laird and Lady." Removing last autumn to his native village of Williamsville—10 miles east—he has very seldom seen this year at the haunts of Buffalo's checker players.—"Chronicle Telegraph."

In view of the New South Wales championship tourney being played shortly the foregoing is worth considering. I have always advocated the all-round system as the best test, and in order to minimise possibilities that matches of four or six games be played, the winner of a match to score one point, and drawn matches to count half a point to each.

The "Glasgow Weekly Herald" says there is a prospect of another match between Mr. C. F. Barker and Mr. R. Jordan being arranged. According to advices, Mr. M'Illwrick, of New Zealand, who's now in Melbourne, contested eight games with Mr. F. T. Best, the champion of Victoria, of which he won four, drew three, and lost one.

Borchgrevink in a recent "Strand," describing his eventful voyage in the Southern Cross and the wintering at Camp Ridley, says: "Chess, cards, and draughts were the recreations of the explorers during the age-long Antarctic night, which causes a depressing feeling as though one were looking at one's self growing old."

A LETTER FROM ARCHDEACON LINGARD.

Christchurch, N.Z., February 25th, '01.

Dear Sirs,—

Nearly four years ago, after having tried several remedies for Diabetes without success, my medical man consented to my trying Warner's Safe Cure. At that time there was no prospect of my living above a few months. At first I took six tablespoonfuls a day. I began to improve in health immediately, and was soon able to undertake my regular duties. During the last four years I have never been without the Safe Cure in the house, at times reducing the doses to one per diem, and occasionally going without altogether for a month or so.

At the present time, though not altogether cured (at my age I can hardly expect it), I am able to undertake the arduous duties of a large Parish singlehanded, and without much fatigue.

I have no hesitation in saying that my present fairly good state of health is due to Warner's Safe Cure, and I shall ever feel grateful that it came my way.

Yours, &c.,
EDW. ATH. LINGARD,
Archdeacon of Akaroa.

Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co., Ltd.

All arise from a diseased condition of the Kidneys and Liver, and Warner's Safe Cure cures them all, speedily and permanently, by restoring the Kidneys and Liver to health, thus ensuring the due removal from the blood of the poisonous acids and other impurities which, by their presence, cause these distressing and dangerous complaints.

FOR SALE, by the EVENING STAR COMPANY, Limited, DUNEDIN, ONE SECOND-HAND DAWSON'S FOUR-FEEDER WHARFALE PRINTING PRESS.

Length over all 20ft. 10in.; width of main frame, 6ft.; driving pulleys and flywheel, 3ft. 6in. extra; pit, 12ft. x 4ft. 6in. x 3ft. 6in. deep. Space for working is required all round. It takes sheets 23in. to 28in. long, up to 47in. wide, and has been accustomed to 26in. by 41½in. sheets. It has been worked up to 7000 an hour of two pages, the usual working speed having been 6000 to 6500 an hour. It will print up to two pages of 9 columns (13 ems pica) each. Driving power required: From 6 to 8 horse-power steam engine. Hands required: Four good feeders and man and boy. Roughly speaking, it has printed 1500 to 10,000 issues of 4 pages daily, equal to 19,000 or 20,000 impressions respectively; but on the day of the departure of our First Contingent it printed 17,000 papers (11,000 of 8 pages and 6000 of 4 pages), of which no less than 45,000 impressions were taken off in the one day, one side having been printed the previous day. It has been 19 years in use, during all of which time it has been well cared for, and worked well, until it was replaced on 8th November, 1899, by a new Goss web machine. With the exception of some worn brasses, which we would renew, the press is now in first-class order, and can be thoroughly recommended as a bargain to any printer wanting a press printing from the type without the great expense of stereotyping. It has been our custom to print the two outside pages earlier during the slack part of the afternoon, and to run off the inside pages at the last moment. For a morning paper, where time is rarely an object, the fact of printing two pages at a time would not be a drawback. The home cost, f.o.b. London, was £745, and we are now prepared to let it go at £150, f.o.b. Dunedin, as we have no further use for it. Photographic views of plan and elevation of machine can be supplied.

COUGH AND SWELLING OF THE GLANDS.

A LETTER ABOUT A CHILD WHICH TELLS OF THE BEST REMEDY FOR CHILDREN.

When a person takes a remedy that produces the desired results, it is only natural that the fact should be mentioned and the remedy spoken well of. Take the following case, for example, of a little boy who had been suffering from a cough and swelling of the glands:—
"31 Union-street, Rochester,
"England, April 16th, 1899.
"Gentlemen,—I have much pleasure in testifying to the benefit my little boy, Arthur, received through taking your Scott's Emulsion. He was suffering from a cough and swelling of the glands, and after taking two small bottles of your valuable preparation he was completely cured. I shall always recommend Scott's Emulsion to my friends as being the finest medicine for children.—Yours truly,
"(Signed) H. M. MACE."
People universally speak well of Scott's Emulsion. It is a standard remedy in the first place, being endorsed highly by the medical profession, and there is something about it which produces good results, when other remedies have been of no avail. You have only to give Scott's Emulsion to a delicate child to see how effectual it is in giving flesh, strength and vitality. Thousands of mothers whose children have been in a delicate state of health from birth have found that Scott's Emulsion accomplishes just what they have always wished for in overcoming this apparent weakness, and giving vigour to all the vital organs.
In chronic coughs and colds Scott's Emulsion serves a much better purpose than ordinary cough medicines. It relieves the throat and lungs almost immediately, and by nourishing the system it drives away the weakness that makes these chronic coughs possible.
Children that are always ailing suffer, in most cases, from low vitality, and it is much more important to improve their general health than it is to treat the local symptoms with ordinary specifics.
Scott's Emulsion is the most palatable and easiest form of cod-liver oil, combined with hypophosphites and glycerine. Hypophosphites are of advantage in furnishing material for the healthy growth of bone, in feeding the nerves, and assisting in digestion, while the glycerine, as it is blended with the oil in Scott's Emulsion, greatly facilitates absorption. Consumptives and persons suffering from anaemia can obtain vitality and strength from Scott's Emulsion when no other form of cod-liver oil can be used with advantage.

LIFE IN LONDON AND THEREABOUT.

CHRONICLED BY HENRY W. LUCY.

Mr. Chamberlain's Next Move—A Startling Story—Next Season's Drawing-rooms—A Painter at Work—Cocker's Arithmetic—Afternoon Parties.

WESTMINSTER, Sept. 6.

The hint dropped that when next the Government go to the country it will be under the flag of fair trade has profoundly stirred political circles. The reference to "one of the most powerful and persuasive" of his Majesty's Ministers is unmistakable. I have good reason to believe the statement was made upon the direct personal authority of Mr. Chamberlain. Such an incident is not without analogy in recent history. The conversion of Mr. Chamberlain to slightly veiled protection would be an event scarcely less momentous than was Mr. Gladstone's adoption of the principles of Home Rule. It will be remembered that the latter fact was flashed upon an incredulous world in a modest paragraph in a Yorkshire paper.

It does not follow that Mr. Chamberlain was deliberately sending up a kite to see how the wind blew. He has a way of dropping into confidential talk which occasionally flutters the Colonial Office. It is a characteristic he shares with Prince Bismarck, who, as a recently published "Life" testifies, was accustomed to talk about persons and politics with almost brutal frankness. Constitutionally fearless, if he is in the mood and in congenial company, Mr. Chamberlain is singularly communicative. It is not asserted that the campaign indicated has been definitely settled upon, or even discussed in the inner Ministerial circle. But I have noticed in a long and close study of Mr. Chamberlain that what he says to-day his colleagues are very likely to do to-morrow. If he, after deliberately weighing the advantages and the drawbacks, has resolved upon the adoption of fair trade as a principal plank of the Ministerial platform at the next general election, the country will have to take note of the fact.

Those whom it may concern are already occupying their minds with the prospect of changes next year in the matter of Drawing-rooms. Of the various functions pertaining to the Court, the Drawing-room is perhaps the most absurd anachronism. To have some hundreds of ladies in the highest, or to be precise the lowest, evening dress, sitting for hours in their carriage under broad daylight and the unabashed stare of the multitude, seems a curious way of voluntary enjoyment. When after long waiting the end comes, and dowager or debutante pass the door of Buckingham Palace, the long period of waiting is followed by a few minutes of hustling. In the last years of her reign Queen Victoria, when she received in person, remained at her post for something like an hour. The object of the race was to arrive before the Queen had resigned her place to the Princess of Wales or the Princess Beatrice. The consequence was prolonged anxiety, followed either by a moment of pleased delight or of profound disappointment.

Among the rumoured changes under the rule of King Edward VII. is the holding of the Drawing-rooms at night. This is a recurrence to the fashion that obtained in the reign of George III. It was George IV. who, wanting his nights for himself, fixed the Drawing-room in the afternoon, a precedent still followed. Night time is certainly more appropriate for the performance, and, assuming summer weather, would be much more agreeable for those frequenting the Drawing-rooms. During the late reign the first Drawing-rooms were held in March—a bleak month in London. Often one crossing St. James's Park, bound for a comfortable club in Pall Mall, has been smitten with pity for the fair occupants of the long lines of carriages in the Mall, waiting in wintry weather for their slowly-coming turn.

Whether the time of day be altered or not for the reception, one beneficent alteration will certainly take place. The King, above all things a man of business, will cause intimation to be made that except in the case of wives and daughters of Ministers, and other high official personages, ladies will not be expected to attend the Drawing-rooms oftener than once in three years. That will be an ordinance twice blest. It will relieve the conscience of ladies who think it due to their Sovereign and the stability of the Constitution that once a year, or at least every other year, their husbands should bear the charges of equipment for a Drawing-room visit; it will also diminish the crush at successive receptions.

During the session just closed visitors to the Terrace of the House of Commons have observed a barge moored just off the Terrace, on which is sometimes seen an artist working at his canvas. This is Mr. Wyllie, A.R.A., engaged upon a commission given him by Sir Wolfe Barry, to paint a picture of Westminster Palace as seen from the river. The subject is, of course, peculiarly appropriate, since it was Sir Wolfe's father who designed the Houses of Parliament, one of the few public buildings of recent date in London which really adorn its thoroughfares. Mr. Wyllie, whose picture of the "Passing of Queen Victoria from Osborne to Southampton on her way to Eternal Rest at Windsor," was far away the best picture of the year commemorating the event, may be confidently counted upon to add to his reputation by the work now in hand. Far away the best view of the Houses of Parliament, even now that Parliament-street has been widened, is gained from the river. Mr. Wyllie, who knows his Thames as few men do, is sure to make his foreground an effective feature.

The barge which serves as standing ground for the easel has an interesting story of its own. It is the joint property of the A.R.A. and the secretary to the Admiralty. In its time it has done the ordinary work of a river barge. When it came into possession of these eminent marines they transformed it into a comfortable houseboat. Its far-reaching hold has been made into a suite of rooms which for spaciousness and comfort beat anything to be had under three hundred a year in Mayfair. Mr. Wyllie is commodore of the Medway Yacht Club, and knows how to handle the tiller and shift the sails of a racing yawl. He never enters the barge for a race expected to go to the swift. But she is a good sea boat, has cheerfully breasted the billows of the North Sea, and made several trips across the Channel. As a matter of fact Mr. Wyllie having finished his picture, or at least as much as is necessary to do out of doors, Mr. Arnold Forster will take his turn of tenancy. He is going over to Etaples with the whole of his domestic establishment, and, living like Noah in his ark, will spend some weeks of well-earned rest.

Edward Cocker, who lived in the reign of Charles II., is chiefly known to the present generation by a saying in common use, "According to Cocker" means in accordance with arithmetical rules. I saw the other day amid the treasures of a private collector a copy of the first edition of Cocker's immortal work on arithmetic, published in 1678, by T. Passenger, at the Three Bibles on London Bridge. Only two, or at most three, perfect copies are known to the book-collector. One is in the British Museum. This ancient volume, its brown morocco pitifully faded, bears on its title page the inscription "Cocker's Arithmetick, perused and published by John Hawkins, by the author's correct copy." It contains what purports to be a portrait of "ingenious Cocker." Experts, however, shake their heads over the authenticity of this work of art. There are many engraved portraits of the epoch, but there was only one Cocker. The British Museum copy has no portrait, and there is too much reason to fear that this embellishment was added by some ingenious owner of an earlier century. Cocker died in 1675. This rare relic of the past bears date 1678.

I noted at the time a peculiarity of the past season which had its birth in the restrictions pertaining to a period of Court mourning. Whilst there were very few big evening parties, afternoon parties, the invitation usually extended from 4 o'clock till 7, were frequent. This brought about another change in social manners. Usually at a large evening party guests are left to amuse each other, and from the loud buzz of conversation that arises and is maintained above the blare of the band on the staircase they manage to do it. Gathering in the quieter atmosphere of the afternoon, with tea taking the place of supper, experienced hostesses felt that they must do something to while away the time. The fashion was set and promptly followed, of engaging for these afternoon parties eminent actors or singers to take a turn, as is done by less distinguished artistes at the music halls. At one afternoon party given in the palace of one of the South African millionaires, Melba, Coquelin, and Rejane followed each other. It was whispered among the gratified company that this rare entertainment had cost their host not less than five hundred guineas. It seems incredible, not to say monstrous, but I believe that if the statement erred at all it minimised the truth. I heard in quite other quarters, on professional authority, that Madame Melba's fee for attending an evening concert is five hundred guineas, with a stipulation that she is not to be asked to sing more than four times.

Paderewski has long been familiar with the five hundred guineas fee for a single performance. The first time I heard him play was in a Bohemian Club in Edinburgh, and I need hardly say no cheque for five hundred guineas or lesser amount was pressed into his hand on leaving. Jean de Reszke is another artist who commands fabulous prices for his appearance at private parties. Hurrying on for an hour after a lucrative engagement at the theatre, he comfortably makes his two hundred pounds before going to bed. Last season a new star appeared upon the scene in the person of a Hungarian violin player. Quite a young man, his name unknown two years ago in London musical circles, his fee for playing a piece or two at an evening party is a hundred and fifty guineas.

CHURCH NEWS.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND.

The Archbishop left town yesterday on a visit to the diocese of Bathurst in connection with its diocesan festival.

The Archbishop has authorised the use of the following prayer for the cessation of war, and for the spread of good government:—"O God, our Heavenly Father, who alone canst order the unruly wills of sinful men, and makest even the wrath of men to serve Thee, we beseech Thee to grant that the warfare in South Africa may be soon brought to an end, and that there, and elsewhere, good government may be established among men. Overrule, we pray Thee, all strife and discord; let Thy Holy Spirit convict the world of sin, righteousness, and judgment; and hasten the accomplishment of Thine own perfect rule of equity and peace, through Jesus Christ our Lord, Amen."

The Rev. Luke Parr, organising secretary of the Church Society, has spent the greater portion of the week in waiting upon business men in the city, and bringing before them the work and claims of the Church Society. Mr. Parr has been successful in enlisting the sympathy and obtaining the support of many gentlemen who will be enrolled on the list of subscribers.

In connection with the industrial work of the mission to the aborigines at Yarrabah (Bellenden Ker) there are now on the mission settlement 26 substantial buildings, comprising church, school hall, mission house, dormitories, store, engine house, and cottages for married people. Sixty acres of scrub land have been cleared and planted with bananas, cocoanuts, yams, taro, tea, coffee, India rubber, rice, corn, cassava, arrowroot, sugarcane, cotton, flax, oranges, lemons, tamarinds, bamboos, and vegetables.

The Rev. W. R. Mounsey, organising secretary for the New German Mission, preached on Sunday morning at Christ Church, St. Lawrence, and on Thursday evening delivered a lecture in Pitt-street school hall on "Life in New Guinea." On Tuesday evening Mr. Mounsey was one of the speakers at the Christian Social Union conference.

The monthly devotional meeting of the Church Missionary Association was held in the Chapter House on Thursday afternoon last. The committee is anxious that the friends of the association may become better acquainted with its needs such as—(1) that there should be a re-awakening of missionary zeal, and (2) that bands should be formed for prayer, and thus continued supplication should be made that God would give the association the means whereby to carry on existing work and enter new doors which are opening whereby the Kingdom of God may be extended.

The receipts of the executive council of the Australian Board of Missions for the six months ending September 30 last (the first half of the financial year) amounted to £2507 19s 4d.

The sixth annual gathering of laymen was held at St. Anne's Ryde, on Monday last, and a larger number than usual attended it. Four services were held in the parish church during the day, and the address at each was given by the Right Reverend Bishop Stretch, Dean of Newcastle, dealing with subjects of the deepest interests to the religious life of the present day, and suggesting solutions of doubts and difficulties that beset every man's life. There was a note of encouragement throughout the addresses, and an earnest appeal to men to be strong, hopeful and confident. Meals were served at the rectory, and at the final social gathering, a hearty vote of thanks was given to the preacher for the day.

Special services will be held in connection with the opening of the St. Bede's Church, Drummoyne, to-morrow. Archdeacon Langley will conduct the morning service, and the Rev. Canon Boyce will officiate at night. In the afternoon the Rev. John Dixon will address the young people of the district. There will be special musical services.

ROMAN CATHOLIC.

Cardinal Moran will preside to-day at a profession of novices at St. Vincent's Convent, Victoria-street. To-morrow at 3 p.m. he will lay the foundation-stone of the new presbytery in connection with St. Francis' Church, Paddington. On Wednesday morning next Cardinal Moran will open the new headquarters of the Sisters of the Good Samaritan, Arcadia-road, Glebe Point.

A lecture is to be delivered by the president of the Roman Catholic Young Men's Societies' Union (Rev. P. Dowling) in St. Benedict's Hall on Monday evening next, the subject of the lecture being "Owen Roe O'Neill, the Great Irish Confederate Chieftain."

PRESBYTERIAN.

The Rev. Dr. Dill Macky is about to proceed on a lecturing tour in the Riverina. He will preach at Corowa on the 20th instant, and lecture on the following day. He will proceed thence to Albury, Wagga Wagga, and Junee.

The Rev. Professor Harper will succeed the Rev. Dr. Hanson as the supply in the Woollahra charge.

On November 3 the Rev. R. C. Sands, formerly a Presbyterian minister in the Orange Free State, will be settled as the Presbyterian minister in charge of Walgett.

Mr. Andrew Stewart, a Presbyterian Evangelist, who has been for some time at work in Queensland, arrived in Sydney yesterday, and will preach in the Leichhardt Presbyterian Church to-morrow morning and evening.

The Rev. Dr. Hanson, of Marylebone, England, who represented the Presbyterian Church of England on the occasion of the consummation of the union of the Presbyterian Churches of Australia and Tasmania, in July last, who has been for some time occupying the Rev. Mr. Walker's pulpit at Woollahra, will sail for England by the P. and O. steamer on November 16.

The presbytery of New England met at Glen Innes on the 8th instant, when the call from the Inverell congregation in favour of the Rev. R. M. Legate was sustained. The induction was fixed for the 23rd instant.

The Rev. G. M. Torbett, M.A., is being called by the Presbyterian congregation at Moree.

Special thanksgiving services are to be held to-morrow at St. David's Presbyterian Church, Dobroyde, Ashfield, to celebrate the twenty-first anniversary of the induction of the Rev. George M'Innes, M.A., B.D., D.D.

The anniversary of the Sabbath school connected with St. Luke's Presbyterian Church, Redfern, will be celebrated to-morrow.

WESLEYAN.

A postponement has had to be made of the final thanksgiving demonstration in connection with the Century Commemoration movement. The date has been fixed for December 3.

At a meeting of the United Examining Committee on Tuesday it was decided to place the probationers of the different uniting Methodist Churches upon the same footing in regard to the subjects for examination immediately after next conference.

The Rev. F. Colwell will preach to-morrow morning and evening at Wesley Church, Chippendale. The evening subject will be "The Labourers' Pay and the Eight-hour Demonstration."

To-morrow the forty-second anniversary of the William-street Wesleyan Sunday School will be celebrated.

On Wednesday evening last a successful tea and public meeting was held to celebrate the reopening of the Mount Lachlan Wesleyan Sunday School, the old building having been renovated. The after meeting was held in the adjoining church. Mr. Williams, Mayor of Waterloo, presided. The Rev. Charles Stead, superintendent of the circuit, made the financial statement. Addresses were delivered by the Rev. R. Caldwell, Mr. George Crawshaw, of Stanmore, and Mr. A. Page. A programme of music was rendered by the church choir, conducted by Mr. J. Medcalf.

CONGREGATIONAL.

To-morrow the Petersham Sunday School will celebrate its forty-ninth anniversary, when special services, as announced elsewhere, will be held. Special music will be rendered by the choir, and there will also be singing by the children.

At the Dulwich Hill Congregational Church to-morrow the school connected with the church will celebrate its anniversary with special services. In the morning the Rev. W. Mathieson will preach, Dr. Dill Macky will have charge of the afternoon portion, and the church pastor, the Rev. W. Morley, will preach in the evening. The public meeting will be held on Tuesday.

Anniversary services in connection with the Pitt-street and also the Balmain Sunday schools will be held to-morrow. Special arrangements have been made for these services. There will be music by the children and choirs.

The Rev. J. Buchan, M.A., has declined a call from the Congregational Church at Gerringong.

On Friday next the thirty-sixth annual session of the meetings of the Congregational Union of New South Wales will be commenced with a rally of the Christian Endeavour Societies.

The anniversary services of the Burwood Congregational Sunday-school will be held to-morrow, with a floral service in the afternoon. On Tuesday evening the annual meeting will be held, when Mr. Orlando Baker, the American Consul, and others will speak. Special hymns and music will be rendered by the young people, and by the choir.

The new Baptist Church at Stanmore is to be opened in the beginning of December. The Rev. James Tinsley, of Spurgeon's College, London, who is to be the pastor, is expected to leave England early next month.

TOPICS FOR WOMEN.

There are fashions in flowers as in everything else, and the mode for flowers in our gardens changes nearly as often as that of the flowers in our hats (says the "Lady's Pictorial"). Indeed, they often go together. The pretty pinkish-white and lavender-blue hydrangea was a comparative stranger here (though one saw it often in French gardens) until lately, and it has rioted on our millinery at the same time that it has made itself at home in our borders and beds. It is notable, too, that the early Victorian fashion for "landscape-gardening"—that fashion which was the direct result of Byron, Scott, and the Romantic movement in literature and art—is rapidly going out, while the formal gardens of the late seventeenth and early eighteenth centuries are coming into high favour again, together, curiously enough, with such homely-looking features as the herbaceous border, the bowling alley, and such simple old-world things. Flowers which were in high fashion 30 years ago—gaudy yellow calceolaria, piercingly blue lobelia, and the like—are hardly tolerated nowadays. There is a notable chatelaine who will not permit a scarlet geranium within her entire domain.

The historic grounds of Battle Abbey contain the most enchanting little round garden. It is as unreally pretty as a picture in the Royal Academy or a "set" at Her Majesty's Theatre. Tall, sombre cypress and ilex trees surround it, throwing up into the most vivid relief the masses of emerald-green fern and a perfect riot of pink and crimson roses. But above all there are the serried battalions of phlox. Now phlox is a flower which partakes, like the rhododendron, of every exquisite tone of purple, from wine colour to palest amethyst, and of red from burning crimson to the most attenuated pinky-white. And yet the phlox, like other simple flowers, is quite a new-comer, a parvenu, as it were, in our parks and gardens. Time was when, with larkspur, marigolds, and nasturtiums, it was only permitted in the cottages of hedgers and ditchers.

Swimming contests seem popular among women in England and America. The San Francisco "Call" publishes a portrait of Lady Constance Mackenzie, who for three years in succession has carried off the ladies' challenge shield of the London Bath Club, a feat which rivets her claim to the title of the champion swimmer among the women of Great Britain. Her cousin, Miss Chaplin, was second in the last contest, which took place recently in London. Lady Constance is a very fine gymnast, as well as swimmer, and it would, according to the "Tatler," "be hard to find a prettier sight than when, dressed in her green swimming maillot and tartan waist ribbon, she passes along the line of swinging rings which are suspended above the water" of the Bath Club's tanks. Lady Constance Mackenzie is a daughter of the late Lord Cromartie.

According to a London paper the tremendous vogue of pearls this season reminds one that, as articles of jewellery, pearls were as popular among Roman ladies as they are nowadays. They were worn as ornaments on different parts of the dress, and as long chains round the neck. The supply was then apparently inexhaustible, and they were of all sizes, purity, and value. Cleopatra wore pearl ear-drops of the estimated value of £160,000. One of these pearls, as all the world knows, she dissolved in vinegar and drank at a banquet given in honour of Mark Antony. Such a costly, and withal unpleasant, draught was, perhaps, the greatest imbecility ever indulged in by a vain and love-sick woman. Britain in Roman times was supposed to have valuable stores of pearls in its waters, and this was one of the inducements to conquer the island. Julius Cæsar is said to have procured sufficient fine specimens from the rivers of North Wales to adorn a breast-plate dedicated to Venus, which he placed in her temple at Rome. Queen Catherine of Braganza is said to have possessed a fine British pearl, which was afterwards used to adorn the Royal crown of the Queen Consort. But though these beautiful objects were once found in English waters, it does not appear that at the present day there are any to be procured. England relies on the contributions from southern seas.

The pig appears to possess an attraction all his own for lady farmers. Of these fair farmeresses the Hon. Mrs. Cecil Howard specially delights in her fine breed of Berkshires, and Lady Georgina Vernon and Lady Faudel Phillips are both devoted to their porcine exhibits at various shows, for which they nearly always carry away prizes (says the "Daily Graphic.)" Lady Faudel Phillips won the highest prize for her pigs at the Hatfield Show, beating the Prime Minister on his own ground. A lady farmer, who has been successful in many ways, prides herself on nothing so much as upon her patent pig-sties, devised by herself, and which, she maintains, keep the animals cleaner and more comfortable than any other kind of sties.

A London correspondent points out that Queen Alexandra has expressed "the earnest hope that all ladies who are to be present at the Coronation will employ for their dresses, as much as possible, materials made by British manufacturers and embroidered by British workwomen." Such a wish is almost equivalent to a command, and the "World of Fashion" in England to-day is pondering the duty of patriotism and the temptation of the Rue de la Paix. The astute English buyer very often purchases from French houses silk that has originally come from Macclesfield, which, with a few shillings added, is resold in London as the finest Parisian silk. Apart from this, however, there is no reason whatever why ladies should not have their dresses made of British silk. Her late Majesty Queen Victoria wore English-made black brocade; the exquisite dress worn by the Princess Christian on her silver-wedding day came from the looms in Bethnal Green; and the sumptuous silver-embroidered wedding-dress, the description of which filled the feminine mind of all Europe with a twinge of envy, worn by the Duchess of Cornwall and York, also was made in the upper rooms of Alma-street, Bethnal Green. The famous "may-blossom" blouse that formed part of the Royal trousseau emanated from the same looms. Surely this is sufficient to prove that England can hold her own against foreign competition. One who is connected with an eminent firm in the West End stated that there should be no difficulty, as English manufacture included every type of silk, from heavy brocades to the most delicate and transparent veilings. He thought English silk was quite equal to the foreign make, both in colour and quality. In durability it was superior.

Miss Helen Mathers, the author of "Comin' thro' the Rye," holds the record among novelists (says the "Slate") for a book which has enjoyed the largest number of editions, and been the most widely read. Mr. Thomas Hardy once said that there were at least two English books to be found in every part of the world, namely, "Comin' thro' the Rye" and the Bible. This is perfectly true, as Miss Mathers' novel has, during the last two decades, passed into almost numberless editions, and has been translated into every European language, even into Sanscript. "Comin' thro' the Rye" was written when she was quite a young girl, much to the amusement of her relatives. When it was completed she sent it to Mr. Bentley, the publisher, who accepted it, offering her either £30 for the copyright or a half-share of the profits. Alas! for Miss Mathers. Had she known that her book was to be a gold mine she would have accepted the latter alternative of terms, but being anxious to buy some new dresses at the time she sold the copyright. It is, perhaps, impossible to estimate the thousands the book brought the publisher, but Miss Mathers' share, during the years of its popularity, has received something under £200. For a first book "Comin' thro' the Rye" holds a record, and neither "Cherry Ripe" nor any of its successors have equalled its popularity. Miss Helen Mathers, in private life, is Mrs. Henry Reeves, and is the wife of a well-known London consulting surgeon. She is a great conversationalist, has a keen sense of humour, and an amiable and kindly disposition. Miss Mathers looks very young, and it is difficult to believe that she has been writing novels for 26 years, and is the mother of an officer in the Lincolns, now with his regiment in Africa. Mrs. Reeves lives in a pretty house in Grosvenor-street, and spends her holidays either at Westgate-on-Sea or Hindhead. She only writes nowadays when the fit is on her, and then at great speed. On one occasion she received two commissions for serials at the same time, and completed both, and earned the comfortable sum of £500 in three weeks. Miss Helen Mathers is very enterprising, and recently published a novel, "Bam Wildfire," at a shilling, issuing it at her own risk. The book has been a great success, and the publishers are busy preparing another edition.

Is society deteriorating? is the question put by Susan Countess of Malmesbury in the "Lady's Realm." In the countess's opinion, the great curse of the day is that "we are all gorged with amusements," so that those who give themselves up to this pursuit are "shortly assailed by a desolating cloud of boredom which is only another word for surfeit." Our dinners are too long, too hot, too gorgeous, too large, and, therefore, usually too deadly dull to be enjoyable; but even if they were perfect in every detail they could not continue to amuse a person who dines out every night of his life. Still, with all their faults, they must be less intolerable than those interminable feasts of roast beef, cygnet, or pea-chick at which our grandfathers sat, flanked by bottles of port and brown sherry, from three in the afternoon till they were carried to bed or perhaps tottered unsteadily into the presence of the ladies. They drank, no doubt, to still the gnawing worm of boredom, which even then must have had some power; but now, says the countess, we bear our disillusions and satiety in soberness, if with depression and languor. Life in country houses, the writer goes on to point out, has undergone perhaps the greatest variation of all, owing to railways, telegraphs, and the scurry in which the days are spent. On this point the countess says: I am told that a book which recently appeared, and which purported to give a realistic account of the visits of a young girl to a series of country houses, presents a fair picture of what goes on in a certain set; but, if so, I must honestly declare that it is not one with which I am at all acquainted.

THREE YEARS' LIVER TROUBLE.

CLEMENTS TONIC SOLELY RESPONSIBLE FOR CURE.

THE CASE OF MRS. KATHERINE GARLAND.

(By a Special Reporter.)

"Your visit has come as a pleasant surprise to me," was the remark with which Mrs. Garland, of No. 4 Denham-street, Surry Hills, greeted the reporter, "as it saves me the trouble of writing to you about my bad attack of liver complaint, from which I suffered terribly. I am a very poor correspondent at the best of times, preferring, like most members of my sex, to receive letters rather than write them, but I am so conscious of a deep obligation to Clements Tonic for restoring me to health that I made up my mind to write expressing my gratitude, and as you have obviated that duty I will gladly give the fullest details."

"How long did your liver trouble afflict you?" asked the reporter.

"For fully three years, and I hope it will never come on again. Do you know, I believe I would rather be dead than continue like I was then. The first sign of my failing health was an unaccountable fastidiousness regarding my food. I sometimes felt like eating a little, and as soon as it was before me I should turn right against it, and do nothing but mince and turn it over, and then finally leave it alone. There was always a sickly, sour taste in my mouth, my tongue being so dry and rough, particularly in the morning, and I was often seized with a fit of vomiting, which was invariably followed by the act of belching distasteful gases from the stomach. The operation of ridding myself of the bile and sour wind from the stomach caused me no end of discomfort and pain, and blinding headaches were frequently experienced after I had been retching. Heavy pains in the shoulders and sometimes in the chest often paid me more attention than was agreeable, as they made me form the opinion that I was slowly falling into the clutches of some dreadful disease. Indeed, this idea was made all the more likely by the yellowish hue of my skin, and my eyes became a dirty green colour. Liver spots also came out on my chest. Besides the pain in the chest and shoulders, I would have severe attacks in the side, and they were so excessively tormenting that I had to apply hot fomentations, but they only gave temporary relief, and made the next attack more acute. It was next door to impossible to ever get a brief respite from my many ailments, for I could scarcely ever get to sleep, and the little repose that did occasionally come to me was marked by unpleasant dreams and restlessness. On awakening it required a great stretch of imagination to believe I had slept at all, so weary and fatigued would I feel. My limbs ached with sheer weakness, and I'm sure I was an object deserving compassion when crawling about the house in my vain efforts to do a little housework, only to sit down quite exhausted, and fret for hours. When I wanted to stand up I had to do so carefully and steadily, otherwise a fainting giddiness would take charge of me, and my head would whirl round like a spinning wheel. These fainting sensations left me dreadfully depressed and low-spirited, and I sat or lay brooding over my misfortune till I got very melancholy. There was not an ounce of flesh on my bones. So weak and debilitated had I become that I was almost afraid to look in the glass."

"Yes, thank God, I am like I used to be before my three years' sickness. But you have not learned all my troubles. The worst and most terrifying thing has yet to be described. I have not yet mentioned the anxiety my heart used to cause me. You do not think I look like a woman whose heart is diseased, do you? No; I'm sure I don't. But I was almost worried to death with that thought when I was so ill. My heart used to start suddenly beating with such violence that I dreaded it stopping or easing off, in case it would stop for ever. But it would quieten down after nearly scaring the life out of me, only to start again with renewed rapidity. I have since learned that palpitation of the heart occurs in liver disease cases when they are very serious, so mine must have been a very bad case."

"And what treatment did you receive from your doctor?"

"Oh, the usual—medicine and pills—and I don't mind telling you that the liquids they termed medicines did me no end of injury. Why, I used to loathe the thought of swallowing it; the smell was offensive and the taste was disgusting. But I persevered with them for three years, all to no purpose. Then a friend told me that Clements Tonic was the best thing for me to take, which I did, and you can see the result for yourself. Clements Tonic seemed a little bitter at first, but I could soon drink it like water, without any reluctance whatever. But even if it had been gall I would have drunk it, because it brought about my convalescence in no time. I told my doctor I would rather have Clements Tonic than all his stuff, as it was doing me good, and his threat had completely failed. He replied, 'Well, I'll not make much out of you now.' And he spoke truthfully, for I can be independent of all doctors now. I rapidly experienced ease from pains in the stomach, chest, and shoulders, and the easing of pains in the head brought delightful, soothing sleep. My appetite came back, and I did not notice any discomfort after eating. The liver spots were eradicated, and my skin recovered its usual colour. No more fears of heart disease worried me, as the palpitation disappeared with the other disagreeable symptoms. To be brief as possible, I must candidly admit that Clements Tonic is solely responsible for my cure. When my son-in-law was up in the mountains he wrote saying he was sick, and I sent him a couple of bottles of Clements Tonic to Katoomba. He subsequently thanked me, stating that the medicine I had forwarded had cured him. One of my daughters has been under treatment during the past 12 months for asthmatical bronchitis (another doctor says it is heart disease she has got). They have not done her the least good with their physic, so lately she has been taking Clements Tonic. She has had three bottles up to now, and she is making good progress in the right direction. I believe Clements Tonic will make a woman of her again. My faith in it is without limit, and I am so grateful for its effect upon myself and relatives that you can publish my testimony as much as you please."

NEW SOUTH WALES PARLIAMENT.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 11.

A CONTINUOUS SITTING.

The Legislative Assembly was sitting when the first edition of yesterday's "Herald" went to press, and the motion of censure tabled by Mr. Lee, the leader of the Opposition, was being discussed. The attendance of members was so meagre that the quorum bells were almost constantly set in motion.

Mr. DAVID STOREY reminded the committee that the Government had failed to make provision to meet the statutory obligation of £250,000 for Treasury bills authorised last year, and that, added to £270,000 required for interest on the Darling Harbour resumption expenditure, would make a deficiency of over £500,000. To that had also to be added the £277,000 lost by the Treasurer's over-estimate of what he would receive from the Federal Government. The extravagance of the Government was startling, and if given a free hand they would easily spend 12 millions of the money of the country this year. Would the labour party sit by and see that extravagance going on?

Mr. BROUGHTON made a vigorous speech, in which he contradicted the charges of extravagance which had been made against the Government by various members. The matter was one of finance, and he preferred to accept the opinions of banking experts like Mr. Russell French and Mr. T. A. Dibbs, who agreed that the finances of the State were in a sound and healthy condition. The ready manner in which the recent loan was taken up in England was also a proof of this.

Mr. J. C. L. FITZPATRICK spoke a long time, during which he traversed the whole of the Government policy. The only persons, he said, who thought they would receive £2,200,000 from the Federal Government were the Treasurer and the members of the State Cabinet. It was no good for the Premier to say that everything was all right. They would have to wait many months before this could be proved. In the meantime the Government was spending the money, and when Ministers left office they would hand over their responsibilities to others and let them settle matters as best they could.

Mr. John Hurley at 3 a.m. caused some commotion by rising and moving that "'The Rylstone Squirt' be no further heard." ("Oh! Oh!" and sensation.)

At the request of the Chairman (Mr. Cann) Mr. Hurley withdrew the term he used, and the Chairman proceeded to put the motion.

Some Hon. Members: The motion has been withdrawn.

The CHAIRMAN: The hon. member moved that the hon. member for Rylstone be no further heard. I called upon him to withdraw an offensive remark. He did so; but the motion still stands, and I will put it.

Mr. Ashton and some other members rose amid much uproar.

Mr. ASHTON said: I beg to dissent from your ruling.

The CHAIRMAN: The hon. member will resume his seat.

Mr. ASHTON: I dissent——

The CHAIRMAN: Sit down. The hon. member can dissent when I have put the question.

Mr. Ashton continued to stand at the table within a few feet of the chair. When Mr. Ashton sat down Mr. MILLER called out: "It is an attempt to bull-doze the Chairman;" and Mr. Kelly said: "Defying the Chairman." The excitement ran high, and members spoke loudly in all parts of the chamber.

Mr. Cohen rose to order, and Mr. Miller was ordered to withdraw his remark, which he did, "in deference to the Chairman."

The Chairman then put the question, though Mr. Ashton again objected.

A division was taken, and the motion to stop Mr. J. C. L. Fitzpatrick speaking further was defeated on division by 61 votes to 16.

Then Mr. Ashton formally dissented from the Chairman's ruling, claiming that the motion, having been offensively moved, was not in order. He moved, "That the point be submitted to the Speaker."

At 3.15 a.m. the committee divided on the question; the Government sat with the "Noes," and the motion was defeated.

The TREASURER (who rose at 4 a.m.) said that he was still confident that the calculations he made were correct. In addition to the main sum mentioned by Sir George Turner that gentleman stated at the end of his speech that there was a further sum calculated at £500,000 which would be divided amongst the colonies. That would give New South Wales an additional amount of £180,000, which would bring up the sum we should receive to £2,100,000. Having all the information at his command, he was just as competent to form an opinion as Sir George Turner. He had gone into the matter very carefully, and he had consulted with a number of the ablest officers in the departments. He could only assure the House that he believed the estimate he had formed would be borne out.

Mr. ASHTON: If you thought Sir George Turner was correct would you withdraw the Estimates?

The TREASURER: Yes, I would. But, of course, it is all problematical. I have exhausted every source of information to enable me to arrive at a conclusion. I say with the utmost confidence to the House and to the country that I honestly believe that £2,200,000 will be returned to the State. (Hear, hear.) Why, Sir George Turner expects £2,150,000 to be returned to Victoria.

Opposition Members: What about the charges of increased expenditure?

The TREASURER: It was all very well for members to make charges of increased expenditure. When bills were brought forward which would involve calls upon the public funds why did not members vote against them?

Opposition Members: We do.

The TREASURER: Did you vote against the Old Age Pensions Fund? (Cries of "No, no.") Why, Mr. Moore wanted us to extend the system, which would cause greater expenditure.

Mr. MOORE: Yes, and quite right, too.

The TREASURER: That might bring the hon. gentleman a little popularity, but it would not suit the Treasurer, who has to find the money.

Mr. MOORE: That is a very mean thing for you to say.

The TREASURER: The Government had gone as far in this proposal as its financial resources would allow. Indeed, he intended to take steps to see that certain people who were now in receipt of pensions who were connected with wealthy families were deprived of them. (Hear, hear.) Regarding what had been said about the payment for public works out of loan votes, it was the intention of the Government to reconsider the whole matter for the purpose of placing it on a better footing. It would have to be decided what works should be paid for out of loans and what works out of revenue. The question of passing an Act to define the matter was under consideration. At the same time it was a difficult matter to define. He was getting the necessary information with the view of enabling the Cabinet to come to a decision. (Hear, hear.) He also intended to make an honest attempt to put the system of accountancy on a good footing, and they would have to decide whether the Auditor-General should keep a separate set of books.

Mr. HAYNES: You will invent one system, and the next Treasurer will alter it.

The TREASURER added that he did not intend to speak further during the course of the debate, but it was the intention of the Premier as soon as the division on Mr. Lee's amendment was taken to move the adjournment of the financial debate to Wednesday next. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. MOORE followed the Treasurer, and repeated the assertion that Mr. Waddell estimated to receive £27,700 more than Sir George Turner said he had to give. Economy was imperative, but when the Opposition spoke of economy the Treasurer asked them why they voted for the old age pensions. That was not fair. The old-age pensions were necessary, but because the Opposition approved of them the Government was not justified in being recklessly extravagant.

Mr. WOOD, who spoke for over two hours, said he would vote for the reconsideration of the Estimates, so that the State would not have a deficit in face of the windfall of £1,300,000 which was coming from the Commonwealth Government.

At about 5.45 a.m. Mr. Price took the chair as a temporary Chairman of Committees, and he proceeded to keep the Chamber in order by repeatedly calling, "Order! Please, gentlemen. Order!" This stringent application of the rules of the House made many members restive, and Mr. Dacey declared that the hon. member for Waverley had said the proceedings were a farce.

The TEMPORARY CHAIRMAN called on Mr. Jessep to withdraw the remark.

Hon. members scanned the chamber, and Mr. Gillies announced that the hon. member for Waverley was not present.

The TEMPORARY CHAIRMAN said that in that case Mr. Dacey must withdraw his statement. Mr. Dacey rose amid loud cries of "Order," and laughter, and began to argue the question, but he was ordered to withdraw unreservedly. The Temporary Chairman appealed to the committee to support the Chair, and again commanded that either Mr. Jessep or Mr. Dacey must withdraw. At this stage Mr. Kelly found Mr. Jessep sleeping on a back bench, and waking him, called the Temporary Chairman's attention to his presence. The Temporary Chairman demanded withdrawal of the words attributed to him. Amid great laughter Mr. Jessep begged to be informed "What was the matter?" and having heard what was attributed to him assured the committee that if he used the words it must have been while he was sleeping, but he would withdraw them and apologise.

Mr. Cohen rose to speak at 7.45 a.m.

Mr. KELLY asked the Premier to consent to an adjournment for two hours to allow hon. members to get refreshments.

The CHAIRMAN (Mr. Cann): That does not lie with the Premier; I will leave the chair at the usual hour.

Mr. COHEN said that the Premier ought not to be in a hurry to close the debate. It was a marvellous thing that the House had heard nothing about the reduction of members. Because the Government found that one section of the House was opposed to the scheme it was abandoned.

Mr. MILLER: Every country member is opposed to the reduction.

Mr. COHEN said it was plain that it was never the intention of the Government to go on with the proposal.

The MINISTER FOR LANDS: How many would you have it reduced by?

Mr. COHEN: I would reduce the number to about 80 members.

The MINISTER FOR LANDS: We could spare about 40 of the Opposition.

Mr. COHEN: He was prepared to take his chance as well as the Minister for Lands. He strongly supported the Government, and said that at the time the Commonwealth was being advocated the people were given to understand that the extra taxation raised through the Customs would, when handed back to the State, be devoted to the remission of taxation.

Mr. PRICE said that a number of gentlemen who were associated with him were not attached to one side or the other. He thought, however, that a most inopportune course had been adopted. (Hear, hear). The interests of the State were greater than those of parties. The Government must keep its promises regarding the reduction of members, otherwise the independent party would vote against it.

Mr. HAYNES twitted the Government with being extremely "touchy" when under review. The Premier had made a tactical blunder in not seizing the opportunity Mr. Lee afforded him to recast his Estimates. The Government was seriously damaged by this debate. The country could now see that in order to stop free discussion on its acts the Government adopted the extraordinary course of holding the House down with an iron hand when a censure motion was tabled. A censure motion was the constitutional medium for protecting the interests of the community.

At 8.30 a.m. the House adjourned for breakfast.

When the House reassembled at 9.30 a.m. there was a large increase of members, and a number of representatives who had not been present during the night put in an appearance.

Mr. HAYNES, continuing his speech, maintained that there would be a huge deficit at the end of the year. It did not matter whether the Government was satisfied, a hundred thousand men and a hundred thousand women would declaim against the imposition of the new duties. The revenue duties would also inevitably decrease, and a fall in trade would follow. The new tariff, as a matter of fact, was aimed at the shipping industry of Sydney. It would very possibly happen that in all the departments where increases were expected during the year large decreases would follow. The Government did not propose to compensate the people for the heavy increase of taxation.

The MINISTER FOR WORKS: We have given you roads and new railways.

Mr. HAYNES: An act of justice for which new interest has to be paid.

The MINISTER FOR WORKS: We have had two years of vigorous policy.

Mr. HAYNES: Spending money. You cannot keep on going to the country with a mouth like an alligator and saying, "Come in." (Laughter.) Though the attack of the Opposition might be defeated by the iron hand and solid majority of the other side, yet the paper mache armour of the Government was penetrated—so ventilated that not only was daylight let into it, but one could read in it at night time. (Loud laughter.) The Government had many wondrous schemes. They all remembered Mr. See's once famous project for making money at the Government Printing Office. (Laughter). That scheme would have been all right but that it would have taken eight hours per day to print the notes, eight hours to distribute them amongst the workers, and eight hours to travel the country in an effort to cash the things. (Renewed laughter.)

Mr. DICK said that a careful Treasurer would have waited until the Commonwealth Treasurer had delivered his Budget before committing himself.

Mr. WEBSTER said that invariably, no matter what Government was in power, the expenditure would go on, and that the tendency was for it to increase. The Opposition gave no pledge that it would stop wasteful expenditure.

Mr. LONSDALE said that on the Treasurer's statement there must be a deficit. Consumption would decrease, because people had bought largely before the tariff came on. The Minister for Works, in his address to the electors, made profuse promises, but none of them had been carried out. Those promises referred to the amount which would come to this State out of the Federal surplus, but the surplus was all spent and the promises unfulfilled.

Mr. SLEATH said that many of the arguments used during the debate were practically beating the wind. He did not agree with the contention of the Labour Party that no new railway should be constructed unless it could be made to pay at once, but he was at one with that party in saying that loan money should not be spent in putting up timber bridges, wooden houses, and so on. He saw it stated in the papers that the Government yacht was to be placed at the disposal of the member for King division to go with a party to Norfolk Island. The money for the purchase of this yacht was not voted for such a purpose as this. He held in his hand a document by Mr. R. A. Price on the breeding of remounts, which had been printed at the taxpayers' expense. The most of this document was poetry. (Laughter). This was what the Government paid for in printing and publishing. If the Government wanted a report on horse-breeding it ought to get one from a man of wide experience on the subject. Abuses of this kind ought to be stopped. The Government should give immediate attention to a Mining Bill, a Mines Inspection Bill, and a Land Bill, which would give relief to Crown tenants in the Western division. He believed that the time had come when unreproductive works should be paid for out of revenue.

Mr. DAVIDSON said if the estimate of the Federal Treasurer as to the amount to be returned to the State was correct and there was no advance in the State revenue, the year, instead of ending with a surplus of £24,000, would end with a deficiency of over £250,000. He believed that the Federal tariff would stop trade and that the Federal Treasurer would receive less than he expected. He would support the amendment moved by the leader of the Opposition.

Mr. DALEY said the tenants in the resumed area of the Rocks had not much to boast of. The Government was very quick in resuming the property and in collecting the rents, but was very slow in paying the claims.

Mr. E. M. CLARK said the printing of the document bearing Mr. Price's name, and referred to by Mr. Sleath, was not authorised by the Printing Committee.

The PREMIER said he would inquire into the matter.

THE DIVISION.

At half-past 1 o'clock the division on Mr. Lee's amendment was taken.

The amendment was negatived by 58 votes to 26.

THE FINANCIAL DEBATE.

Mr. LEE said the Treasurer had voluntarily pledged himself to adjourn the debate when the division on the amendment had been taken.

The TREASURER: Nothing of the sort.

Mr. LEE: The Treasurer made a deliberate statement.

The TREASURER said the statement he made was quite conditional on a division being taken when he spoke.

Mr. LEE: Nothing of the sort.

The PREMIER said there was nothing to be gained by adjourning the debate. He intended to get on with business, and there were one or two important bills to be discussed.

Mr. LEE: It is a distinct breach of faith.

The PREMIER said he took exception to this remark, and he implored the House to get on with business.

The TREASURER said he had told Mr. Lee in the early hours of the morning that if a division were at once taken they would adjourn, but the condition was not fulfilled.

Mr. CARRUTHERS said that now that the amendment was disposed of, the debate on the financial statement should be resumed, and he remembered reading in print a statement that the Government would allow the financial debate to stand over until Wednesday.

The PREMIER said that in the debate just closed the financial statement had been pretty exhaustively discussed. If the debate were adjourned until Wednesday next it would practically mean the loss of another week.

Mr. D. O'CONNOR said he had always deprecated the cry of city against country, seeing that the city contained a third of the population of the whole State, and that it paid the major portion of the taxation of the country. The members of the present Ministry were men of energy and ability.

Mr. JESSEP: What has this to do with the question?

Mr. D. O'CONNOR: In the language of Dr. Johnson, he could give the hon. member reasons, but not brains. He offered his heartiest congratulations to the Government and the House and the country on the sound financial conditions they were living under now, and as they had attained a position of prosperity which was likely to do so much for the country, hon. members should bury their differences and unite in the interests of the community generally.

Mr. POWER said that, so far as he had seen, the Government had done everything that was fair to all parties in the House. He believed that the tariff, about which so much had been said, would create a lot of industries. He hoped one of the first matters which the Government would take up would be the establishment of a State bank.

Mr. KELLY, referring to the old age pensions, said that the Act required amendment, because, as the Act stood, at present many persons who were really entitled to pensions were unable to obtain them. He could not understand why £7000 should be paid to the Bank of New South Wales as commission for paying the pensions. He also thought the Government should take the earliest opportunity to bring in a Local Government Bill, which had been dangling before the eyes of the people for many years past, and that hon. members should be prepared to make sacrifices to obtain that legislation. As to the Estimates, he intended to go through them with the pruning knife wherever it was necessary. He urged upon the Minister of Works the necessity of going on with public works in order to give employment to those who required it.

Mr. JESSEP said he agreed with the hon. member that there was ample room for administering the pruning knife to the Estimates. He was glad to see that the Premier intended to carry out his promise in regard to the grants to municipalities. He was also glad to see that there was a proposal to send commercial agents to England to represent the country. This was a matter that ought to have received the attention of the Government many years ago, as New South Wales had suffered for want of proper commercial representation in England.

The resolution was then agreed to without division.

The House having resumed the resolution was reported and agreed to, and leave was given to sit again.

MINING BILL.

The House resolved into committee to consider the expediency of bringing in a Mining Bill.

The PREMIER moved,—"That it is expedient to bring in a bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to mining, to establish Mining Appeal Courts, to give further facilities for the development of mining, and for other purposes."

Mr. MOORE said he was sorry the Minister for Mines had not seen his way to bring in a short bill to extend the provisions of the Mining on Private Lands Bill to all minerals.

The motion was agreed to, and the bill introduced and read the first time.

MINES INSPECTION BILL.

The House resolved into committee to consider the expediency of introducing the Mines Inspection Bill.

The PREMIER moved,—"That it is expedient to bring in a bill to make better provision for the regulation and inspection of mines other than coal and shale mines; to regulate the treatment of the products of such mines; and for purposes incidental to, or consequent on those objects."

The motion was agreed to, and the bill introduced and read the first time.

STOCK DISEASES (TICK) BILL.

The House resolved into committee to consider the expediency of introducing the Stock Diseases (Tick Bill).

The PREMIER moved,—"That it is expedient to bring in a bill to make provision for the prevention and cure of certain diseases in stock and to amend the Diseases in Sheep Act of 1866, the Diseases in Sheep Acts Amendment Act of 1878, and the Diseases in Sheep Acts Amendment Act of 1882." He said that there was a serious danger of tick coming into New South Wales, and it was desired to have better means of keeping out the disease.

The motion was agreed to, and the bill introduced and read the first time.

MINERS ACCIDENT RELIEF ACT AMENDMENT BILL.

The House resolved into committee to consider the expediency of introducing a Miners Accident Relief Act Amendment Bill.

On the motion of the Premier it was resolved that it was expedient to bring in a bill, and it was introduced and read the first time.

MAITLAND HOSPITAL ENABLING BILL.

The PREMIER moved the second reading of the Maitland Hospital Enabling Bill, and said that the old building was in a dilapidated condition. Some time ago the House voted £4000 towards the erection of a new one. There was another sum of £4000 belonging to the institution, but it was not available, and the present bill was to render it available.

The motion was agreed to after a short discussion, and the bill taken through committee without amendment.

ADJOURNMENT.

The House at 6.35 p.m. was counted out, and stood adjourned until half past 4 o'clock on Tuesday next.

ST. JOHN AMBULANCE ASSOCIATION.

The monthly meeting of the executive committee of the St. John Ambulance Association was held at the association's office, Equitable-buildings. There were present: Lieutenant-Colonel Parrott (in the chair), Captain G. Lane Mullins, Dr. T. Storie Dixson, Messrs. E. R. Moser, J. W. Hope, Hanbury Davies, and J. Barre Johnston, hon. treasurer.

The chairman reported that brigade work was progressing favourably, and that officers were being selected for the different divisions who will enrol members. It was proposed by Mr. E. R. Moser, and seconded by Mr. J. W. Hope, that Captain G. Lane Mullins be appointed chief superintendent of the brigade, and Lieutenant-Colonel Rancland deputy-commissioner for No. 2 district (Newcastle). Carried. The Hon. J. See was unanimously elected a vice-president of the association, that gentleman having signified his willingness to accept the position. Dr. Corney, chief medical officer, Suva, Fiji, was appointed lecturer to the Suva branch. Dr. H. St. John Mitchell was appointed examiner to the Barham class. It was moved by Colonel Parrott and carried that the annual report and balance-sheet be adopted. It was resolved that the committee of the Hospital Saturday fund be asked to nominate one of their number for election as an honorary life member of this centre of the association in recognition of assistance given from the fund. Mr. W. Hazlett was appointed an honorary life member of this centre in recognition of his donation given to assist brigade and transport work at the Western Suburbs branch. A vote of thanks was passed to Major Roth, D.S.O., for delivering a lecture on South Africa in aid of the funds. A vote of thanks was also passed to the ladies and gentlemen who assisted in making the lecture a financial success. The amount of £22 15s net has been handed in to the treasurer.

"Home Nursing" classes have been formed as follows:—Darling Point, Miss F. Roberts, hon. secretary; Pymble, Mrs. Rooff, hon. secretary; Glebe, Miss Mattie Jackson, hon. secretary.

SALES OF WORK.

SISTERS OF THE CHURCH.

The annual sale in aid of the Sisters of the Church in Sydney was held on Thursday in St. James' Parish Hall, Phillip-street. The sale was under the patronage of the Lieutenant-Governor, Sir Frederick Darley, Miss Darley, and Lady Graham.

Miss Darley, accompanied by Miss Bloomfield, and attended by Captain Watt, A.D.C., arrived shortly before 2.30 p.m., and was met by Sisters of the Church, also by the Rev. W. I. Carr-Smith and the Rev. R. M'Keown. Miss Darley declared the sale open. The Rev. W. I. Carr-Smith proposed a vote of thanks to Miss Darley for opening the sale, and it was carried by acclamation. The active business of the stallholders was then proceeded with. During the afternoon numbers of the orphans, boys and girls, in care of the Sisters, rendered an action song. The performance was much admired, and the healthy, well-cared-for, and happy appearance of the children was commented on in favourable terms.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The article which appeared in your issue of the 4th instant on the "Care of the Public Parks," based on Mr. Maiden's report on wanton spoliation at the Centennial Park, must have interested many who wish to see such an advance in public taste as would render such acts as rare as they are in both public and private pleasure grounds in the United States, but the commercial interests referred to, which prompt others to the plucking of rare and valuable blooms, equally require to be combated here. Our two National Parks are unalienable, and their natural beauties should be conserved for the pleasure of future generations, when advancing settlement has inevitably destroyed them elsewhere, as at Manly, Illawarra, Gosford, &c.

The trustees of this northern National Park have done everything which their limited means have permitted to block the depredations of the flower-sellers who obstruct our city thoroughfares, with the result that the native flora has largely recovered its former luxuriance, and this season was especially abundant and beautiful in many places which are largely frequented. But we must still consider ourselves beaten for the present. There was a large collection of waratahs on a flat near the main road passing Bobbin Head which we had watched, and which last week were in full bloom; but in one night some men looted the whole of them, and destroyed most of the plants. Their cart tracks were plainly visible next morning. The proposed general legislation on the subject unfortunately fell through, having perhaps aimed at too much; but sooner or later I trust that some of these depredators (who are mostly known to us) may receive a lesson under our bylaws, which will spoil their profits, and teach them to respect the property of their fellow-citizens.

E. DU FAUR, Managing Trustee.

The men deputed three to represent them at an interview with Mr. M'Donald in regard to the shearing agreement. The men wished to shear under a verbal agreement, which required that all shearers must be unionists, and stipulated the payment of £1 per hundred in or out, a copy of the conference agreement to be posted in the shed under no rules. Mr. M'Donald declined to accept the terms, and would only shear under the Pastoralists' Union agreement. The shearers considered this too arbitrary. Neither side showed a disposition to surrender. All the shearers got on their horses and rode away from the station. Not the slightest illfeeling was shown by the master or the men. A TRESPASS CASE.

DENILIQUIN, Friday.

The Circuit Court has been engaged for the past three days in hearing a trespass action between Andrew O'Keefe and James Malone. Damages were laid at £1000. The declaration counts were whether defendant committed a trespass on certain annual leases, and a trespass outside the leases. The annual lease formerly was held by O'Keefe, who allowed it to lapse. Malone then applied for the land, which included several thousand acres, for annual lease. The local land board recommended the granting of the lease to Malone; but later on O'Keefe interviewed the Minister for Lands, who refused to act on the board's recommendation. Consequently the land reverted to O'Keefe, who has since paid the Government rent. The action arose out of trespasses alleged to have been committed on these leases by Malone, and after lengthy addresses by Mr. Canaway on behalf of the plaintiff and Mr. Pike for the defendant, and the summing up of Mr. Justice Simpson, the jury returned a verdict for plaintiff for damages committed on the annual lease of £45. The Mayor of Sydney (Sir James Graham, M.D.) presided at a meeting at the Town Hall on Thursday to further a benefit concert to Miss Nellie Cooke prior to her departure to continue her studies in Europe. After discussion November 23 was fixed for the date of the concert, and three separate committees were formed. These were general committees of ladies (with Miss Eva Mylott as hon. secretary) and of gentlemen, and an executive committee consisting of Dr. T. Green, Messrs. Colin Caird, C. St. Julian, W. I. B. Mote, F. Bunting, J. M. Callaghan (hon. treasurer), and H. B. Brewer and George Grimm (hon. secretaries).

THE WOOL TRADE.

Friday Evening.

A very auspicious opening of the weekly series of local sales was made on Monday last, 7th instant, and a good week's business done, having regard to the comparative smallness of the offerings. There was an excellent attendance of buyers, all sections of the trade being represented, and several Melbourne operators helped to swell the ranks of purchasers. Considering that the opening day was a public holiday, the attendance of those outside the buying circle was very numerous, and the Royal Exchange saleroom, large as it is, was well filled.

Competition from the start was very animated and vigorous, Continental, and particularly French, buyers being keen bidders. For everything except crossbreds and faulty lambswool there was a very strong demand, and though the earlier sales of the week were a trifle stronger than the later ones for scoured and faulty merinos, good wools sold exceedingly well throughout. A comparison with the last local sales in September shows a little irregularity, some classes selling a trifle better and others not quite so well, but as compared with last season's opening rates there is a well-defined improvement of 12½ to 15 per cent., and at this rate there is no question that present local values are more than equal to London parity. A very good general selection was presented during the four selling days, some superior lots of both greasy and scoured being included, and the market may be said to have been very fairly tested.

Greasy merino sold up to 10¾d—this price being realised for 15 bales 1st hoggets of the A bell in diamond over Scone brand, a fine, shafty wool, light in grease and free.

Scoured realised to 18d, the following lots selling at this figure, namely:—30 bales first combing marked Dervock, from Queensland, of good quality, excellent colour, free, and of nice appearance; and 5 bales super combing H of the D over Muckerawa brand, from Brewarrina, a wool of very nice quality, splendid colour, very free, bright, and attractive.

We are requested to mention that the W over WW over Moree wool reported to have been sold at 7½d was passed in at this price, and that the WJP over Eulalia, 14 bales brought 7¾d, not 7d as reported.

Quotations based on the actual sales of the week are given as follow:—

Cable messages were received to-day regarding the termination of the fifth series of sales in London, and on the whole the news is fairly satisfactory. Merino descriptions show an advance of 5 to 10 per cent. as compared with the closing rates of the July series, and fine crossbreds also improved to the extent of 7½ per cent. Medium and coarse crossbreds show a decline of 5 per cent., and the market is reported to have closed firmly. Of the 305,000 bales available 141,000 bales were taken by the home trade, 127,000 bales for the Continent, and 3000 bales for America, 34,000 bales being unoffered or withdrawn.

The relapse of 5 per cent. which took place earlier in the series seems to have been recovered in the case of merino wool, but medium and coarse crossbreds which at the opening showed an improvement of par to 5 per cent., have not only lost this but have gone 5 per cent. to the bad. The early promise of good clearances being effected has not been carried out, the withdrawals amounting to about 11 per cent. of the total available. Still, this is rather less than was feared at one time would be the case.

ABSOLUTE SECURITY against loss by FIRE. The Royal Insurance Co.'s Funds exceed £10,000,000; annual revenue over £3,000,000. 74 Pitt-street. Tel., 1370.—Advt.

The Sydney Morning Herald.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1901.

Though half of General Louis Botha's force managed to escape through the British cordon, they had to leave their waggons behind.

Lieutenant-General Lyttelton was unable to complete the cordon by blockading from the Natal and Zululand frontiers across to Vryheid.

The British forces commanded by Generals Dartnell and Bethune are at Eskowe, Zululand, having experienced much hardship in their march.

The death sentences passed on colonial rebels in Commandant Lotter's force have been commuted to penal servitude for life.

Commandant Scheepers's force has been split up into small parties, and the British are in active pursuit of each of them.

Sir Redvers Buller, in defending his appointment to the command of the First Army Corps, created a great sensation by stating that he had suggested to Sir George White that it might be necessary to surrender Ladysmith to the Boers.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer declares that the extension of martial law in the Cape Colony was necessary in order to check treasonable help being sent to the enemy through the colony.

The remnants of Commandant Scheepers's force are returning northwards by two different routes.

At Bethulie, in the south of the Orange River Colony, 17 Boers have been captured by the 1st Royal Dragoons.

General Louis Botha has crossed the Bevaan River, north of Vryheid.

The chain of ports in Northern Afghanistan erected by the late Abdurrahman Khan has been fitted with electric searchlights.

Prince Ching has requested the withdrawal of all foreign business establishments from Peking on the ground that it is not a "treaty port."

The opening of Peking to foreign trade has been reserved for discussion in connection with the commercial treaties.

The demand of Prince Ching for the withdrawal of the foreign houses originated from a merchant protesting against the octroi, and alleging that his goods were intended for the Legations.

Prince Ching replied that no octroi would be imposed if the goods were ordered by the Legations at the treaty ports.

The Duke and the Duchess of Cornwall and York have arrived at Toronto.

At the end of September there were 1,414,000 gross tons of merchant shipping in course of construction in British shipbuilding yards. This is a record.

Our Casino correspondent states that dissatisfaction exists with the result of the day labour employed on the Casino-Lismore line.

The Factories Bill has passed through committee in the New Zealand House of Representatives.

The bill fixes the hours of male factory hands at 48 hours per week, and of female hands at 45.

The New Zealand Government intends to move in the direction of securing an improved shipping service with Australia.

At a meeting of tramway employees yesterday, the resolutions carried at the meeting held on Thursday evening were endorsed.

The Timber Industries Association held a meeting on Wednesday, when it was reported that the membership roll was increasing satisfactorily.

The deaths in the metropolis last month were 99 in excess of the quinquennial average for September.

At Marrickville, yesterday, William Johnson, formerly a tramway employee, attacked his wife with a hammer and afterwards committed suicide.

The Imperial Government has declined to contribute £7000 per annum towards the cost of the administration of New Guinea.

A Supply Bill, covering three months, was passed through both Houses of the Commonwealth Parliament yesterday.

Mr. Reid tabled a motion adverse to the adoption of the financial and tariff proposals of the Government, after which the House of Representatives immediately adjourned until Tuesday next.

The Senate, in view of the motion of censure pending, adjourned until Wednesday, 23rd instant.

At a meeting of boot manufacturers yesterday it was decided that the price of boots be at once advanced in proportion to the cost of production consequent on the imposition of the federal tariff.

A motion was also carried that the increase be from 5 to 7½ per cent. on all boots, shoes, and slippers made from imported material subject to duty.

Major-General French yesterday inspected the Australian Horse at the Goulburn encampment, and congratulated the troops on the creditable display made.

The censure motion submitted by Mr. Lee in the Legislative Assembly was negatived by 58 votes to 26.

The New Zealand Government intends to ask the Parliament of the colony to renew the mail contract with Messrs. Spreckels and Co. for three years.

The conditions of the proposed contract are stipulated payments for packages and letters or the payment of a subsidy of £20,000 per annum, provided a British-owned steamer registered in New Zealand is employed in the service.

An alternative proposal is to be submitted in favour of a Vancouver service.

The Premier of Queensland stated yesterday that if the Pacific Islands Labourers Bill were passed Queensland would appeal to the Governor-General.

Mr. Philp added that if the appeal to the Governor-General failed Queensland would lay the matter before Mr. Chamberlain, thus putting its case before the highest tribunal in the realm.

The Stock and Share market yesterday was without material alteration.

The Mining market was quiet yesterday, and there were few alterations in prices.

Trade is still very unsettled in the Import market, although prices are gradually becoming more fixed. In some instances importers are endeavouring to obtain the whole of the newly imposed duties, but in the majority of cases they have to be satisfied with but a small proportion.

PROSPERITY THAT IS APPALLING.

In one of the numbers of "The Friend" Coleridge tells a very pretty story, too long for quotation, the moral of which is that it is useless to be sane in a world of madmen. And since genius is often supposed to be closely akin to madness, the latter term may be used without giving offence. Certainly the time-honoured liberal and freetrader must have had some such feeling on reading the details of the proposed Commonwealth tariff. Let us watch the effects of commercial restriction and semi-prohibition when followed elsewhere. A notable opportunity for doing so is afforded by the last speech of the late President M'Kinley, delivered at the opening of the Buffalo Fair. It is true that one is always tempted to attach a superstitious value to the last utterances of eminent men, more particularly when there was nothing at the moment to indicate that the chapter of life was to be suddenly closed. Without, however, supposing that the late President had any presentiment of his approaching end, and accepting his words as the calm deliberate judgment of one who had exceptional opportunities for forming a correct opinion, his reference to the present position of the United States is very suggestive. "This country," he said, "is in a state of unexampled prosperity. The figures are appalling." Standing by themselves these sentences are startling. Read in connection with the context they are even more likely to arrest attention and to awaken inquiry. It is not necessary for us to inquire, for our present purpose, whether this unexampled prosperity is the direct result of the fiscal policy of the United States, or whether it has been brought about in spite of it. It is sufficient to know that it is coincident with the maintenance and development of a policy of protection.

Seeing that the keynote of the dominant party in the Federal Legislature is restriction in almost every direction, and that the United States are constantly appealed to as furnishing a striking proof of the soundness of such a policy, it is well to recall the difference in the position of the two countries. For if this is not kept in view we may get figures that are appalling enough without achieving prosperity that will be unexampled. Passing over the marked difference between the conditions of the earlier settlement of the Eastern States of America, which are not without their influence on the national life to-day, and the conditions under which settlement began in the various Australian States, we come to other differences that must not be overlooked. For many years the States were regularly receiving an influx of population from the old world, and it is only within the last two or three years that this influx has been seriously checked. For many years there have been no barriers to freetrade in her own borders, and her ever-increasing population has created a demand which required an enormous commercial and industrial machinery to supply it. As compared with Australia America has not only a very large home population, but she is within comparatively easy reach of the European markets. As compared with the United States Australia is comparatively an unknown country even to well-informed persons in England and on the Continent of Europe. Her home market is very limited, and judging from the experiences of the last two years she is not likely to attract any considerable number of immigrants from Great Britain or other European countries. It is of the first importance that she should keep in touch with the outside world so that she may find outlets for her natural products. If it is true of the United States as the late President said, "we must not repose in fancied security that we can for ever sell everything, and buy little or nothing," the obvious truth embodied in these words applies with tenfold force to the Commonwealth in her present position.

The late President saw that prosperity is, after all, only a relative term, and moreover that it is possible, as the homely proverb assures us, to pay too dearly for your whistle. The figures which tell of a large aggregate prosperity may nevertheless be appalling. If in a district of a thousand square miles the average rainfall is over thirty inches, that is small consolation to the residents in one-third of the district where the fall is so scanty that vegetation has been nearly burnt up, or to the residents in another third of the district where the rain has been so heavy as to destroy the crops. And while it is very difficult for a stranger to form a correct opinion on the social and economic conditions of a country, we know enough of the North American States to be aware that by the side of this unexampled prosperity there is a large amount of discontent and suffering. But it was another feature of the present position of the country to which the late President was specially referring. The great and consistent apostle of commercial exclusiveness, earnestly and we may be sure, as the result of honest conviction, preached the opposite gospel. "A policy of goodwill and friendly trade relations will," he said, "prevent reprisals. Reciprocity treaties are in harmony with the spirit of the times; measures of retaliation are not." Hence he suggested that the tariffs no longer needed for revenue or to encourage industries at home should be used to extend their markets abroad. From commercial exclusiveness and a restrictive policy of protective duties to "fairtrade" is a considerable step, though reciprocity treaties are seldom of long duration, and frequently give rise to jealousy and misunderstanding. At best they are only a halfway house between absolute protection and absolute freetrade. "Yes," says the Australian protectionist, "that is exactly what we want to accomplish." A state of unexampled prosperity is to be brought about by a fiscal policy similar to that of the United States. Then, when the figures become appalling, an advance may be made to the half-way house of fairtrade; and finally, when we are strong enough and have nothing to fear, a bold advance may be made into free-trade. It is at this point that two questions are suggested. First, are not the conditions here so totally different from the conditions which prevailed in the United States that there is no likelihood of the unexampled prosperity being reached by this route, though there is a probability that the results will have to be recorded in figures that are appalling in more senses than one? And is there not much force in the philosophy of the mythical savage who was told, in answer to his inquiry why the civilised man worked so hard, that it was in order that he might afterwards be able to live without work. Said the savage, I live without work now. The reply may not be economically accurate. But one may ask why travel the troublesome road of a restrictive commercial policy, in order at a subsequent stage to get into the uncertain and disappointing region of fairtrade, and finally to reach the King's highway of free-trade? Why not get into the road at once and so avoid all the troubles of the intermediate stages?

ANTARCTIC EXPLORATION.

The opening of the new century will be memorable, if for nothing else, for the development of the exploring spirit with regard to the Antarctic Ocean. In the nineteenth century men were busily engaged in Arctic exploration. They wanted, in popular parlance, to find the North Pole, though, as everybody knew, the discovery of this position—this piece of terrestrial furniture, as many regarded it—would to a very slight extent, if at all, tend to promote the social and commercial intercourse of nations. Indeed, the purely scientific nature of the discoveries made with regard to the North Pole may be said to have exercised a large influence on the minds of persons fitted to undertake exploring expeditions in that direction. The general impression conveyed by the reports of navigators who have braved successfully the dangers of the enterprise is that the passage so eloquently praised in past years is now useful mainly for the purpose of scientific exploration. The world is a busy world nowadays, and there are people and nations who are not disposed to devote any sensible proportion of their wealth to the elucidation of scientific problems. However we may regret this tendency it is still to the fore. If such a north-west passage could be discovered as would mean a reduction in freights or in the length of a voyage, an English-speaking community would be strongly disposed to give the movement what help was possible.

Explorers are now turning their attention towards the Antarctic Ocean and the surrounding regions, and already there are several expeditions in the field. This activity may be explained by the narrowness of the earth's circumference which yet remains for absorption. There is an ever-dwelling eagerness for expansion in the minds of the great nations of the earth, and there are only certain channels in which their efforts may be directed. It is not to be supposed that the expeditions now devoted to the exploration of the Antarctic regions will make any large or valuable additions to the territorial dominions of the Powers concerned. But if these Powers do not advance in an Antarctic direction, where are they to obtain the additions to their respective empires which they require? All over the known world agents of European Powers have been busily engaged in "pushing the claims" of their principals. America is barred to them by the Monroe doctrine; Australia is purely British; Africa is already annexed, various influences being paramount in different parts of the continent. Russia has assimilated such parts of China as she could grasp; India is in the hands of Great Britain. What new land is there that a great Power can seize to hold for its own benefit primarily—for the benefit, secondly, of the residents and of persons who trade with it? It is just possible, though it is distinctly improbable in view of the information to hand, that the Antarctic expeditions now on foot will result in direct pecuniary benefit to the countries which have financed them. The object of these expeditions is, however, scientific rather than imperial. They want to add to the sum of general information on the subject of the Antarctic regions, rather than lay claim to possessions which would, so far as is at present known, be utterly useless from a territorial point of view.

It is satisfactory then, so far as it goes, to find that so much attention is being paid by scientists, backed by public spirited persons and States, to the exploration of new countries. There has always been the temptation to British mariners to sail for undiscovered ports, and to plant the British flag in countries hitherto unknown to civilisation. It was this temptation which led to the foundation of the colonial empire of England in the days when the United Kingdom had not yet been born, and when adventurers such as Drake and Frobisher held their lives in their hands in their voyages. The same spirit has animated their successors since, and thus it is that one can hardly read of an adventure without finding that it was either engineered by British brains and hands, or else helped along by British money and general support. There are now, for instance, several expeditions on foot for the Antarctic regions. They have been instituted solely for scientific purposes, so far as can be gathered from the official announcements made with regard to them. So far as concerns the most important of these expeditions, the "Discovery," which is to bear the fortunes of the National Antarctic Expedition, is officered by Englishmen, and the King found time in the midst of his many engagements to personally visit the vessel, and to wish those concerned God-speed. There is also Dr. Nordenskjold's Expedition, which is to work in with the British and German parties. Between them all a considerable addition should be made to the general knowledge of the territory which is to be explored. Especially is such knowledge to be desired in regard to climatic conditions, and astronomers particularly will look forward with interest to the announcement of the results that will surely be achieved by the independent investigations of the scientists who accompany each expedition. It would be easy to minimise the value of such investigations, but they have their practical as well as their immediately scientific use. Though it may perhaps not interest the world at large to know exactly the ascertained limits of the aurora australis, yet this knowledge is of intrinsic value, and it leads up to or will be accompanied by certain information as to the country explored, as to its adaptability in any sense to human use and so forth. Our general knowledge of the Antarctic regions is strictly limited, and the expeditions now engaged there or on their way should be able by a system of co-operation to add largely to the sum of this knowledge. For one thing we may expect a considerable increase to the data upon which meteorological information is now founded, and if to this be added the foundation for trustworthy additions to the study of astronomy the expeditions will certainly not have been despatched in vain.

THE PITCAIRN ISLANDERS.

The lives of the little community made up of the survivors of the Mutiny of the Bounty are lived in uneventful quiet, but from time to time reports reach the outer world giving some account of their history. The last official news of them was contained in a Parliamentary paper issued three years ago, and now a further report to the Colonial Office gives us later intelligence concerning them. The difference between these two reports, received at such comparatively short intervals, is sufficiently striking to call for comment. The former presented a most gloomy picture of the state and prospects of the islanders, while the latter shows them in the guise of a fairly prosperous and contented people. In the earlier report we were told that the people read nothing, and refused literature that was offered to them. They did nothing all day, and their moral tone was distinctly bad. The practice of inter-marriage has been general, for without the introduction of fresh blood the population has trebled itself in 34 years, and many evils were traced to this source. The men, it was said, were inclined to stoop, the women were disfigured by the loss of their front teeth, and both sexes had "a tired, weary, hungry look." These symptoms the doctor of the Royalist who visited the island described as due to "degeneration" or "devolution." Their intelligence was weak, and the people if questioned had to be spoken to in plain simple language, or else you were not understood. The report said: "Lax in morals, weak in intellect, they are fast degenerating, and unless something is speedily done to alter their condition they will probably drift into hopeless imbecility." This terrible forecast, however, has not been borne out, and moreover, in the light of recent facts, it hardly seems to have been warranted.

On March 31 last, Commander Knowling, of his Majesty's ship Icarus, sent from Honolulu a report to the Admiralty of a visit he had just paid to Pitcairn Island. On the ship's arrival at Bounty Bay a boatload of islanders came off. The chief magistrate, Mr. James R. M'Coy, reported that all on the island were well in health, that there were 126 in population, the adult females being rather in excess of the males. Supplies were abundant of the following things:—Poultry and goats, cocoanuts, bananas, pineapples, marsh and water melons, limes, oranges, mangoes, pumpkins, coffee, tomatoes, sweet potatoes, Indian corn, and arrowroot. The captain of the Icarus on landing was enabled to see a good deal of the lives of the people, and his observations present them in a very favourable light. The adult males have to give all their labour during the early part of the day—that is, from after breakfast at 5 a.m. until 2 p.m.—to work for the public good, directed by the local Parliament of seven. At the present time 29 men are available, and their labour is divided between building a new church, a new whaler, and the necessary boat work. Dinner is at 2 p.m., and the remainder of the day is employed in gardening and other pursuits about the respective homes. Disease, we are informed, appears to be still almost unknown, and the leading people prefer to continue, as hitherto, without medicine. The oldest man on the island, a grandson of the master's mate on the Bounty, is aged 83, two other men are over 75, and the oldest woman is 72. We are told that none of these old people suffers from anything beyond the weakness of old age, and all seem thoroughly contented and happy. No one in the community smokes or uses intoxicating liquor. The men, women, and children, says Captain Knowling, seem without exception in robust health and full of vigour. "Full employment," the report says, "is found for everyone. The discipline seems to be all it should be, the islanders contented, and the day's work often, to my knowledge, such as would astonish many a British labourer, as it astonished on more than one occasion myself and the ship's company." Referring to the reports that were current that the islanders were rapidly deteriorating in morals and physique, Captain Knowling says that in the opinion of himself and his officers they are unfounded.

The picture presented by this latest authority of the little far off island settlement harmoniously working out its destiny is an interesting one to contemplate. Communistic principles and primitive simplicity mark its lot. Absence of alcohol and tobacco, no medicines, no question of wages, no post, telegraph, or telephone, no newspapers, no communication with the outside world, save for the chance coming of vessels at long intervals—what a strange prospect is raised before our minds! These adjuncts of civilisation play so large a part in the lives of ordinary humanity that we find it hard to understand the feelings of those of our own kin who live, and not only live but thrive, without most of them. Sturdy, contented, and industrious, they are in possession of qualities sometimes wanting in the lives of their more favoured brothers and sisters. With regard to the future of the island, Captain Knowling points out that among the principal difficulties which may arise are the selection of a suitable head among the men to act as successor to Mr. M'Coy, the surplus of females in the present and rising generation, and the tendency of the islanders to use a sort of language of their own made up of pidgin English and a clipping of English words. These difficulties, however, can be surmounted by means which are suggested in the lucid report to which we have referred, so that we may expect the settlement to continue to advance in its career of peaceful prosperity.

Continuous Sitting of the Legislative Assembly.—The sitting of the Legislative Assembly which began at half-past 4 o'clock on Thursday afternoon lasted until 25 minutes to 7 last night. The division on the censure motion was taken at half-past 1 yesterday afternoon, and resulted in a victory for the Government by 32 votes. The financial debate was continued during the afternoon and was concluded, and four new bills were introduced in committee. The Maitland Hospital Enabling Bill was read the second time and taken through committee, and the Premier a few minutes before 6 o'clock moved the adjournment of the House. Several questions on the motion for adjournment were asked, and eventually, there not being a quorum present, the House was counted out at the time mentioned.

"Life in London."—Some speculations on the subject of the British Government raising the flag of fair trade form the introduction to Mr. Lucy's letter (published to-day). Another interesting subject referred to is the holding of Drawing-rooms under the command of the King. His Majesty is believed to have in contemplation material reforms affecting these functions. Other subjects are also dealt with by Mr. Lucy.

Garden Party at Admiralty House.—Rear-Admiral Sir Lewis and Lady Beaumont entertained a large number of friends yesterday afternoon at an "at home" at Admiralty House. The weather was not all that could have been desired, but notwithstanding the wet conditions prevailing during the morning, as the hour approached for the reception of the guests the sun shone out and lent a pleasing brightness to the function. The freshness of the gardens, adorned with flags, gave a picturesque appearance to the scene. His Excellency and Lady Beaumont received their guests at the steps leading from the verandah to the lawn. Selections of music were played during the afternoon by the band from H.M.S. Royal Arthur, which was stationed on a stand on the lawn. Refreshments were served on the verandah. The attendance numbered between 300 and 400, and amongst the guests were the officers of the English, American, and foreign men-o'-war now in port. A most enjoyable time was spent, the visitors being conveyed on their return to the city by naval steam pinnaces and special steamers.

The Mines Inspection Bill.—The Minister for Mines introduced into the Legislative Assembly last night a bill to make better provision for the inspection of mines other than coal and shale mines and to regulate the treatment of the products of such mines. The bill makes provision for the appointment of mining managers, for a board of examiners for managers, for the issue of certificates of competency, for the imposition of a penalty on unqualified persons who take charge of machinery, for the prohibition of the payment of wages at public-houses, and for the restriction of the employment of boys under 14 years of age and of females underground. Regulations are also imposed upon the employment of those who are in charge of machinery. Provision is also made for the inspection and management of mines, and general rules are imposed for the management of a mine.

New Mining Bill.—In the Legislative Assembly last evening the Minister for Mines introduced a bill to consolidate and amend the laws relating to mining. Apart from its consolidation of previous Acts the bill provides for the establishment of Mining Appeal Courts and for giving further facilities for the development of mining. The provisions of the bill include the giving of power for the establishment of a School of Mines and a museum, the proclamation of goldfields, the issue of miners' rights and other licenses, and the issue of authorities to prospect. The bill is principally a Consolidation Act.

Miners' Accident Relief Bill.—A bill to amend the Miners' Accident Relief Act of 1900 was introduced into the Legislative Assembly last night. By the bill the definition of the word "mine" is extended to include any works in the neighbourhood of the mine when ore from the mine is treated by the owners of the mine. Provision is also made for a joint committee for several mines if the persons employed in or about the same desire it, and such joint committee will have the same powers as a committee under the principal Act. With regard to expenses, each committee is to be paid an amount equal to 5 per cent. of the moneys received by it, but not more than £25 nor less than £2 10s per annum.

Diseases in Sheep Act Amendment Bill.—A bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly last evening to make better provision for the prevention and cure of certain diseases in stock, and to amend the previous enactments upon this matter. The bill provides that notice should be given to the inspector of diseased stock, and that then the inspector may take measures for the disinfection of stock, or may quarantine or destroy the stock. The powers of the inspectors extend to any land, building, vehicle, or vessel containing stock. Power is given to the Minister to make regulations.

The Island Trade.—Messrs. Burns, Philp, and Co., Limited, have received cable advice that their steamer the Mambare, which left Sydney on the 1st instant for New Hebrides and Banks Islands via Lord Howe, Norfolk, and Noumea, left the last named port on the morning of the 11th instant for Vila (New Hebrides), where she is due on the 13th instant to meet H.M.S. Wallaroo with coal.

The German South Polar Expedition.—Messrs. Weber, Lohmann, and Co. will to-day despatch the steamer Tanglin with stores for the South Polar Expedition. The object of the expedition is mainly to make extensive magnetic observations, as well as to attempt to explore the Antarctic regions. Dr. Luyken will remain on the Kerguelen Islands for a year and a half, establishing a meteorological station there. There the Tanglin will meet the Polar vessel Gauss, and after transferring coal, stores, &c., proceeds south. Another section of the expedition will establish a station as far south as possible, where the Gauss will leave the scientists for over a year, and proceed on her voyage of discovery, calling for them again on the return journey. After the N. D. L. steamer Tanglin has transferred her cargo to the Gauss at the Kerguelen Islands, she will return to Sydney with a collection of animals and birds of these islands to be forwarded to the Berlin Zoological Gardens.

Important Land Case.—Recently in the Wellington district the Land Board ruled out an applicant, and the ballot for land proceeded without him. On appeal, the Land Appeal Court decided that the Land Board had no power to say who had claims to priority, and as a result a new ballot was ordered. The decision occasioned great surprise. The Department of Lands has decided to intervene, Mr. Haynes, member for Wellington, is in receipt of the following communication from the Department:—"Referring to the letter of the 30th ultimo, presented by you, signed by Messrs. J. W. Runciman, Herbert Miller, and H. H. Bell, of Wellington, respecting the decision of the Land Appeal Court, in holding that J. A. Conn had the right of appeal against the Local Land Board's decision, that he had not equal claims to priority in respect of his application for a homestead selection in the Dubbo Land District, I am directed to inform you that as the question of law involved is an important one, having regard to section 6 of the Crown Lands (Amendment) Act of 1899, the Secretary for Lands has decided that the Land Appeal Court should be asked to state a case for decision of the Supreme Court herein, and the Crown Solicitor has been instructed to take the necessary steps accordingly."

Widening Wilmot-street.—Yesterday a deputation waited upon the Mayor (Alderman Sir James Graham) to urge the desirability of having Wilmot-street, connecting George-street with Pitt-street, widened to 60ft. The deputation pointed out that the proposed widening would help to relieve the congestion of traffic in George-street. The Mayor, in reply, pointed out that the City Council had no power to resume land for such a purpose, and suggested that the Minister for Works should be approached on the subject.

The Shipping Trade with Australia.—According to the "British Australasian," there is a rumour in shipping circles that another large firm, which has lately extended its business to the East, is likely to become a competitor shortly in the Australian trade. There is also talk of one of Ellerman's concerns taking up business out here. Three new steamers may shortly be expected to arrive in these waters—the Tonbridge, Allanton, and Redhill.

Threatened Difficulty in the Clothing Trade.—The issue of a new "log" by the Tailoresses' Union is being considered by the clothing manufacturers. Messrs. Brasch and Carter, of Castlereagh-street, stated yesterday that the prices in the log issued by the union were of such a nature that they must either be reduced or the clothing factories would have to close down. The union had not asked for any conference, but had simply notified the new prices. The manufacturers had given their prices to the wholesale houses and could not agree to the demands. No final decision has been come to by the employers, but a meeting will be held to-day to consider the matter.

Fatality at the Eveleigh Workshops.—An engineer named Thomas Layton met with his death at the Eveleigh Workshops yesterday morning. He was working near some machinery when by some means he became caught in the belting. Before the machinery could be stopped the unfortunate man was whirled round and thrown some distance across the room. Several of the men in the works immediately ran to his assistance, but an examination showed that life was extinct. The body was removed by Constable Weston to the North Morgue. Deceased was a married man, and resided at Garden-street, Alexandria. An inquest will be held this morning.

Recovery of a Body.—The Water Police have been engaged during the week in dragging for the bodies of the two young men who were drowned close to the Ryde Wharf on Monday evening last. On Tuesday the body of Edward Brown was recovered, and yesterday the police recovered the body of John Eastwood a few hundred yards from the Ryde Wharf. The body was conveyed to the home of deceased's parents, in Elliott-street, Balmain.

Accident at a Brickyard.—A fatal accident occurred at Messrs. H. Woodley and Co.'s brickworks, Mitchell-street, Alexandria, yesterday. A number of men were working in a pit excavating shale when some material weighing about 3cwt. became dislodged and fell upon a man named John Fay. He was extricated with all haste, but was so badly injured that he died a few minutes later. The body was removed by Constable Devlin, of Newtown, to the North Morgue. Deceased was married and resided at West-street, Petersham.

In connection with the summer service to the mountains, the Railway Commissioners notify that the late Saturday night train to Katoomba will be run for the first time to-night. The train will leave Sydney at 11.25 p.m., and will call at all stations where required beyond Penrith, reaching Katoomba at 2.50 a.m. The service will no doubt be found convenient for those whose business keeps them in Sydney late on Saturdays, and also for the residents of the mountains who wish to visit the theatres or other places of amusement. The train will be run on the second and fourth Saturdays in each month, and the next train will therefore be on the 26th instant.

Walters (a visitor from North Queensland), and Mrs. Graham contributing to the debate. Mr. J. A. Hendry having replied, the motion was carried by a 2 to 1 majority. Messrs. F. H. Bright, and H. Tennent-Donaldson, J.P., were elected delegates to the New South Wales Literary and Debating Societies' Union. A number of entries were received for the forthcoming union competitions.

George Law, aged 16, a dealer, living in Athlone-place, off George-street West, was admitted to Prince Alfred Hospital last evening suffering from a fracture to one leg below the ankle. The injury was caused by a kick from a horse.

THE COMMONWEALTH.

SUGAR INDUSTRY IN QUEENSLAND.

PACIFIC ISLANDERS' BILL.

STRONG PROTEST BY MR. PHILP.

BRISBANE, Friday.

At a representative gathering of politicians and leading mercantile men, which took place on the steamer Greyhound to-day, the Premier, in responding to the toast of "The Ministry," said the Queensland Ministry had a heap of trouble ahead. They had plenty of trouble in their own State, still he believed they could have succeeded in bringing the State back to a high condition of prosperity; but they were now confronted with trouble outside the State, and it behoved every man to stand up for State rights. He had done all he could to bring about a majority of votes for federation, but if the same thing came up for discussion to-morrow he would be tempted to become a strong anti-federalist. The action taken by the Federal Government on the sugar question was no credit to gentlemen claiming to be broad-minded statesmen. Regarding small matters they seemed to adopt a trifling attitude, while in big matters they lost their heads altogether. Queensland had been engaged upwards of 30 years in sugar growing, and he thought they knew something about the business; but the Federal Government, without even exercising the courtesy of asking the Government of this State, had rushed forward and brought in the most drastic legislation ever attempted against any State. They were all conversant with the subject, and on behalf of the Government of this country he declared they must resist any interference with the sugar industry until they got a full and just inquiry into it. (Hear, hear.) Mr. Barton, Mr. Reid, and Mr. Kingston knew nothing of the sugar industry in Queensland, and wherever there was undue interference with private enterprise it was bound to produce disastrous results. No bonus would ever make the sugar industry of Queensland successful. What the sugar industry wanted was to be left alone and allowed to work out its own redemption. (Applause.) If the Kanaka Bill passed both the Federal Houses they would appeal to the Governor-General, and if need be then to Mr. Chamberlain, and put their case before the highest tribunal of the realm. All they asked was full and fair inquiry before legislation was attempted.

SIR HECTOR MACDONALD.

ENTHUSIASTIC RECEPTION AT MELBOURNE.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

General Sir Hector Macdonald, who arrived at Melbourne this morning from Adelaide, met with a reception of so flattering a nature as to be somewhat embarrassing. The platform at the railway station was thronged with public men representing all sections of the community, and there was a large crowd of citizens, in which the Scotch element was conspicuous, gathered together near the approaches to the station. As the train ran alongside the platform the band of the Scottish Pipers gave a characteristic welcome, and the Premier, Mr. Peacock (on behalf of the State Government), Sir John Forrest (on behalf of the Federal Government), and Sir Samuel Gillott (on behalf of the citizens) bade Sir Hector Macdonald a hearty welcome, after which Sir Hector was escorted to the Governor-General's carriage and driven through cheering crowds to Government House, where he will be the guest of Lord and Lady Hopetoun during his stay in Melbourne. The Mayor of Melbourne called upon Sir Hector Macdonald at Government House to-day, and in the afternoon the distinguished visitor attended the World's Fair at the Exhibition Building, and in the evening he attended the Scottish night at the Princess Theatre. His reception was most enthusiastic.

NEW ZEALAND MAIL SERVICES.

PROPOSED NEW CONTRACTS.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Friday.

Sir J. G. Ward will move in the House of Representatives that the House authorises the Government to enter into a contract with Messrs. Spreckels and Co. for the renewal of the present San Francisco service for three years, subject to the following conditions:—"That the payment for the conveyance of mails from New Zealand to San Francisco be at the rate of 7s 6d per lb. for letters, 1s per lb. for books, packets, &c., and 6d per lb. for newspapers, or that in lieu of the foregoing payments a fixed annual subsidy of £20,000 be paid, provided one British owned steamer registered in New Zealand be employed in the service, and that the time between San Francisco and Auckland does not exceed 17 days."

Sir J. G. Ward will also move,—"That if it is found impracticable to arrange a contract for a three-weekly San Francisco service on the foregoing terms, the House authorises the Government to enter into negotiations for establishing a three-weekly or four-weekly Vancouver service, subject to the following conditions:—That the contract be for a term not less than three or more than five years; that the payment shall not exceed £20,000 per year; that the service be performed by vessels of not less than 6000 tons, having first-class passenger accommodation, and fitted with refrigerating chambers and chilled chambers for fruit and dairy produce: that the time shall not exceed 18 days between Vancouver and the New Zealand port, the selection of which is to be at the contractor's option; that the terms and conditions of the contract proposed in respect of the San Francisco service shall be applied to the Vancouver service as far as can be adopted."

Sir J. G. Ward will furthermore move that the Government also negotiate for a fortnightly intercolonial service providing prompt connection with the federal mail service at Melbourne and Sydney—(A) between Wellington and Sydney; or (B) between Melbourne and the Bluff, and in addition in the event of the San Francisco service not being arranged (C) between Sydney and Auckland.

The resolutions respecting the mail services will be considered on Wednesday. The Government expects a small majority in favour of the San Francisco service, but the Vancouver and Federal proposals are likely to be defeated.

COMMONWEALTH NOTES.

THE SENATE.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Immediately the Senate met this morning Senator Higgs moved the adjournment of the House in order to protest against what he understood was the intention of the Vice-President of the Executive Council to ask the Senate to adjourn during the pendency of the censure motion in the House of Representatives. The Senate, he said, occupied a unique position among the Parliaments of the British Empire. It had important work to do, and that work ought not to be delayed while a motion which did not seem to be taken seriously was being discussed. Senator Higgs was cut short on a point of order raised by Senator Sir J. Symon. Senator O'Connor deprecated raising the question at this juncture. He felt certain that the only course that could be adopted when the existence of the Government was threatened was to adjourn the Senate—a statement which seemed to meet the approval of senators. Senator O'Connor failed to see that there would be any derogation of the power and dignity of the Senate by adjourning under such circumstances as were likely to arise. Senators who followed up the debate generally agreed with the view of the Vice-President of the Executive Council, but some doubts were expressed by Senators Dobson and Sir J. Downer. The motion for the adjournment was withdrawn.

Consideration of the Public Service Bill was resumed in committee. On clause 5 Senator Higgs withdrew his amendment of the previous evening to make the Public Service Commissioner irremovable from office during good behaviour except by a vote of both Houses of Parliament.

Progress having been reported, the Supply Bill as received from the House of Representatives was taken forward and passed through all its stages.

Pending certain proceedings in the House of Representatives, the Senate suspended its sitting for half an hour. On resuming, several formal matters were dealt with, and Senator O'Connor moved,—"That in view of the action that had been taken in another place the Senate at its rising adjourn till Wednesday, October 23." This was agreed to and the Senate adjourned shortly after 4 o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The granting of supply occupied the greater part of this morning's sitting of the House of Representatives. In committee the Treasurer moved a formal resolution for granting the sum of £928,322. He explained that he had only asked for amounts which were required to be paid during the currency of three months. Sir George Turner said that it was urgent that supply should be obtained, and asked members to expedite the passage of the bill. This request was supported by Mr. Reid, who, however, warned the Treasurer that the granting of three months' supply must not be accepted as a precedent. A couple of hours' debate ensued. Mr. Higgins drew attention to the large amount required by the Defence Department. Mr. Cook (N.S.W.) complained that no expedition was being used in pushing on urgent works in the Postal Department. Various grievances were ventilated by members, and the Treasurer made another appeal to the committee to curtail the debate. Mr. Reid also asked members to postpone discussion on the financial proposals of the Government till a later period. The resolution was agreed to. The Supply Bill was introduced and passed through all its stages.

A couple of hours were spent on a further debate on the second reading of the Pacific Islands Labourers Bill. The subject had already been thrashed out to the full extent. Nothing new was added, and members did not even pretend to be interested.

There was some livening up, however, when the House went into committee to consider the Senate's message agreeing with some and disagreeing with other amendments made by the House of Representatives in the Postal Bill. One of the amendments provided, as one of the conditions upon which a supplement should be regarded as part of a newspaper, that the letterpress other than any title and short description of an engraving, print, or lithograph should be printed from type set up within the Commonwealth. This condition was originally inserted after a hard fight. The Attorney-General to-day asked the House to disagree with the Senate's action in striking it out. When the division was taken the Government was "caught napping." Only two Ministers were in the House, and members noticed with amusement that the member who had originally secured the insertion of the proviso was not present to save the situation. The vote went against the Government by 21 votes to 20, and freetrade members gave hearty cheers when the result was announced by the Chairman. The amendments were returned to the Senate with a message giving the reasons for insisting upon some of them.

Mr. Higgins moved the adjournment of the second reading of the debate on the Pacific Islands Labourers Bill, and the way was cleared for Mr. Reid, who gave notice, with concurrence, that he would on Tuesday move a motion that the House cannot accept the financial and tariff proposals of the Government for reasons which he would give. Mr. Barton said there was no alternative but to adjourn the House. He expressed pleasure that Mr Reid had been able to give notice of his motion so as to avoid waste of time, and hoped that the debate would finish next week. The House adjourned at 4 p.m.

THE MOTION OF CENSURE.

Just before the ordinary hour of adjournment this afternoon, Mr. Reid gave notice of motion to be moved on Tuesday next, censuring the financial and tariff proposals of the Government, in terms fully set out in another column. Members of course knew the exact moment at which the notice was to be given, and its tabling was taken very much as a matter of course. Spoken to after the House rose, Mr. Reid said he would reserve any remarks he had to make till Tuesday next, when he would fully explain his views about the Government proposals. He pointed out, however, that the discussion on the motion would involve no waste of time. There would have to be full debate on the budget, and the motion of which he had given notice would bring it to a head at once.

Members of course have talked the position over a good deal among themselves. Beyond expressing an opinion that the Government was sure to win, they had little to say when questioned as to the position of affairs, and the usual Friday afternoon rush to catch the Adelaide and Sydney expresses gave members an excellent opportunity to shake off the too persistent interviewer. There has been much conning over of problematical division lists. This has not been done for the purpose of foreshadowing the result—that is regarded as being practically settled—but with a view to forecasting the Government majority. It seems to be generally agreed that in a full House the Government will get about 40 and the Opposition 28 certain votes. The Speaker being in the chair, this leaves six members as doubtful. Members who are placed in this list are Messrs. Macdonald-Paterson, Page, Knox, Skene, Spence, and A. C. Groom. Some authorities give eight as the number of doubtful votes. Assuming that the six above-named are equally divided this would show the final result as a victory for the Government by 43 votes to 31. A majority of 12 is therefore regarded as within the realms of probability, but allowances for various influences may bring it down to 8.

The Government expects to conclude the debate by next Friday. At the present moment it is not known whether late sittings are proposed, otherwise, if this explanation is to be realised, most of the talking will have to be left to the Opposition members. Hitherto Government supporters have not shown any remarkable degree of self-restraint in discussion. There is talk of exercising some party discipline with a view to shortening the length of the debate, but the verdict as to the success of such an attempt must be left to the experiences of next week.

The Premier was asked this afternoon if he had anything to make public on the subject of Mr. Reid's motion. "There is really nothing to say" was the Premier's reply.

Mr. Watson, leader of the Labour party, would not give any opinion as to the probable result of the division. Members of the Labour party were free to vote as they pleased on the motion, and no caucus would be held unless some side issue affecting social or democratic legislation were imported into the discussion. "We shall win easily" was all Mr. Chapman, the Government Whip, had to say.

CONTROL OF NEW GUINEA.

Mr. Barton stated this afternoon that he had received a cablegram from the Imperial Government declining to contribute the amount suggested (£7000) per annum towards the cost incurred in the control of New Guinea. The Premier was disinclined to say whether this decision would influence the Federal Government in regard to the question of taking over the administration of affairs in New Guinea. The matter, he said, would be considered by the Cabinet.

SPECIAL CABLES.

FROM THE "HERALD'S" LONDON CORRESPONDENTS.

SIR REDVERS BULLER.

A REMARKABLE SPEECH.

THE POSITION OF BESIEGED LADYSMITH.

WHAT HE ADVISED.

LONDON, Oct. 11.

Sir Redvers Buller, Commandant of the First Army Corps, in the course of a speech after the luncheon of the Queen's Westminster Volunteers, complained of the unfairness of the press towards the Army.

It was singular, Sir Redvers Buller said, that several newspapers simultaneously attacked his nomination to the command of the First Army Corps. He challenged his critics to mention any one of his juniors more fitted for the command than he was himself.

In answering the accusation recently published in the newspaper "Outlook" that he advised the surrender of Ladysmith, Sir Redvers Buller said that after the reverse of Colenso he informed Sir George White, the Commandant of Ladysmith, that the attack on the Boer position at the river had failed, and that it would be impossible to deliver another before a month.

Believing that Ladysmith had only supplies sufficient to last for a fortnight he suggested that it might be necessary for Ladysmith to surrender, and he advised what Sir George White should do in the event of surrender. That suggestion was intended to cover the responsibility of Sir George White.

The message was sent by means of a coded telegram which was private, and which had been afterwards stolen from him.

[A cable published on October 2 stated that there was an outcry in England against Sir Redvers Buller being appointed to the command of the 1st Army Corps.]

NEWSPAPER COMMENTS.

"CHIVALRY, NOT WAR."

REWARDS FOR PAST SERVICES.

LONDON, Oct. 11.

The speech of Sir Redvers Buller at the luncheon of the Queen's Westminster Volunteers has caused a tremendous sensation in the clubs.

The "Standard" says: "It is an amazing speech. Sir Redvers Buller pleads guilty to sending a message contemplating a humiliation compared with which all the other reverses of the war would have been trivial.

"If Sir Redvers Buller's advice to Sir George White was chivalry it was not war, and on sober reflection Sir Redvers Buller ought to resign."

The "Times" declares that the attacks of newspapers were aimed at the system of the War Office in rewarding past services by putting men into positions regardless of their present and future fitness.

CAPE RAIDERS.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

The columns under Lieutenant-Colonel Atherton and Major Kavanagh split Scheepers's commando into small parties, who are hiding in the kloofs and krantzes of the Witteberg, and are being systematically hunted.

Oct. 11.

The fragments of Scheeper's commando are returning northwards by two different routes.

[The special correspondent of the "Times," writing from Graaf Reinet under date August 11, shows the difficulties which the British have to contend with in chasing the raiders from Cape Colony. He says:—"From Desolation Kop, near Graaf Reinet, the range of vision embraces almost the whole of the 150 miles from Somerset East to Beaufort West. With the columns we see on every side, how is it that the Boers elude our grasp? A little to our right we look down a giddy height, precipitous rocks for several hundred feet below. It is Desolation Valley. We see a few of the massive boulders that some mighty convulsion of the earth hurled down from the heights on which we are standing; but the full extent of the valley we cannot see. Yet we notice that it is horseshoe in shape, with a narrow entrance, running parallel, not at right angles, to the range of mountains, and we are standing, not at the head, but on one side. It is large enough to hold a Boer army; yet down there in the plain one might pass within a mile and not suspect its existence. It is but an example of the hundreds and hundreds of similar kloofs that are to be found up and down the theatre of war. What wonder, then, that the Boers have been six months in the colony—it is not long for a game of hide and seek upon the scale on which Kruitzinger and Scheeper are playing it. The seeking we have to do bit by bit, kloof by kloof, by ourselves; how many to help them have those who are hiding?"]

TRAGEDY AT MARRICKVILLE.

A WIFE ATTACKED.

SUICIDE OF THE HUSBAND.

At an early hour yesterday morning a shocking tragedy occurred at Neville-street, Marrickville. William Johnson, formerly a tramway employee, attacked his wife with a hammer and afterwards committed suicide. For some time Johnson had been suffering from an incurable malady, and during the past month had been unable to follow his usual occupation. This caused him to become despondent. At 3.30 a.m. yesterday he returned home, after having roamed aimlessly about, and went into the room where his wife was sleeping, and she questioned him as to where he had been. He said that he had been for a walk, and immediately attacked her with a hammer. He struck her a severe blow on the head, causing a wound over the left eye and abrasions on the nose and face. Before her assailant could strike another blow Mrs. Johnson rushed at her husband and forced the weapon from his hands. She then ran out of the house to the residence of Mr. William Gibbs, a neighbour, who reported the matter to the police.

Constable Crough, in company with Mr. Gibbs, proceeded to the house and found Mrs. Johnson on the verandah. The door was locked, and after some time the constable managed to force the lock. On entering the house they were horrified to find William Johnson lying on a couch in the kitchen with a large gash across his throat and a blood-stained razor by his side. The constable immediately bound up the wound, and with the assistance of Messrs. Gibbs and Evans took the man to the Marrickville Cottage Hospital, where he was attended to by Dr. Perkins, but died a few hours later.

THE INQUEST.

The City Coroner (Mr. J. C. Woore) conducted an inquiry on the body of deceased at the Marrickville Cottage Hospital.

Mary Jane Johnson stated that deceased was a signalman in the tramway department. He had been in bad health lately. For the past seven weeks he had been unable to attend to his duties, and had been very despondent in consequence. She and her husband lived happily together, and she had never heard him say anything that would lead her to believe that he would take his life. At about 3.30 a.m. yesterday he went into the room where witness was sleeping, and she asked him if he wanted anything. He replied, "No, I have just been for a run." Witness was getting out of bed to turn the light up, when deceased hit her on the forehead with a hammer. She pushed him into the front room, and ran to a neighbour's for help.

Dr. Perkins stated that he examined deceased at the hospital, and found that he had a wound about 6in. long across the throat, which had severed all the structures down to the spinal column. It was a jagged wound, and appeared as if it had been done by more than one stroke. It might have been self-inflicted with the razor produced, held in the right hand. He also found a wound across the left wrist, which had severed the muscles and structures down to the bone. Witness did what he could, but deceased did not rally, and died at about 5.45 a.m.

Edward Gibbs, a dairyman, residing next door to deceased, said that he had known deceased for about 18 months. On Wednesday last he met deceased, and asked him how he was. He replied that he was no better, and that a man might as well be out of the world as not to have his health. At about 3.30 a.m. yesterday he heard a female screaming, and went to his front gate and saw Mrs. Johnson there. She told him that her husband had locked himself in the house. He then went for the police, and returned with Constable Crough. The door was prized open with a chisel, and deceased was found lying on a sofa with blood on his clothes. Witness then went away and got a cart, and deceased was placed in it and taken to the hospital.

Constable Patrick Crough said that he went to deceased's residence at about 4 a.m. and found that the door was locked. He forced it open, and went inside with Mr. Gibbs and Mr. Evans, and found deceased lying on a couch in the kitchen. His throat was cut and there was a great deal of blood about his clothes. There was no appearance of a struggle in the room. The razor produced was found lying on the couch beside him, and was smeared with blood.

The Coroner entered a finding of suicide.

DEATH OF DR. MATHIAS.

We have to record the death of Dr. W. Lloyd Mathias, late of No. 83 Darlinghurst-road, Darlinghurst, which took place at the Prince Alfred Hospital early yesterday morning. The late Dr. Mathias was educated for the medical profession in England and took the degrees of M.R.C.S. (England) and L.R.C.P. (London). He shortly afterwards came to Sydney and became associated with the late Dr. Kyngdon, at Darlinghurst, whom he subsequently succeeded in practice. SECOND EDITION

WAR IN SOUTH AFRICA.

STATEMENT BY MR. BRODRICK.

A REPLY TO CRITICS.

THE POSITION AT THE THEATRE OF WAR.

WHAT THE GOVERNMENT HAS DONE.

ENTIRE CONFIDENCE IN LORD KITCHENER.

LONDON, Oct. 11.

Sir C. E. Howard Vincent, M.P., Conservative, Colonel Commandant of the Queen's Westminster Volunteers, who is starting for South Africa, wrote to Mr. St. John Brodrick, the Secretary of State for War, and offered to remain in England and help to recruit troops if needed for the war, or otherwise to carry a message to the troops in the field.

Mr. Brodrick replied to this letter as follows:—"We have 200,000 men and 450 guns in South Africa. We have 100,000 men training at home, and we are able to maintain the army in the field at its requisite strength. If a further call is made, it will be met with the utmost promptitude.

"We are feeding 314,000 persons, 248,000 horses and mules, and maintaining a reserve of four months' food at the theatre of war.

"Lord Kitchener's only demand for reinforcements has been for 9000 men, and that number has been far exceeded in the number we have sent him.

"The Government has never in any way interfered with the dispositions of Lord Kitchener, and has entire confidence in his vigorous prosecution of the war.

"The advantage which we have of the advice of Lord Roberts is a guarantee of the cohesion of the Government and Lord Kitchener, and that there will be no flinching from any sacrifice to terminate the struggle on the lines laid down.

"No Cabinet Council could advance the preparations for sending out reinforcements, and meetings of the Cabinet might be interpreted as a want of confidence in the operations of Lord Kitchener, or anxiety as to the issue upon which the mind of the Government and the country is finally made up."

APPROVAL OF NEWSPAPERS.

LONDON, Oct. 11.

The newspapers approve of the spirit of the manifesto of Mr. Brodrick, the Secretary of State for War, but they still urge that renewed efforts should be made to meet all conceivable contingencies.

STRIKE AT A SMALL FACTORY.

A small strike in the boot trade occurred yesterday morning, when a number of men ceased work at the factory of Mr. H. Kemp, 54 Newtown-road. For some time past there had been more or less friction between various factory owners and the employees in reference to the prevailing rates of wages. The men who went out yesterday comprised nine "makers" and six "finishers," and the point of contention was the reduction of the price from 6s to 5s per dozen.

On the men commencing work yesterday morning they were told by the owner that the prices would be reduced. After some consultation they approached Mr. Kemp and formally asked that the original rate be reinstated. The demand, however, was refused, and the "makers" then struck, and were at once followed by the "finishers."

The men announce their determination to continue the strike until the original rate is again paid. Generally speaking, factory owners contend that the present rates ruling for leather and the prices they receive for the manufactured boots prevent any increase of wages.

FEELING IN COMMERCIAL CIRCLES.

INTERVIEW WITH MR. EDWARD DENHAM.

Mr. Edward Denham, of the firm of Denham Brothers, of Sussex-street, in a conversation yesterday with a "Herald" reporter, said that everybody expected that there would be certain duties imposed to produce an increase of revenue, and naturally expected many specific duties, but those affecting the produce trade were most surprising, and were unequal in many instances. Taking a 3d duty on cheese, it was equivalent to 7½d on butter: that is, it took 2½ gallons of average milk to make one pound of butter, while it took one gallon of average milk to make one pound of cheese. New South Wales, under normal conditions, could supply her own requirements, and it was only in case of a drought that the State required to import in these lines. The quality of butter had vastly improved in late years, while there were many brands of cheese made here equal to the best New Zealand article. Under normal conditions, therefore, no revenue might be expected from these lines, and Queensland would be able to supply all the deficiencies in these products. In bacon we were entirely independent of New Zealand, and supplies from there for some years past had been very trifling. Then the local and Queensland hams were better than the New Zealand article, which for some years past had been sold at a lower price than the local production. The duty that has been placed on hams would, therefore, prove an absolute bar to their importation from New Zealand. In the matter of eggs, the local production had enormously increased during the past year or two. Formerly Adelaide was the chief source of supply. The tariff would be entirely prohibitive to the importation of eggs from China, the chief source of outside supply last year. In onions, the tariff, Mr. Denham said, would largely benefit Victoria, as for some reason the onions grown in New South Wales did not keep so well as those of Victoria, hence the product of this State is required to be used almost immediately. In potatoes enough could be produced locally for the requirements of this State, but the producers were so heavily handicapped by the heavy railway charges over the mountains from New England or Goulburn districts that protective duty now might assist them in sending to Sydney. Wheat, bran, pollard, maize, hay, and chaff would produce very little, if any, revenue; whilst oats, with few exceptions, produced in New South Wales in the past had not been of good colour or so clean as the New Zealand oats, which were usually of such even quality that it had to be purchased on a specific grade. Taken as a whole, from a produce point of view, the tariff was not likely to be productive of much revenue, while it would be of undoubted benefit to the cheese industry, pig raising, &c. One thing, however, was very noticeable. The only timber used in the making of the butter boxes for packing the article for local and export sale was the New Zealand white pine, upon which a duty had been placed. As there was no other wood tasteless and void of smell that could be used for such a delicate article as butter, it should not be taxed. This wood, known as Kikatea, is valueless for any other purposes than butter boxes, and the only source of supply was from New Zealand. There was a tree grown in Queensland that was used, but he believed there was no wood in New South Wales suitable for such a purpose. One or two had been tried, but abandoned, as they either gave a smell or taste to the butter.

THE TEA TRADE.

AN IMPORTER'S VIEWS.

A well-known importer in Margaret-street yesterday expressed to a "Herald" representative several objections to the tariff as it would apply to the importation of tea. He pointed out that the proposed duty was 2d per lb. in the bulk, and if packed in small parcels an additional differential duty, according to the size of the packet. Strong exception was taken to the latter clause, which, he asserted, would deprive the public of securing their tea in the most popular form, while it would yield nothing to the Federal Government. He traced the history of the tea trade for the past 15 years, during which time the bulk of the Australian trade was transferred from China and India to Ceylon. In 1880 Ceylon produced no tea worth mentioning, whilst at the present day, out of a total of 25,000,000lb. imported annually into Australasia no less than 18,000,000lb. came from that island. Of very recent years there had been an increasing popularity among the public for pure Ceylon tea made up in small packets of lead. This tea is chiefly packed at Ceylon, where the favourable climate enables the fresh supply to be kept up during the whole of the year. Tea packed locally is mostly put up in tins or paper packets. It is maintained that the tins absorb the taste, and injuriously affect the quality of the tea, while that placed in paper packets rapidly loses its freshness and flavour. If the object of the Government in taxing the packets was to raise revenue, it would meet with failure, for the reason that the duty was prohibitive, and the trade in that line would cease. On the other hand, if protection to local labour was aimed at the gain was insignificant, as the packing was but a small matter, and was accomplished chiefly by boys and girls. In any case, the public were being deprived of a most popular article. Astonishment was expressed that tea should be singled out specially for a duty in that form, while other commodities were allowed to come in in the smaller packets without extra duty being levied.

SPIRITS AND TEA.

Mr. T. G. Kenny, acting manager for the Civil Service Co-operative Society, when asked his views on the tariff said frankly that he would not express any opinion as to whether it was too high or too low, but he fully believed that the proposals brought forward by the Federal Government would raise the revenue that was required. The duties on spirits had been altered, inasmuch that spirits in bottle imported under the new tariff would be required to pay an additional duty. In regard to whisky, the increase would amount to about 4s 6d per two-gallon case, brandy 3s per two-gallon case, and gin 9s per four-gallon case. This seemed to mean that at present the duties would entirely shut out the trade for whiskies and brandies imported in bottle, and the consumer would purchase certain brands which are imported in bulk and "bottled upon the premises," for the reason that on the spirits imported in bulk which are generally "proof" or "over proof," no alteration has been made in the rates. Mr. Kenny said the idea of the Government might be to provide additional labour in the way of bottling these lines of goods in bond, as, he believed, had been done in Victoria, but he thought the importers of known brands were sure to make arrangements for the future for the bottling to be done here, so as to avoid the increased duty now levelled against them. In his view a specific duty upon tea would be preferable to the proposed system, whereby both specific and ad valorem duties were imposed. The imposition of both duties would not, he thought, bring about the importation of higher grade leaf. It seemed to him that the importers might possibly adopt the system of keeping down the ad valorem duties as low as possible, which would bring about the importation of lower-priced teas. Mr. Kenny added that it was to be hoped that a specific duty on tea of, say, 4d per lb. would be imposed, and that the ad valorem duties would be abolished, but he admitted that the Federal Government's device was an ingenious attempt to get at the consumer of the higher-priced article.

THE DUTIES ON BREADSTUFFS.

Mr. A. C. Shadler, managing director of A. Shadler, Limited, and the former president of the New South Wales Master Bakers' Association, was interviewed yesterday by a representative of the "Herald" to ascertain his views regarding the effect the duty would have on the future price of flour and bread. "For the immediate future," said Mr. Shadler, "the duty will make no difference in the price of either article. To those manufacturers who produce the highest standard of bread, and are compelled to import Canadian Manitoba flour, it will mean that less of this flour will have to be used, or an extra halfpenny per loaf charged, but as there are some bakers who claim to use Canadian flour but who do not, it will be found impracticable in all cases to charge an extra price to cover the £2 10s per ton duty. I believe we shall see a fall in the price of American flour shortly which will largely cover the duty. Fortunately for Sydney, the colonies now produced more wheat and flour than can be consumed locally, consequently no matter what duty is put on it would not affect the local selling price, as the home competition would prevent the millers putting up the price of flour to the extent of the duty. Should, however, the demand exceed the supply by reason of bad seasons at any time, then the millers will add the duty to their selling prices, and the public will then be compelled to pay an extra halfpenny per loaf. This would bring about such an outcry that the Government would be compelled to suspend the duty, as was done during recent years in two of the heavily protected countries of Europe. The fact that the price of bread will not be touched is, I think, the only bit of sunshine for the working classes, who otherwise will have a heavy burden placed upon them."

MR. W. MACPHERSON'S OPINION.

Mr. W. T. Macpherson, of Messrs. Holdsworth, Macpherson, and Co., on being interviewed yesterday, said that the tariff would be unlikely to meet with the approval of consumers. He pointed out that a line of goods invoiced say at £100 would be first subjected to a 10 per cent. impost, after which 25 per cent. on £110 would be taken by the Customs. That meant that a charge of 27½ per cent. on the original invoice would be the burden. When to this were added the importers' and retailers' profits, it would be found that the consumers would be paying very heavily. He did not think extravagant stocks were held here as so many supposed. Many people had stocked heavily last July, but had lessened their goods to about normal quantity. There had been an all-round stimulation in business during the past year, and there would not be much falling off. As an instance of the way local manufacturers were endeavouring to gain by the tariff, he mentioned that one man had increased his quotation for a line of goods by 15 per cent., although the raw product which he used came in free, and had actually cheapened in price. Examining the increase on glass lamp shades, he noted that the 6d per cubic foot plus 15 per cent. proposed would mean a Customs charge of 133⅓ per cent. An inequality which struck him among many others was that while tooth and hair brushes incurred a 15 per cent. impost, clothes brushes were subject to a 25 per cent. tax. Locks were included amongst the free goods, while hinges were dutiable. Only 20 per cent. was to be levied upon the people's games, cricketing material, fishing tackle, and so on, while 25 per cent. was put upon commodities. He thought that small importers would feel the burden of taxation heavier than the large ones on account of the large sums payable before goods could be cleared; but the greatest burden would fall upon the consumers, especially the poorer classes. A man earning £2 would find his money only go as far as £1 16s did before the taxation came upon his necessaries. He considered the tariff unevenly balanced, and an infliction upon the people more than upon the importers.

OPINIONS OF IMPORTERS.

A wholesale importer remarked yesterday to a representative of the "Herald" that the new tariff justified his opinion that Australia was not ripe for federation. Now that it had come, the people must make the best of it. His opinion was that an ad valorem duty all round, or nearly all round, would have been much better than the complexity which had been given them. The great need of the Commonwealth was population, and it would be a good thing could something be done to induce a steady stream of desirable immigrants. That would assist the State to bear the greater burden of taxation, besides promoting the development of the country. He did not think that Australia had been more really prosperous than when there was a steady influx of people into the country.

Mr. John Dibbs, of Henry Bull and Co., Ltd., York-street, said to a "Herald" representative yesterday that the commercial community had expected a high tariff under federation, but not quite on the lines given. The one before them would neither please protectionists nor freetraders. He thought that many lines subjected to a lower tariff would have brought a higher revenue. There was, however, nothing for them to do but to accept the inevitable. He took strong exception to the double duties. The taxes, he thought, would fall very heavily upon the working men. The increased cost to the consumer would be up to as high as 30 per cent. The whole question would have to be debated in the Federal House of Representatives, and some modifications might possibly be made, but the fact remained that the Commonwealth must raise a certain amount of money. There was no getting away from that point. The question of the tariff had been considered that day by the Associated Warehouses, and it had been decided to advance prices on and from Monday next. In anticipation of the tariff trade had been good for the past six months, but now there was bound to be some reaction. Apart from the question of the high tariff, the fact of its being a uniform one, with free-trade between the States, would have the effect of opening up wider fields, and thereby giving an impetus to business.

MR. DONALD CORMACK'S VIEWS.

Mr. Donald Cormack, of Messrs. J. Sandy and Co., was interviewed yesterday with regard to the tariff, and said that it was conceded by everyone that revenue must be raised somehow, and while he was opposed to the system of exemption which obtained in New South Wales, relieving so many of the community from participating in the financial burdens of their country, he was more strongly opposed to the tariff drawn up by the first Parliament of the Commonwealth. If the tariff, which was full of inconsistencies, passed in its present form it was a clear indication to his mind that Australia was not entitled to the wide system of responsible government which it now enjoyed. He thought that the exigencies of the State or of any of the States did not demand such an excessive and anomalous set of duties. Nor could he regard the proposals as an improvement upon the system of State finance, which had been more disastrous in the other States than in New South Wales. If the tariff passed, it would not conduce to a better state of commerce nor to a strengthening of the financial conditions. He thought it possible to finance Australia under a revenue-raising system through the customs-house. An Australian credit system supported by excise duties was a necessity of our financial solidity. He had proposed publicly by lectures and communication to the press a new system of federal finance, the main features of which were that the revenue collected under one uniform system defined by the federation should be retained by the States, instead of four times the amount required as under the Braddon clause, under which three-quarters were to be returned to the States. If the States were allowed to retain the whole of their customs revenue it would not give rise to as much disagreement as was likely to arise when the richest State had to make good the deficiencies of the poorer by defraying the cost of administration, and covering the loss on transferred services and the cost of defence. A 2½ per cent. impost on Australia's present production would give the Commonwealth two and a half million pounds. Deduct £500,000 for the probable cost of government, and issue £4,000,000 of currency against the £2,000,000 which should be held in gold by a federal banker created under the new system. Such an impost would do away with the necessity of depending upon the moneybags of the capitalists to the prejudice of our financial condition, as at present the Commonwealth had to, owing to the large amount of interest it had to provide yearly. The capital of the federal banker would be created by the States instead of by private capitalists, as in the constitution of the Bank of England.

CHINAWARE AND PORCELAIN.

Mr. Allan Garth Macgregor, the Australasian manager for John F. Duff, of Kobe, Japan, when asked as to his views with regard to the tariff, said that the duties as fixed on chinaware and porcelain at 20 per cent. were fair, and in accordance with past rates in Queensland, Victoria, and South Australia. But, he asked, why should earthenware, brownware, &c., be separated by imposing 6d per cubic foot, plus 15 per cent? He says that when landing shipments continuous trouble will arise by having to open up the cases, and get the landing-waiter to decide under which heading to pass the goods. Some lines the importer can faithfully declare as earthenware, but others sent by his shipper, being new lines, he cannot define, not having seen them, and should he make a mistake he would be liable to a heavy fine. Mr. Macgregor added that whenever a tariff item is thus complicated it invariably causes the honest trader an increasing annoyance through, say, a few minor entries passed as a try-on by perhaps only one firm of easy conscience in the whole city. Proceeding, he said: "However, the main things to deal with are the facts, and I give them, however, subject to verification and inspection of invoices and ledgers by any first-class public auditor in the city. I can show invoices of 60 cases earthenware, on which duty at 6d per foot, plus 15 per cent., works out 93 per cent.; 30 cases, ditto ditto, 60 per cent.; 18 cases, ditto ditto, 123 per cent.; and 12 cases, or more, ditto dito, 77 per cent. These quantities and percentages are on four individual lines, not on a conglomerated lot, and I could supply dozens more, possibly ranging higher.

MR. W. T. WATERS' OPINIONS.

Mr. W. T. Waters, of King-street, said that the intricacies of the tariff were the principal difficulty. Goods which might have been taxed had not been touched and others had been heavily taxed without good reason. A line which was taxed 20 per cent. was flannelette, and as this was in particular demand by workmen and their wives the burden upon them would prove rather severe. His firm had little to complain of, and he could therefore look at the matter without bias. He had anticipated the duties for a long time. The 25 per cent. duty meant 27½ per cent. before the importer handled the goods. A high duty of 1s 6d each on parasols would be much resented. There were two little factories in Melbourne where these were made. Piece goods appeared to be under a heavy tax, but it was difficult to say what was the exact duty upon some of them. Hosiery, which everybody had to get, was to be taxed. There were no hosiery factories in the Commonwealth, as far as he knew. There would not be any increase in prices amongst the fashionable retail shops, such as his, for a considerable time, but later on the people would undoubtedly find that on taxed goods the price had gone up 20 or 25 per cent. The burden of taxation would unfortunately fall upon those least able to bear it. He thought it probable that the tariff would be considerably altered and harmonised by the Commonwealth Parliament.

THE TARIFF RATES ON CHEMICALS.

Mr. Washington H. Soul, the well-known importer and dispenser of drugs and chemicals, was practically uncompromising in his condemnation of the federal tariff. He declared that from end to end it was a muddle which might have been made by lawyers, but certainly could not have been the work of a capable commercial man. In his view it has already most effectively capsized business, and without the shadow of a doubt it is a Victorian production. Mr. Soul pointed out that no provision was made, so far as the duty is concerned, for preparations which contain under-proof spirits. Many patent medicines contain a small admixture of under-proof spirit, and according to the new tariff these goods will have to pay at the proof rates of 14s per gallon, in place of the 3s 6d which hitherto obtained.

MEETING OF BOOT MANUFACTURERS.

QUESTION OF ADVANCING PRICES.

INCREASE FROM 5 TO 7½ PER CENT.

A special meeting of the boot manufacturers of Sydney was held last evening in the Queen's Hall, Pitt-street, in response to a circular note requesting them to meet "to consider the advisability of advancing the prices of boots, consequent on the proposed federal tariff." The chair was taken by Mr. A. Louden, president of the Boot Manufacturers' Association, and there were also present Messrs. C. P. Neilsen (Morgan, Smith, and Whybrow), J. P. Wright, T. Day, J. Symons, Pearson (Pearson Brothers), O'Neill (G. C. Taylor and Son), A. Hanaman, G. Reynolds (Davenport and Co.), A. Macdonald, J. Pechter (Wilson, Pechter, and Co.), O'Dea (O'Dea Brothers), G. Greisbach (Larbalastier Brothers), H. T. Kent, R. Cunningham, D. Young (J. Jackson), F. Gow (Gow Brothers), J. M'Keown, G. Michaelis (M'Murtrie and Co.), J. Allen, S. Vinesa, C. Coleman (Burns and Co.), S. Proops, R. Harris (Co-operative Boot Company), H. Fuller (Fuller Brothers), J. Drew (J. Hunter and Son), F. Petshall, W. E. Sawyer, J. Leslie (Wallace and Co.), and F. J. Walters.

The Chairman, in opening the meeting, said the

were aware that the federal tariff would cut into the boot manufacturers' prices very materially, especially in connection with the Item glace kid. It was necessary to take immediate steps in the matter, because the business people were rushing in orders to the boot manufacturers in anticipation of getting them supplied at the old prices. That would mean a serious loss to the manufacturers. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Allen said that an advance in prices was necessary, not only in consequence of the federal tariff, but also in view of the rise in the price of American leather. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Wright said it must be admitted by all that it was necessary for them to consider the position in which they were placed by the federal tariff. The prices of lines of boots should be increased in a ratio corresponding to the 15 per cent. federal tariff. He therefore moved,—"That in the opinion of this meeting it is desirable that the price of boots and shoes should be immediately advanced in proportion to the extra cost of production consequent on the imposition of the federal tariff."

Mr. A. M'Donald, in seconding the motion, said he did not think the manufacturers ought to fix upon a very great advance. Mr. G. H. Reid, M.P., had stated that the federal tariff meant an increase of 4s on a pair of boots, and that the manufacturers would put 3s of that in their pockets. That was a fallacious statement. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Neilsen said that in his opinion the motion was slightly ambiguous. The boot manufacturers could not supply the want of buyers without a general advance in prices.

Mr. J. Pechter said they should federate with the manufacturers of the other States before they made an advance beyond 15 per cent.

Mr. R. Harris said they should bear in mind that the local tanners were faced by a shortage of hides, and as American leather would be shut out by the tariff it followed that the local tanners would put up their prices for sole leather. Dress leather would also be affected. Therefore it was necessary not only to consider the effect of the federal tariff, but also the other directions in which the raw material of the manufacturers would be increased in price. It was desirable to appoint a small committee to consider the matter and report a week hence. (No, no.)

Mr. D. F. J. Walters said that the price of all imported boots and shoes should be advanced 15 per cent. right through, and that colonial work should be raised 5 per cent. He moved to that effect.

The amendment was not seconded.

Mr. Michaelis said it was a moot question whether they should advance prices, because they had to face competition from the manufacturers of the other States. His firm would not agree to a stated advance until they saw what action was taken by the other States.

Mr. Wright explained that his motion did not mean an advance of 15 per cent. in the price of boots and shoes to the public. Instead of asking the trade, and through them the public, an increase of 3s a pair on boots—that was the amount of the federal tariff—the manufacturers asked the public to pay from 3d to 9d per pair. That was the amount the manufacturers gave away to the Government as revenue. (Hear, hear.)

The motion was put and carried unanimously.

Mr. M'Donald moved,—"That the advance be fixed at from 5 to 7½ per cent. on all boots, shoes, and slippers made from imported material subject to duty."

The motion was seconded by Mr. Leslie and carried.

OPINION IN THE PARRAMATTA DISTRICT.

Our Parramatta correspondent writes:—The general opinion regarding the Commonwealth tariff is that it will have a crushing effect on the working man, his purchasing power being reduced from 20 to 25 per cent. The fruitgrowers hardly know how it will affect them at present. However, they do not consider that the duty imposed on Sicilian lemons will have the effect of keeping them out of the market, as the fruit is most attractively put on the market, and it will take a higher duty than 1s 2½d on a 60lb. case to knock it out of the market. In regard to the New Zealand market, which is a profitable one, in spite of the present duties, fears are entertained that New Zealand will adopt reprisals that will totally bar our fruit from entering their ports. The Parramatta Woollen Mills consider that the tariff will benefit them largely, and with the tariff against outside of Australasia, and inter-State free trade, they expect shortly to double the output and find employment for a large number of hands.

OPINION ON THE BARRIER.

BROKEN HILL, Friday.

The new tariff is viewed with alarm and with almost consternation at Broken Hill. The mining industry will suffer materially by the impositions, one well-known mining manager asserting that it will mean at least 1s taxation on every ton of ore raised.

The "Barrier Miner," in a leader to-day, says:—"In timber alone the taxation will be enormous; millions of feet of planks and ten by tens are used in the mines annually. Taking the average of former years as a basis it is estimated that the mines on the line of lode will be penalised from £2000 to £4000 each per annum. The total duty on mine timber alone is expected to be as much as £15,000. In the early nineties the mines were similarly taxed, but then there was no income tax to consider. The 10 by 10 timber used for square sets cannot, as contended, be obtained in Australia, and the tax therefore is inequitable." Oils, screws, bolts, and different fittings are expected to put on an extra tax of £10,000 or £12,000. Thus it will be seen that, without taking into account any other dutiable articles, the new tariff will approximate an annual tax on the Barrier mining industry alone of £25,000.

Last night a meeting of grocers and general storekeepers was held at the Theatre Royal Hotel. Every branch of the trade was represented. Matters in connection with the new tariff duties were thoroughly thrashed out, and it was unanimously decided to immediately increase the prices of all goods included under the tariff.

EFFECT ON THE NORTHERN RIVERS' SUGAR INDUSTRY.

GRAFTON, Friday.

The local Customs officer went to the sugar mills on Wednesday and took stock of sugar, and surprised millowners by stating that sugar manufactured prior to imposition of duty was liable to excise. The Premier was communicated with on the subject, and to-day he wired stating that he had interviewed the acting Collector of Customs, who informed him that sugar manufactured prior to the 9th instant was liable to excise. Canegrowers generally consider that their industry will be little affected by the new tariff. The import duty of £6 a ton being met by the countervailing excise of £3 leaves the position practically on the same level as before, when the import duty was £3 a ton. Further, if a bonus be given of £2 per ton for white labour grown sugar, the values of the product to the grower will essentially be the same as those prevailing before the Reid Government reduced the duty from £5 a ton, with this difference, that under the latter duty black labour could be employed. The heavy duty on beet sugar gives satisfaction.

CIGAR INDUSTRY IN ADELAIDE.

ITS PROBABLE DESTRUCTION.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

The federal tariff has had an immediate and detrimental effect upon the tobacco and cigar industry in this State. None of the large factories are working. This is due to the great uncertainty that prevails regarding the future, and manufacturers are having to look round, because it is necessary to make preparations for the new condition of affairs of manufacturing in bond; but the most serious matter of all is the fear, in fact almost the certainty, that the manufacture of cigars will not be continued here. Great disgust is felt among members of the trade at the new schedule, and the opinion is expressed that the tariff is neither protective nor freetrade. Preference, it is urged, is shown for just that class of cigars against which it has been difficult enough in the past to compete. From 70 to 80 hands are directly and indirectly employed in cigar-making, and from present appearances it is extremely doubtful whether any of these will be able to find employment again at their trade. The total number of hands at the tobacco factories is of course much greater, but it is expected that the work of making up the raw article into manufactured tobacco will be resumed.

PROPOSED ACTION IN NEW ZEALAND.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Friday.

In the House of Representatives further references were made to the new federal tariff. Several members declared that something would have to be done by New Zealand to meet it. Mr. Seddon said New Zealand would for a little while be inconvenienced by the new federal tariff, and would suffer some loss, but the colony would have to seek fresh markets, and get steamers to carry produce to these markets. He also said: "I hope to be able to announce to the House in a few days what we intend to do in this matter. It may mean a lengthened session, but I consider the situation grave, and we will endeavour to meet it."

The Minister for Public Works declared that the House and the Government were fully competent to deal with any position that might arise in connection with the introduction of the Commonwealth tariff.

Several members gave notice to ask the Government questions in regard to the bearing the tariff has on New Zealand producers.

OPINIONS IN TASMANIA.

HOBART, Friday.

The general feeling here is that the tariff is adroitly devised to bolster up second-rate Victorian industries, and hopes are expressed that many modifications will be secured.

OPINIONS IN THE COUNTRY.

HAY, Friday.

The effect of the tariff has been immediately felt in Hay, there being an increase in the prices of all goods approximately equal to the new duties.

LISMORE, Friday.

Fuller particulars to hand of the federal tariff showing the specific as well as the ad valorem duties, also the high rates on hats, as well as other items, lead business people to think that the duties are excessive.

LITHGOW, Friday.

With regard to the new tariff Mr. W. Sandford, of Eskbank Ironworks, expresses the opinion that an honest effort has been made to provide sufficient revenue to pay the debts of the different States, and at the same time to create channels of employment for all classes without materially increasing the cost of the necessaries of life. As far as Lithgow is concerned, he thinks that with slight alterations in the details of the tariff there is no reason why his works should not be considerably enlarged. In regard to galvanised iron, though the duty is not up to his expectations, he proposes to put down a new plant, and be in a position to double the output in that line in 12 months. He approves of the principle of bonuses on iron and steel made from our own raw material.

MURWILLUMBAH, Friday.

The local storekeepers have raised the prices in accordance with the proposed tariff, which is creating much local interest, particularly as regards the sugar duty and the excise. Surprise is expressed at there being no duty on maize.

WARIALDA, Friday.

The Commonwealth tariff is very strongly condemned. The farmers complain bitterly that all their requirements, and even machinery, are heavily taxed. This portion of the colony polled heavily against federation, believing New South Wales had everything to lose and nothing to gain, which the present outlook proves. Opinions are freely expressed that the tariff proposals will be greatly amended.

WYALONG, Friday.

The new federal tariff will add approximately 25 per cent. to the living expenses of every householder. The protectionist candidate for the district was elected to the Federal House of Representatives by an overwhelming majority, but with the bulk of the electors protection was an abstract term. One day's experience of the tariff has disturbed the settled political principles of many local voters. Hotel and boarding-house keepers are considering what alteration will require to be made in their establishments, and whether the added cost of provisions will be met by an increased charge to their boarders, or by cutting down the expenses of the house. The addition to the retail prices of dutiable articles is as high as 35 per cent. in some cases. In groceries the increased prices have been imposed at once, but in drapery, as most of the stores carried fairly large stocks, the effect of the tariff will not be fully felt for some months to come.

YASS, Friday.

The federal tariff is causing consternation here. The duties are much higher than was anticipated, and seem to be unsatisfactory to all classes.

NEW ZEALAND AND THE TARIFF.

"Give and Take" writes:—"There can be no doubt that in the tariff proposals placed before the public by the Federal Government a dead set has been made against New Zealand. The consensus of opinion is that the effect of the proposed tariff will be to shut out the New Zealand producers from the Australian market. There is no question here of revenue combined with protection. It is a policy, as far as New Zealand is concerned, of absolute restriction. And this apparently because New Zealand refused to come into the federation. There is a combination of petty feeling and short-sightedness about this policy that one would hardly expect. Already we hear of retaliation—the usual result, by the way, of prohibitive tariffs. And already we hear talk of an effort to make New Zealand independent of Australian produce. This is the first step towards hostility, and nothing could show more clearly the unstatesmanlike attitude of the Federal Government. If we cannot have New Zealand in the federation—and there are various reasons why we cannot—let us at least have their goodwill. We have enough natural enemies without making special efforts to turn our friends into foes. It is to be hoped that the Federal Parliament in its wisdom will see fit to take back this palpable affront to our neighbours and friends, the New Zealanders."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In common with many other merchants we are much puzzled as to whether certain goods are subject to duty or not. On application to the Custom-house we are met by "We do not know," or "We think so." Surely after all the experience in Melbourne we should not be left in doubt as to the intention of the tariff. A couple of items that occur to us just now are iron wood screws and brassware used for making up furniture. Certainly under division VI. "screws, n.e.i.," are listed at 25 per cent. duty, but we fail to find screws mentioned elsewhere, unless, as an opinion has been expressed, they come under the free list of machine tools used in the woodworking industry. Then, again, taking brassware for furniture. Some assume that not being mentioned it is free, and on application to the Custom-house the best information we can get is "We think 'mixed metalware' at 25 per cent. duty includes this."

We would also like to mention brushware. Under division XVI., some lines are 15 per cent., and some at 25 per cent. "Brushware, n.e.i., including brooms, mops," are at 25 per cent., but what about painters' brushware. These are not elsewhere mentioned. Are they subject to 25 per cent., or are they free, being tools of trade?

Public attention being called to these matters will, we hope, bring about some arrangement whereby reliable information may be obtained. We are, &c.,

October 9. PERPLEXED.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Certain tradesmen and merchants are notifying that the proposed new duties will at once be added to the price of their goods, regardless of the fact that their present stocks have not yet paid the new duties, or that such proposed duties may never come into operation, as they may be yet struck out, or materially reduced. How then do they propose to refund to their customers such overcharges?

I am, &c.,

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In my comments on the federal tariff in your issue of to-day I am reported as having stated that the additional protection under the new tariff to locally-made cigars is 6d per lb. This is not correct. The new tariff gives the cigarmakers in this State the additional protection of the 15 per cent. ad valorem duty as well as the 2s 6d per lb. advantage they have hitherto enjoyed in the fixed rates. The other items referred to, viz., tobacco and cigarettes, will have the further protection of 3d and 6d per lb. respectively as stated in your report. I am, &c.,

Oct. 11. A. BLASHKI.

"Queensland" writes:—"Probably very few fully understand in the new tariff that there is a very heavy duty imposed on 'packing straw and cases,' but such is the case. Under the heading of 'China, glass and stone' we have thus:—6d per cubic foot and 15 per cent. ad val., and 8d per cubic foot and 15 per cent. ad val. China and glassware imported from England, Germany, America, or anywhere else will have to bear this tariff, and as everyone knows only too well with these articles more than half the case contains straw, which is necessary in the packing of such articles. Therefore if the tariff is so much per foot and 15 per cent. ad val. we are simply paying for straw and packing, and as a general rule the cheaper the lines the more straw is required, and goods that have previously been retailed here at 6d and 1s each under the new tariff will have to be charged 1s 6d and 2s 6d each. Thus in these lines, as well as in every other under the new tariff, the poor man will suffer most."

WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN TEMPERANCE UNION.

ANNUAL CONVENTION.

The sittings of the annual convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of New South Wales were continued throughout yesterday in the Wesleyan Church, King-street, Newtown. The president (Mrs. Nolan) occupied the chair. The proceedings were opened at 10.30 a.m. by devotional exercises, conducted by Mrs. Alway, of Victoria.

The first business was the presentation of a report on "Band of Mercy Work," by Miss Ford, which was adopted.

Miss Marshman presented a report on Y.M.C.A. work, which showed that this department aimed at the influencing of young men to discontinue the use of wine.

The Rev. C. C. Dunstan (Christ Church, Enmore) was introduced to the convention, and he delivered an address, at the close of which solos were rendered by Miss Morgan and Mrs. Wotton.

The report on the work of enlisting the sympathy of ministers in the union's undertakings was read by Mrs. Wyatt Gill, and was adopted.

Resolutions were passed deploring the continuance of the South African war and the prospects of other wars. The convention also viewed with alarm the growing spirit of compromise with the drink traffic in regard to the State control of the same. A resolution was passed declaring it expedient that the franchise should be extended to women, also calling the attention of the Government to the alarming increase of pony and galloway racing in the State. That the convention was of opinion that the following six points should be embraced in the Amending Licensing Bill promised by the Premier:—The closing of public-houses on election days, effective Sunday closing, early closing on week nights, the non-employment of barmaids, the making of all new licenses subject to the present local option law, the prohibition of the sale of liquor to children and young people under 17 years of age, either for consumption or as messengers. Attention was called to the evil effects of dancing saloons and dancing at picnics, &c., by the youth of the State; also to the evil arising from gambling for charitable and religious purposes. A hope was expressed that such a practice would be made illegal. The opium traffic was also condemned, and it was urged that a measure should be introduced into Parliament to restrict it to medicinal purposes; also that a bill should be passed prohibiting the crying and selling of newspapers in the streets on the Sabbath Day. Dr. Ross was thanked for his effort in trying to suppress juvenile smoking, and the convention agreed to do all in its power to assist him in the effort. It was agreed that the thanks of the convention should be given to Sir William Lyne, the Hon. John See, and the Hon. F. B. Suttor and others for the splendid services rendered by them recently in the interests of the women's franchise.

The afternoon session was opened by a Bible study, conducted by the Rev. C. Whyte, M.A. A report on banner work was read by Mrs. Grant, after which Mrs. Finigan presented her report on evangelistic work. Several other reports were presented, including one by Miss Lucas on the work done at the union's headquarters. This report led to a lengthy discussion, and was finally adopted.

The convention then proceeded to ballot for the election of officers, with the following results:—State president, Mrs. Nolan (re-elected); corresponding secretary, Mrs. Masterman (re-elected); recording secretary, Mrs. Greenstreet (re-elected); treasurer, Mrs. Rea (unanimously re-elected); assistant secretary, Miss Devereux (re-elected). Superintendents of departments: Y.W.C.T.U. department, Mrs. Gurr; press work, Mrs. Ward; agricultural shows and fairs, Mrs. Heaydon; evangelistic work, Mrs. Finnigan; flower missions, Miss Powell; literature, Mrs. Vaughan; mothers' meeting, Mrs. Ada; peace and arbitration, Mrs. Pottie; enlisting sympathy of ministers, Mrs. Wyatt-Gill; prison work, Mrs. Gibson; Sabbath observance, Miss Suttor; scientific instruction, Miss Lucas; social purity, Mrs. Wilson; tram and cab men, Miss Marwick; unfermented wine, Mrs. Glassop; Union signal, Miss Donaldson; anti-cigarette smoking, Mrs. Wilson; hygiene, Mrs. C. Smith; franchise and legislation, Mrs. Ardill; juvenile work and L. T. L., Miss Griffith; grocers' licenses, Mrs. Donaldson; drawing-room meetings, Mrs. Courtenay Smith; banner work, Mrs. Grout; work amongst sailors, Mrs. Marley; work amongst shearers, Mrs. Paterson; railway work, Mrs. Thompson; headquarters, Miss Lucas; opium, Mrs. Woodbridge; Sunday-school work, Mrs. Buckland; mercy, Miss Ford; coffee-rooms and Boys' Brigade, Mrs. A. Grainger; membership and pledge crusade, Mrs. Higginson; anti-gambling, Mrs. Lemaire; public-house visitation, Mrs. Marwell; colonial mission fund, Mrs. Greenstreet; medal contests, Miss Penfold; W.R. signal, Miss Olive Lucas; systematic giving, Miss Miller; rescue work, Mrs. Duncan; Willard Hall Fund, Miss Marwick; work among miners, Mrs. Davidson; work among foreigners, Mrs. Doubleday.

After some formal business had been transacted the work of the convention was brought to a close with devotional exercises, led by the president.

NEWCASTLE.

THE DEATH OF MR. W. ALLSOPP.

THE INQUEST.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

The City Coroner (Mr. G. C. Martin) conducted an inquest at the Clarendon Hotel to-day on the body of Mr. William Allsopp, civil and consulting engineer, inventor, and draftsman, who was killed yesterday afternoon at Rodgers' iron foundry, Church-street West, where he was testing his latest invention, an improved turbine engine. Dr. N. J. Dunlop deposed that on his arrival at the foundry deceased was quite dead. There was a lacerated wound on the left temple which reached to the skull. The skull was shattered at the seat of the wound, and there was an opening into the brain at that part. The injury was due to some very great violence, and there were other marks on the body. The direct cause of death was shock due to the injuries received.

The assistant of deceased was also struck by one of the fragments of iron. As it was, the injuries were not sufficiently serious to necessitate medical treatment. There was evidence at the foundry of a big explosion.

Archibald Alexander Rodgers, engineer at Messrs. Rodgers Brothers' foundry, deposed that deceased was experimenting at the works to perfect a turbine engine. Mr. Allsopp had some weeks ago applied for the use of a loco-type boiler, carrying high pressure, for his experiment, and it was granted to him. The firm of Rodgers Brothers had no interest in Mr. Allsopp's experiment, and did not assist in any way to carry it out for him. The boiler and machinery allowed to deceased for his use were in good condition. Deceased had been using the plant for about three weeks, and he had never made any complaint. The attention of witness was attracted by a very loud report, and he discovered steam escaping from the broken pipes of the engine. The assistant engineer (Mr. Leslie Kirkcaldy) was staggering about with his hand to his head, and seemed to be in a dazed condition. Witness did not see Mr. Allsopp for some moments owing to the escape of steam, and upon looking for him found him at the back part of the engine. Deceased must have been knocked backwards for about three yards. He was stretched out on the ground on his back. Witness carried him from the steam, and he gave one or two gasps and then died. In the opinion of witness the centrifugal force caused a fracture of the casting of the engine at the time when the machinery was travelling at great speed. The belting had been removed for the purpose of experiment. Deceased told witness on Wednesday last that he had been working at about 5000 revolutions per minute with the belting on.

Leslie Kirkaldy, engineer, who was assisting deceased in experiments, stated that the turbine engine was being run at the time with the object of obtaining the necessary power. They succeeded in getting the number of revolutions required by deceased, who remarked that he could drive the whole of the machinery of the foundry with his turbine. The engine had previously been running at 120lb. to 130lb. pressure, but about five minutes before the explosion the boiler indicated a pressure of only 110lb. Mr. Allsopp had the wheel in his hand regulating the pressure just before the accident happened, and at the time of the explosion the engine was travelling at a speed of about 6000 revolutions per minute. All witness heard was the hissing of the escaping steam, and something struck him in the forehead which seemed to dazzle him. Witness was still suffering pain from the injury. Witness was of opinion that whilst the engine was going at a high rate of speed the revolving disc touched the inside of the cylinder, causing a part of the engine to fly into atoms. He had thorough confidence in Mr Allsopp's knowledge of engineering, and did not realise any danger in the way the engine was travelling. Deceased had had great hopes that the experiment would succeed, and therefore there was no occasion to drive the engine at a reckless speed to get what he wanted.

By the jury: At the time of the explosion they were driving at the highest speed they had attained.

By Mr. Burkett: Witness considered that the disc and the cylinder would stand the power at which they were driving, and that these parts were strong and sound.

Constable Broder deposed that he heard the explosion at 4.50 p.m. and at once proceeded to Rodgers Brothers' foundry. He asked Mr. Kirkaldy what had occurred, and he replied that the machinery had blown up and that Mr. Allsopp had been killed. Mr. Kirkaldy was bleeding from a wound in the forehead. Witness saw the body of Allsopp, and there was a large wound on the left side of the temple, near the eye. He removed the body to the City Morgue.

Annie Barker, widow, stated that she knew deceased 25 years ago in England. He was 42 years of age, and was a native of Staffordshire. Deceased had been in this State for about 20 years. He was a widower, and had a sister in Nottinghamshire.

The jury returned a verdict that the deceased was accidently killed whilst at work on an engine for turbine purposes.

SULPHIDE CORPORATION.

The weekly smelting returns of the Sulphide Corporation at Cockle Creek are as follows:—Ore treated, 1235 tons, producing bullion and matte containing 907oz. gold, 29,139oz. silver, 304 tons lead, and 53 tons copper. A further quantity of 100 tons of bullion has been sent to Sydney for transhipment into the R.M.S. Arcadia for London, and the steamship Star of Australia, now at this port, will load about 750 tons of bullion for London.

The ship Dartford, which arrived at this port during the course of last night from Fremantle, brings 1000 tons of gold ore in bulk from Western Australian mines for treatment at Cockle Creek. The ship Norwood is expected to leave Fremantle shortly with about 800 tons of gold ore, and the steamship St. Mary is due here in about a week with a further consignment of 800 tons of bagged gold ore. These shipments are being made by the Fremantle Smelting Company.

WOOL RECEIPTS.

The wool receipts at Newcastle during the week ended to-day amounted to 3498 bales, making a total of 15,362 bales received since the opening of the present season, as compared with 16,973 bales at the corresponding date of last year, thus showing a decrease of 1611 bales. In addition to the foregoing, 2467 bales have passed through Newcastle by rail during the season, of which 2128 were consigned to Melbourne and 339 to Sydney. The steamer Sophocles has been despatched during the week by Messrs. Dalgety and Co., Limited, with 1684 bales of wool for London direct, and 1083 bales have been shipped to Victoria. The steamer Star of Australia, now in port, is loading about 6500 bales, through the agency of Gibbs, Bright, and Co., for London direct.

THE PROPOSED GRAVING DOCK.

THE BOARD'S INQUIRY.

The board appointed by the Government to inquire into and report upon the proposal to construct a Government graving dock at Port Newcastle resumed its inquiry at the City Council-chambers this morning. The members of the board present were Mr. J. Davis (Under-Secretary of Public Works), Mr. W. Davidson (Inspector-General of Public Works, Victoria), and Mr. T. W. Keele (Principal Engineer of the Harbours and Rivers Department). Mr. P. Allen, assistant-engineer of the Works Department, was also in attendance as secretary to the board. Mr. William Humble, one of the Government colliery inspectors, was examined in regard to the stability of various sites proposed for the dock. He said that the site at Stockton on the north side of the harbour was undermined to a great extent by the workings of the Stockton colliery. The land appeared to be solid, but he would not undertake to say that it would remain secure for all time. The suggested site at the top of the Dyke had not been undermined, and the nearest workings, which were those of Hetton Colliery, were about half a mile distant. The same remark would apply to Spectacle Island, the name given to reclamation works in the North Harbour. The colliery workings were, however, proceeding in that direction. The site at Dempsey Island had not been undermined, and witness was of opinion that the Borehole seam would crop out before that distance was reached. The fifth proposed site, at the foot of Merewether-street, in the inner basin, was not undermined by the Wickham and Bullock Island Company, but might be undermined by the A.A. Company's collieries, which were under the jurisdiction of another inspector. The workings of the Wickham and Bullock Island Colliery were three chains away from the site in question.

James Taylor, public accountant, of Hunter-street, Sydney, deposed that a syndicate of English capitalists had decided to construct a dock in Newcastle. The principals were Messrs. Potts, Rowley, and Co., shippers, of London. Mr. Potts visited Australia recently, and had taken evidence in regard to all details. A site for the dock had been selected at Dempsey Island, and Mr. Potts was now on his way home to England by the R.M.S. Arcadia to complete arrangements for carrying out the scheme. The syndicate would have a capital of £500,000, and proposed to expend £220,000 in building a dock and £125,000 to £150,000 in establishing engineering works capable of undertaking all descriptions of shipbuilding and repairing, bridge construction, and all descriptions of engineering work. Witness was prepared to give the board of inquiry any information desired, and would produce all leases, agreements, and other documents in connection with the scheme if required. These documents were in his office in Sydney. A sum of £250,000 of the required capital had already been underwritten by Mr. Rowley. The syndicate, which was composed of English shippers, was a bona-fide corporation, and was prepared to go on with the scheme. The engineer of the company would arrive shortly, and it was anticipated that the work of constructing the dock would be commenced about June next. The dock would be about 700ft. long, and would be capable of accommodating any vessel that visited Newcastle.

The following witnesses, all of whom gave evidence in support of the Government graving dock, were examined:—Mr. E. A. P. Whiteley, of the firm of Gibbs, Bright, and Co.; Mr. Thomas Brooks, Lloyd's surveyor at the port of Newcastle; Mr. A. F. Hall, licensed surveyor; Mr. Thomas Affleck, of Stockton; Mr. James Clarke, ship chandler; Captain Grant, master of the ship Ivanhoe; Captain Maine, master of the ship Camphill; Mr. J. C. Reid, manager of the firm of Messrs. Fenwick and Co.; Mr. Robert Cameron, shipbuilder, of Stockton; and Mr. Mark M'Dermott, of Messrs. C. F. Stokes and Co. The afternoon was devoted by the board to the inspection of the various sites advocated by different witnesses.

The inquiry was resumed again to-night when the evidence of engineers was taken. The witnesses examined were Mr. John S. Rodgers (of the firm of Rodgers Brothers, engineers and founders), Mr. Robert Morison (of the firm of Morison and Bearby, engineers, of Carrington), Mr. Joseph Hodges (ironfounder, of Stockton), Mr. William Mounter (foreman in the employ of the firm of Messrs. Morison and Bearby), Mr. Charles Hudson (shipwright, of Stockton), and Mr. Andrew Boa (representing the Boilermakers and Iron Shipbuilders Trades' Union). The evidence generally was to the effect that the construction of a dock was urgently needed, and that engineering works and fitting shops should be established in connection therewith. Some witnesses were of opinion that the Government should provide all necessary machinery and appliances and leave the use of them to private firms, whilst others thought that the works should be controlled by the State. All were agreed that a dock and engineering works would provide employment for a large number of additional artisans.

The board will resume its inquiry to-morrow.

THE COAL EXPORT TRADE.

The ship Dartford, which arrived late last night from Fremantle, will load a full cargo of coal from the Waratah Colliery for the west coast of South America. The James Johnson, four-masted schooner, arrived to-day from Adelaide to load coal for Honolulu; and the B.I. liner Ugina arrived from the Bluff to load coal from various collieries prior to proceeding with horses to Bombay. The Nithsdale, barque, sailed to-day for Valparaiso with 2308 tons of Wallsend coal; the King Alfred, barque, sailed for San Francisco with 1948 tons of Hetton coal; and the Forthbank, barque, sailed for San Francisco with 2670 tons of Duckenfield coal. The following deep-sea vessels cleared at the Custom-house to-day for foreign markets:—Renee, ship, for Honolulu, via Sydney, with 2460 tons of Duckenfield coal; Invercauld, barque, for San Francisco, with 2330 tons of Seaham coal; Encore, four-masted barquentine, for Honolulu, with 1070 tons of Duckenfield coal; and Eva Montgomery, ship, for San Francisco, with 2584 tons of Duckenfield coal.

In the inter-state trade the following vessels were despatched to-day:—Barwon, steamer, for Melbourne, with 4050 tons of coal and 18 tons of coke; Age, steamer, for Melbourne, with 3100 tons of coal; Kate Tatham, schooner, for Napier, with 395 tons of coal and 8 tons of coke; and St. Ronald, steamer, for Port Pirie, with 4750 tons of coal. The Quathlamba, barque, cleared at the customs to-day for Napier with 661 tons of coal.

The British-India liner Ugina, which arrived to-day from the Bluff, will ship a quantity of coal from various collieries, after which she will proceed to Melbourne to ship horses, and will then return to Newcastle to complete her shipment of horses for Bombay, India. The four-masted barque James Johnson, which put in an appearance to-day from Adelaide, brings a cargo of 2290 bags of South Australian salt. The quantity of coal shipped at the Government hydraulic cranes at the Dyke during the present week averaged 11,233 tons per day.

FREE KINDERGARTEN SCHOOLS.

Yesterday afternoon at Mona, Darling Point, a two days' "Garden Fete" was opened by Mrs. John See, in aid of the funds of the Free Kindergarten Schools of New South Wales, and was largely attended. The weather was somewhat uninviting, consequently the best use was made of the commodious art gallery, situated at the side of the residence. Numerous flags of all kinds surrounded the hall, within which a number of stalls were arranged. The articles for disposal were numerous and costly. Special attention was attracted to the cushion stall, upon which some handsomely worked cushions were on view. At the present time there are three kindergarten schools (Miller's Point, Newtown, and Woolloomooloo), each having a staff of trained teachers. There is also a training centre at Roslyn Gardens, under the superintendance of Miss Buckey. The Premier (Mr. See), who was to have performed the opening ceremony, was prevented from being present owing to his Parliamentary duties he. However, forwarded an apology, and further during the afternoon telephoned informing the lady workers at the "fete" that the sum of £500 had that day been passed by Parliament as a grant to assist in the work of the New South Wales Kindergarten Union. The news was received with satisfaction. Dr. P. Sydney Jones, one of the vice-presidents, briefly addressed those present upon the good work done by the kindergarten schools, and introduced Mrs. See. Mrs. See wished the ladies success in their efforts, and formally declared the fete open.

No. 1, Refreshments.—Mrs. R. M. Sly, Mrs. J. F. Thomas, Mrs. L. Russell Jones, Mrs. J. H. Landau, Mrs. Sydney Philips, Mrs. W. Thow, and the Misses Sydney Jones.

No. 2, Sweets.—Mrs. J. Goldschmidt and Mrs. M. Goldring.

No. 3, Cushions and Fancy Work.—Mrs. E. M. Bennett and Mrs. W. G. Whiting.

No. 4, Dolls.—Miss Carne, Miss Stewart, and Miss Whiting.

No. 5, Kitchenware.—Mrs. J. T. Toohey, Mrs. F. A. Davenport, and Mrs. J. Spencer Brunton.

No. 6, Dips.—Mrs. H. Henderson.

No. 7, Cake.—Mrs. Wynn Roberts.

No. 8, Flowers.—Mrs. Mant and Miss Brown.

No. 9, Spinning Wheel.—Mr. F. A. Davenport.

Mrs. F. A. Davenport carried out the duties of secretary.

THE PROPOSED SWIMMING BATHS.

Mr. Charles A. Walker writes:—"The thousands of people residing on the southern side of the New South Head-road, between it and Oxford-street, together with Double Bay, Darling Point, and Woollahra, are to be left entirely unprovided for (under the proposed scheme) in a city with more bathing facilities than any other in the world. Why do not the Paddington Council or the Government erect floating or other baths in Rushcutter, Rose, and Double Bays, as suggested by your correspondent 'Hope,' and lease them to suitable persons, plenty of whom would be found to come forward as soon as the baths were open for leasing. The cost of building would not be large, and at any rate the return would pay a handsome percentage on the outlay."

Mr. A. J. Cuming writes suggesting that the proposed swimming baths should be erected on the piece of ground bounded by Macquarie-place, Bridge and Loftus streets. His idea is to provide a building, suitably roofed, so that lawns, flower-beds, and walks could be formed on it. Swimming baths in that locality would pay handsomely, as few people would lose any time in travelling to and fro.

CADETS IN THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

Regulations regarding the salary of professional cadets and the examination of engineering cadets and others for the office of junior assistant engineer are published in the "Government Gazette." It is provided that any cadet in the professional division who has been appointed to the service after passing the competitive examination held under the provisions of the Act for admission to the professional division, shall, on attaining the age of 21, and provided the board are certified that his conduct and general efficiency have been satisfactory, be entitled to receive a salary of £110 per annum, such increased salary to date from July 1 or January 1 following his twenty-first birthday.

GOVERNMENT LAUNCHES.

Regulations relating to crews of launches are published in the "Government Gazette." They provide that the working hours of crews of launches shall be 48 hours per week, to be worked at such intervals as the Minister, to meet the exigencies of the service, may require. The crews will be required to work overtime whenever the exigencies of the service necessitate their doing so, and for the extra time so worked payment will be allowed, on the recommendation of the permanent head, and subject to the approval of the board, at the ordinary rate of wages of the officer concerned, or, in lieu of such payment, the officer may be allowed an equal time off duty.

CHARITY ORGANISATION SOCIETY.

The monthly meeting of the Charity Organisation Society was held on Wednesday last. There were present Messrs. E. Foebery (chairman), F. C. Griffiths, J. Keep, and J. Sidney (secretary). The report of the work for the month, together with statistics from other societies, showed that the distress generally experienced during winter months was diminishing, and an improved condition of the poor was noticeable, compared with the same time last year. The number applying for assistance was 152. Of this number 139 received assistance, according to their proved necessity. Upon investigation, 13 were found to be undeserving. Inquiries were also made as to the genuineness of 14 begging letters received by subscribers and sent to the office for report.

TIMBER INDUSTRIES' ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the Timber Industries Association was held at the rooms, City Bank Chambers, Sussex-street, on Wednesday afternoon. Present Messrs. R. A. Price, M.L.A., in the chair, J. C. Hickson, hon. secretary, Kelly, Utley, Preddey, and Captains Eichman and De Fraine. Communications were received from Messrs. Reid and Shaw, of Grafton, and W. Delacheur, hon. secretary Dora Creek Progress Association, and referred to the delegates to be appointed. The following gentlemen were elected as delegates from the association to consult with the officers in charge of the Forestry Bill now being prepared:—Messrs. E. H. Utley, Dubbo; J. Brockenridge, Tailford; A. Ellis, Bellinger; G. Walters, Manning; Captain De Fraine, Camden Haven; Captain Eichman, Nambucca; W. S. Preddey, Sydney.

The hon. treasurer reported the funds in a satisfactory condition, and the roll of membership increasing. Three new members were nominated, and six gentlemen who had rendered conspicuous services to the timber interests were elected as hon. members.

THE BOYS' BRIGADE.

A return quoit match of 500 up was played in the Brigade Hall on Thursday evening against the East Sydney Pastime Club, resulting in a win for the Brigade by 70 points. J. Buckingham captained the Brigade, and James the visitors. After the match an impromptu concert took place, and light refreshments were served, the superintendent proposing the health of the defeated team.

MILITARY ENCAMPMENT.

THE AUSTRALIAN HORSE.

GOULBURN, Friday.

At the Australian Horse district encampment last night, a large fire was built and a meeting was held round it, Sergeant-major Wedd, of the Goulburn troop, occupying the chair. All the officers were present. Songs were given and the regimental band played selections. The chairman thanked Colonel Mackay for the high compliments he had paid the Goulburn troop. With regard to the management of the camp, and the details of the drill he said the Goulburn troop looked upon Captain Wray, D.S.O., as one of themselves. He had obtained knowledge as leader, which had served him in good stead in South Africa. Colonel Mackay, in responding to his health and to the complimentary references, said he considered the Goulburn troop the best in the regiment; of course Goulburn had an advantage over the other troops in being in a settled district. He praised the good management displayed in all the camp details. He was pleased to notice that fully 10 per cent of the men present had seen service in South Africa. Cheers were given for Colonel and Mrs. Mackay and the "daughter of the regiment."

This morning the squadron did reconnoitring work and passed through a supposed enemy's country. A skeleton of the enemy under Lieutenant Vaughan was first despatched to look up a position unknown to the attackers, under Major Ryrie. The Braidwood troop represented the enemy, who were driven from hill to hill. The men, especially those who returned from South Africa, took cover well, displaying an intelligent comprehension of the situation. The Colonel commended the display made. The central attack was made by one troop while two others executed flank movements. A rearguard action was also fought. Captain Wilkinson and Lieutenant Campbell were with Major Ryrie, while Lieutenant Shadler was with Lieutenant Vaughan. Both sides did good work.

Major-General French arrived this afternoon, and was escorted to the camp by the Goulburn troop under Lieutenant Shadler. The General held a review of the troops this afternoon, which was witnessed by a large number of spectators from the city. The General was accompanied by Staff-captain Dangar. The troops were marched before the saluting base in squadrons and companies at a walk, a canter, and a gallop. The arms were next examined, and the General complimented the troopers on their knowledge of the rifle. Troop drill succeeded. The men were afterwards addressed by the General, who eulogised them for the creditable display they had made. The camp terminates to-morrow morning. The fixture for to-morrow is the military tournament.

PHILLIP DIVISION.

MR. MEAGHER'S CANDIDATURE.

A meeting was held at Weir's Hotel, Devonshire-street, last night. Mr. J. J. Moloney, a retired candidate, presided. There was a large attendance. The candidate dealt with the collection of all license fees for hotels, music halls, dancing saloons, &c., and urged the imposition of a wheel tax by the City Council. He also advocated the taking over of the abattoirs by the municipality. A motion of confidence, on the proposition of Alderman M'Elhone, was carried. Subsequently the candidate addressed another large meeting at the Darlington end of the electorate, and received a unanimous vote of confidence.

In another column Mr. R. D. Meagher, M.L.A., is announced to address a mass meeting to-night at Noonan's Hotel, Haymarket.

THE LIBRARY OF FAMOUS LITERATURE.

We understand that the local agents for "The Library of Famous Literature" are receiving many applications for the available numbers of the publication. The 20 volumes of the "Library" contain the essence of literature ancient, mediæval, and modern. It may be that here and there a reader will find his favourite author not represented to the extent he desires, but everybody will find his favourite author—if he is also a great writer in any branch of literature—represented to a certain extent. Prose and poetry of all ages, history and biography, philosophy and humour, fiction and fact—the "Library" contains all of these. We venture to say that no person, however well informed, can turn over the leaves of this publication without finding something in his own line which he had not previously known. This is for specialists in particular lines. For most of us—who are not specialists—the "Library" is a fertile field for interesting wanderings. We find here something of the best in every field of literature—from the oldest to the newest humour, poetry, drama, fiction, and history covering all ages. The "Library" will be highly appreciated by all who are in a position to avail themselves of the publisher's offer.

CITY CORPORATION LABOURERS.

A well-attended meeting of labourers employed by the City Council was held under the auspices of the United Labourers' Protective Society at the Trades' Hall last night. The president of the society (Mr. George Waite) occupied the chair, and the attendance included Aldermen S. Smith and A. Kelly, Ms.L.A.

The chairman, Aldermen Smith and Kelly, and others addressed the meeting, and impressed upon the corporation labourers the benefits to be expected from organisation. It was hoped when the meeting was convened that the men would be induced to join the United Labourers' Protective Society, and the speakers strongly advised them to take that course.

The remarks of those who delivered addresses were followed with close attention, and it is believed that about 60 of the men present will become members of the society.

SYDNEY LABOUR COUNCIL.

The weekly meeting of the Sydney Labour Council was held on Monday night at the Trades Hall. Mr. D. Quinn presided, and there was a large attendance of delegates.

Considerable interest was aroused by a motion which had for its object the exclusion from the council of delegates who were not practising members of their unions. It was asserted that several representatives of various unions did not actually follow their trades for a living. They were admitted to be members in the practical sense, but the point was taken—that, as they were not practising members, they were not bona fide delegates. Several delegates contributed to an animated debate, which was adjourned until a future meeting.

If the motion is carried it is expected to lead to the resignation of some prominent delegates.

A deputation was elected to wait upon the Tramway Employees' Union asking that body to affiliate with the council.

WICKERWORKERS' UNION.

A meeting of wickerworkers employed in the city and suburbs was held recently at the Cosmopolitan Hotel, Erskine-street, for the purpose of forming a union. The chairman pointed out that the wages in the trade were unsatisfactory, and that much benefit would be gained by organisation among the men. After some discussion it was resolved to form a union, to be called the Wickerworkers' Union of New South Wales. The following office-bearers were elected:—President, Mr. J. Creamer; secretary, Mr. H. Camamile; treasurer, Mr. F. Farman; trustees, Messrs. T. Camamile, F. Martin, and B. Triplett. It was arranged to draw up a scale of wages in excess of those now ruling in the trade. The meeting was adjourned till Monday next.

THE TRAMWAY SERVICE DISPUTE.

The meeting of tramway men, held on Thursday night, was adjourned until yesterday morning in order that the men who were off duty might be given an opportunity of considering the suggestion that had been made and agreed to at the overnight meeting. Yesterday morning upwards of 100 tramway employees assembled at the Trades Hall. The chair was taken by Mr. T. Burke, who explained at length what had taken place when the deputation of the previous day waited upon the Commissioners for Railways, and also the resolutions which had been carried at the meeting of employees held on Thursday evening. After a long discussion of a conversational character the resolution carried at the meeting referred to, which was in favour of the appointment of a deputation to wait upon the Minister for Railways, was unanimously adopted.

MINING INTELLIGENCE.

Business on the Mining market yesterday was quiet, with very few changes in values. Local silver stocks showed a weaker tendency in most instances, with sales of Broken Hill South, paid, at 22s 6d. Copper companies had some attention. Chillagoe Railway and Mines changed hands at 10s 6d, compared with previous sales at 11s, and Mount Garnet Freehold were steady with business at 30s. Western Australian ventures were firmer in several instances in sympathy with London. Great Boulder Proprietary sold at 20s, Queen Margaret at 14s 8½d to 14s 10½d, Block 45 at 4s 2d, and Queen Margaret Central at 1s 6d. In Queensland stocks, South Glanmire and Monkland were again firmer with business at 24s 9d, and No. 2 South Great Eastern had a good advance with sales at 43s and buyers still prepared to operate at that figure. In local gold and dredging companies, Grassy Gully, paid, were 2d firmer, with business at 2s 3d; Associated Gold-dredging, contributing, sold at 4s 7d, and Little River Dredging at 1½d. In other divisions Briseis Tin had business at 14s 6d, Woodlark Island, paid, at 8s 9d, and contributing at 4s 6d.

PEAK HILL PROPRIETARY COMPANY.

The half-yearly general meeting of the Peak Hill Proprietary Gold-mining Company, N.L., was held on Tuesday last at Victoria-chambers, Mr. W. J. Blunt presided.

The directors' report stated that the negotiations for the disposal of the company's property—or the formation of a larger company—in London were still proceeding. Meanwhile, operations at the mine were being confined to the crushing of ore obtained by tributers, the cyaniding of the tailings from such ore, and of tailings raised from the old workings. During the half-year 720 tons of ore were crushed for a return (form the battery) of 135oz. of gold, and 700 tons of tailings were cyanided for 120oz. of gold. Including results since obtained, 1000 tons of ore (chiefly from the large dyke formation) yielded, by battery treatment and cyaniding of the tailings, over 8dwt. of gold per ton. The purchase of the Wyhes and Mooney Company's block of 20 acres for 10,000 fully paid-up shares had, it was stated, consolidated the company's holding and materially enhanced its value. And should the negotiations now pending in London not succeed, active operations will be resumed at the mine, and every effort made to have one of the water supply schemes referred to in last half-year's report carried out without further delay, with a view to working the mine on a more extensive scale than has hitherto been possible.

The report and balance-sheet were adopted.

MINING IN NEW SOUTH WALES.

WELLINGTON, Friday.

Matters in connection with the Mitchell's Creek Freehold Mining Company are progressing rapidly. Nearly all the machinery has been obtained, and what promises to be a new and prosperous reef has been discovered. The yield continues to be satisfactory.

HILLGROVE DISTRICT.

HILLGROVE, Friday.

Baker's Creek battery for the fortnight crushed 469 tons for a yield of 502oz. 2dwt. of smelted gold; also 10 tons of concentrates estimated to contain 40oz.; total, 542oz. The battery did not run on Eight-hours Day and lost six hours' run owing to a fracture of the cam shaft.

The Eleanora battery crushed 55 tons for a yield of 26oz. of smelted gold for Hyde and party. The battery is now crushing for Pyke and party.

OPERATIONS AT CLEAR CREEK.

BATHURST, Friday.

At Clear Creek mining is going steadily ahead and the field promises well. Both Mitten and Gilmour's batteries are kept constantly at work on good payable stone. At the Mount Conquer mine, from which 20oz. were recently taken from 27 tons of stone, a contract has been let to sink a further 50ft. on the reef. Large numbers of claims are being worked and some excellent surface shows are to be seen.

ORANGE DISTRICT.

ORANGE, Friday.

A meeting of the New Hope Copper-mining Syndicate, of Cargo, was held at Orange last night. The manager reported that No. 2 shaft was down 16ft., and bunches of copper ore were being frequently come upon. Instructions were given to continue sinking the shaft.

The manager of the Diamond Hill Copper Mine, Guyong, reports that the big spar reef on the lease has made into payable ore at a depth of about 195ft. from the caplode, opening out strongly. Bodies of good ore are being disclosed.

WESTERN AUSTRALIAN DEVELOPMENTS.

KALGOORLIE, Friday.

At the Lake View Consols rich ore is being furnished from the stope above the No. 5 level, also from the stope at the No. 1 level, near the north boundary. The deepest stope at the mine is now at the No. 7 level. The lode at this point is 6ft. wide and of about 30dwt. value.

Work in connection with the installation of the Reichen vats at the Boulder No. 1 is making good headway and will be finished within four weeks.

The Brown Hill Central Company is negotiating for a rock drill plant, for want of which development work has been much hampered in the past.

LAW REPORT.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 11.

(Before Mr. Justice A. H. Simpson.)

APPLICATION FOR FORECLOSURE.

Wildman and Another v. Whyte and Others.

Mr. Knox, instructed by Mr. J. R. Garland, solicitor, appeared for the plaintiffs, Elizabeth Wildman and Andrew William Smith. The defendants, James Joseph Whyte, Patrick Whyte, and John Whyte, executors of the will of Peter Whyte, were unrepresented, and did not appear. This was a suit, by way of originating summons, for the foreclosure of a mortgage on certain lands in the Wagga district belonging to the estate of the late Peter Whyte. In the summons the plaintiffs asked for an order (1) "That an account be taken of what is due to the plaintiffs for principal, interest, and costs upon the security of the indentures of mortgage and transfer of mortgage; (2) that the defendants, as executors of the will of the said Peter Whyte, deceased, do out of the estate of the said Peter Whyte, or that the defendant James Joseph Whyte, pay to the plaintiffs the amount found to be due to them by a short day to be appointed for that purpose; (3) that in default of such payment by the defendants or the defendant James Joseph Whyte to the plaintiffs, the said land and hereditaments be sold, or that the defendants or the defendant James Joseph Whyte be foreclosed of all right, title, and equity of redemption therein or thereto, and that the defendants do deliver up to the plaintiffs possession of the said land and hereditaments comprised in the abovementioned indentures of mortgage and transfer of mortgage respectively."

After hearing argument his Honor made an order against James Joseph Whyte and the executors of the will of Peter Whyte for accounts to be taken under the mortgage, also payment to the plaintiffs of what was due thereon, in default, foreclosure and delivery of possession of the land.

INJUNCTION AGAINST A VOCALIST.

Hallam v. Lyding.

Mr. Harvey, instructed by Messrs. M'Donell and Moffitt, appeared for the plaintiff, Henry Hallam, theatrical manager, Sydney. The defendant, George Lyding, did not appear. This was an application by the plaintiff to restrain the defendant, a tenor vocalist, from performing within the Australian States, or elsewhere, during the continuance of an agreement between the parties. In an affidavit the plaintiff set forth that he was the proprietor and manager of the Josephine Stanton Opera Company, a company formed for the purpose of giving operatic performances, in New Zealand and the Australian States. On June 1, 1901, an agreement was entered into between the plaintiff and the defendant—the latter being a tenor vocalist in New York—by which the defendant engaged himself as leading tenor, or in any other capacity or character which he might be assigned by the plaintiff in connection with the company formed to give operatic performances. The engagement was to be for the seasons of 1901, 1902, and 1903, and was to continue for two years, more or less, as plaintiff might decide. On his part Lyding agreed to render satisfactory services, to attend all rehearsals, to take part in the regular performances and holidays. Plaintiff agreed to pay Lyding, if the agreement was satisfactorily carried out, a weekly salary of 50 dollars, and to furnish all costumes, except boots, shoes, tights, stockings, lace, and feathers, or any modern costumes which the defendant might have in his possession. In the case of any inattention on the part of the defendant, the agreement might be annulled by the plaintiff on giving proper notice. During rehearsals, and in the first week of actual performances, plaintiff to have the right to cancel the contract, and to have the exclusive right to decide during such time the competency of Lyding, and on giving two weeks' notice, for cause or without cause, to cancel the agreement. It was understood at the same time that the amount of compensation payable to defendant was arrived at by including an additional consideration for the privilege Hallam enjoyed to cancel the agreement. The plaintiff agreed to pay transportation expenses to and from New York, except where the defendant failed to complete the full term, and such transportation expense might be deducted from Lyding's salary. On his part, Lyding agreed not to act, dance, or perform at any other place or theatre in Australia, or the world. Any breach of this agreement gave Hallam the right by injunction to restrain Lyding from doing so. Lyding performed in New Zealand for some months, then suddenly left plaintiff's service last August, and came to New South Wales. Since then Hallam had learned that Lyding, on October 5, performed at Newcastle under engagement to another person, and threatened to also perform at Bathurst on October 9 and following days. Plaintiff alleged that as a result of defendant's action he (Hallam) had suffered great damage, and would continue to suffer damage unless Lyding was restrained from performing. The plaintiff said that he had always been ready and willing to perform, and had performed his part of the contract.

His Honor granted an interim injunction until the hearing of a suit to restrain the defendant from performing at Bathurst in October, and gave leave to the defendant to move to dissolve the injunction on giving two days' notice to the plaintiff.

IN CHAMBERS.

(Before the Chief Justice.)

Re A. E. M'Dermott (G. F. Scott and W. Barry respondents.)

Mr. Cowan, instructed by Messrs. Sly and Russell (for Mr. J. R. Carlton, of Maitland) appeared for the applicant, M'Dermott; and Mr. Lamb, instructed by the Acting Crown solicitor, for the respondent Barry. This was an application on behalf of Alfred E. M'Dermott, of Singleton, comedian, to make absolute a rule nisi calling upon George Frederick, of East Maitland, P.M., and Constable Walter Barry, of Lochinvar, to show cause why a prohibition should not be issued to restrain the respondents from further proceeding upon an order made by the magistrate at the Court of Petty Sessions, held at Greta on September 11 last, in a case in which Barry was informant and M'Dermott defendant. It appeared that M'Dermott was charged upon an information framed under the provisions of the 50th section of the Public Health Act of 1896 (60 Vic., No. 38) with having on or about August 18 polluted Lochinvar Creek, the water of which was used for domestic purposes, by knowingly permitting a horse to fall therein. The evidence for the prosecution went to show that defendant had camped for three or four days in the middle of August on the creek, and had two or three horses and a couple of vehicles. On August 26 he found the decomposed body of a horse in the creek. It was too far gone to remove. The defendant in his evidence said that the horse had been missing from the camp for two days, and he afterwards found the body of the animal in the creek. He tried to get it out but failed. The horse was the property of Charles Kennedy, one of the members of his company, and he (defendant) never owned or drove the animal. The magistrate held the case to be proved, and fined defendant 5s, and also ordered him to pay 17s for the informant's costs, in default to be imprisoned for seven days in Maitland gaol. He now appealed on the ground that the evidence did not support the information in the case.

After hearing argument his Honor said that there was not a tittle of evidence to show that the applicant was present at the time the horse fell into the river, or that he had any opportunity of preventing it from falling in. The rule must be made absolute for a prohibition, but without costs, as the applicant could have appealed to Quarter Sessions, which would have been a less costly proceeding, and also because the prosecuting constable was only doing his duty.

BANKRUPTCY COURT.

(Before the Registrar, Mr. Arthur Henry.)

CREDITORS' PETITIONS.

A.J.S. Bank, Limited v. Robert Ignatius Mooney. On the application of Mr. C. Cowper, solicitor for the petitioning creditors, an adjournment until the 14th instant was granted, as the petition had only been served at Grenfell on the 8th instant.

Re Thomas Samuel Petherbridge versus Michael P. Barry. Mr. Moseley appeared for the petitioning creditor, and Mr. Ash for the respondent. By consent the application was adjourned to the 18th instant.

MOTION UNDER SECTION 61.

Re John Henry Davies. The bankrupt was not present, and was not represented. The report from the head of the department was considered, and an order was made for the payment of £1 per month; first payment to be made on November next.

PUBLIC EXAMINATION.

Re William Jenkins Gillam. Mr. Loxton, instructed by Messrs. Perkins and Fosbery, appeared for the official assignee (Mr. L. T. Lloyd); Mr. Maughan, instructed by Messrs. Thompson and Nott, for Mr. C. J. Windeyer, a proved creditor to the extent of £100; and Mr. R. S. Simpson (of Messrs. Minter, Simpson, and Co.), for the National Bank of Australasia. Bankrupt, in answer to Mr. Maughan, said that the balance-sheet prepared prior to the dissolution of the firm of Earp, Gillam, and Co., showed that there was in the firm's books £2000 of his private estate. That was not credited to him, and if the whole of his private interest had been credited to him it would have represented £8505 instead of £2035. The assets were written down by £6000, and the book debts were written down from £12,650 to £3588. The East Greta shares were written down from 20s to 15s. They were worth from 25s to 20s. During seven years he received from the firm £3500, and during the 17 years he received, including his shares, £13,000 in cash. The East Greta shares were debited to him at 20s, although only credited to him at 15s. His partner knew of the action brought against him by the National Bank with regard to his business in Western Australia. Mr. Earp knew that his (bankrupt's) wife's properties were mentioned in the balance-sheets. The private property of the partners was entered for the purpose of making the balance-sheets larger. Until the time the expert accountant was appointed no one in particular kept the books of the firm. He mortgaged certain properties to the Bank of New South Wales in 1891. They were his own properties. It was not true that he did not own properties in Western Australia, and this was shown by the communication produced from his solicitors at Albany. He was never overdrawn in the firm of Earp, Gillam, and Co. taking his capital into account, though, according to the partnership accounts he had drawn more than he was entitled to. After about £7000 had been written off the capital, he came out with a credit of about £1500. He put £100 into the business originally and Mr. Earp also put in £100. There was no truth whatever in the suggestion that he offered a bribe to Cater or his son in connection with the sale of the Anvil Creek Company.

By Mr. Loxton: During the time that no expert accountant was engaged in the business of Earp, Gillam, and Co. he kept the books partially. They were not kept by him exclusively. He had not been bankrupt before, and had never assigned his estate for the benefit of his creditors.

By Mr. Maughan: When he mortgaged the properties to the Bank of New South Wales the equity of redemption was worth £1800 more than he owed the bank, but afterwards the value of the properties depreciated.

The examination was then closed.

EXAMINATION UNDER SECTION 30.

The bankrupt was further examined under section 30, and in answer to Mr. Loxton he said that he produced the scrip, representing 100 fully paid-up shares and 50 contributing shares in the East Greta Colliery which he gave to his daughter. He produced it under protest, as it was not his property.

Mr. Loxton asked that the scrip should go in as an exhibit and be impounded by the Court; but Mr. Maughan, on behalf of the bankrupt, objected on the ground that the scrip was not shown to be portion of the bankrupt's estate; on the contrary, it was sworn to be the property of his daughter.

The Registrar: Until the official assignee proves that the scrip forms portion of the estate I cannot direct that it be marked as an exhibit, or impounded. It may be marked for identification.

Witness also produced, under protest, his son's scrip, and it too was marked for identification.

G. F. Earp, examined by Mr. Loxton, said he first knew about 1888 or 1889 that the bankrupt owed the National Bank money, when he saw by the Trade Circular that the bank had issued a writ against him for £3000. The properties which the bankrupt put into the firm's business as representing capital were, so far as the firm was concerned, only a book entry, and bankrupt was allowed for them. Witness never knew at any time during the partnership that bankrupt's wife had any interest in the properties. It was not true that the bankrupt never overdrew his account with the firm. For three years the books of the firm were principally kept by the bankrupt.

Oliver Kay Young, merchant, of West Maitland, said that in 1888 and 1889 he was part owner of the land now forming the East Greta Company, of which he was now a director. The scrip produced, Nos. 32 and 33, for 500 fully paid up shares in the East Greta Colliery signed by witness and the scrip for 500 shares signed by Mr. Gillam were in respect of the same shares.

Mr. Loxton: How is it that your signature appears on one set of scrip and Mr Gillam's appears on the other 500, when both scrip are in respect of the same shares?—The scrip signed by Mr. Gillam were never issued, and they are not on the company's register; whereas the scrip 32 and 33 signed by me are in respect of shares that do appear on the register of the company. They were issued to the late R. A. Young and were transferred from him to W. J. Gillam.

Q.: How was it that he had an opportunity of signing scrip in respect of shares which never existed?—Because 5000 shares were made out in error in 1891, and were never issued. They were put into a package, sealed up by the secretary, and put away into the safe at the office of the company, East Greta, or were supposed to have been put away there. Mr. Gillam received fresh scrip for that which was issued in error.

Q.: Had he any authority from the company from the time of its inception up to the present time to sign that scrip which contains his signature?—No.

Q.: And as a matter of fact that scrip was valueless?—Yes.

Q.: And as far as you know he must have known that they were valueless?—I cannot say that. All I know is that the firm was to get 5000 fully paid-up shares for floating the company, and they got them. Mr. Gillam was the chairman of the company at the time and in full charge of the East Greta Company's office. The National Bank of Australasia presented this particular scrip to the East Greta Company in order to get it transferred, and the reply was that Mr. Gillam held no such shares. That was the first time the company had any knowledge of the matter.

E. T. Huffman, the accountant of Messrs. Earp Brothers and Company, was further examined, and the examination was then adjourned to the 29th instant.

SOCIAL.

Except for fetes and bazaars in aid of charities there have been but few social functions during the week. Rear-Admiral Sir Lewis and Lady Beaumont gave a large "at home" on Tuesday, which has already been noticed in our columns, and also a similar entertainment yesterday afternoon, at Admiralty House, when many guests were present.

The Primate and Miss Snowdon Smith have issued invitations to a garden party at Bishopscourt on Saturday, October 19th, the guests being invited "to meet his Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor and Miss Darley."

Last Saturday evening Her Majesty's Theatre was crowded, and long before the curtain went up for the first act "standing room only" was announced. This large audience assembled to witness the first performance by the Italian Opera Company this season of Gounod's "Faust." Amongst those present were Baroness Miklouho Maclay, accompanied by her two sons, Mrs. and Miss Wills Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Geoffrey Fairfax, Miss Cox, Dr. and Mrs. Thring, Miss M'Callum, Mr. and Mrs. E. Knox, the Misses Knox, Mr. Lassetter, Mrs. H. Lassetter, Flag-Lieutenant Pratt-Barlow, Mrs. and Miss Cape, Mr. and Mrs. H. Cox, Mrs. A. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. H. Fairfax, Mr. MacGeorge, Mrs. Goodman, Dr. R. Davis, Miss Ryrie, Mrs. Rood, Mrs. Russell French, Miss French, and Mr. and Mrs. D'Arcy Irving. Mme. De Vere Sapio, as Margherita, wore in the first acts a dress of pale blue accordeon-pleated chiffon, with a velvet bodice of the same shade, slashed with white, and opening over a vest of white lace, and a small cap to match. Her second dress was made in the same style, the colour being pale mauve. In the last scene she appeared in pale grey.

During the week Signora Lina de Benedetto, as Elvira in "Ernani," wore some beautiful dresses, the first being of pale pink duchesse satin, with a panel and border of gold embroidery. The bodice was trimmed to correspond, and the whole finished with a girdle of pearls and diamond ornaments. She next appeared in a handsome dress of black velvet, and her wedding dress in the last act was of white satin, embroidered with silver sequins. Her long tulle veil was fastened with a crown of jewels, and she also wore a jewelled girdle and other ornaments.

A correspondent writes that a pleasant function took place at Bradwardine, Bathurst, last Monday afternoon, when Mrs. F. B. Suttor gave a farewell tea to Mrs. Charles Barton and her daughters, who are leaving Bathurst for their home near Wellington. During the afternoon the Hon. F. B. Suttor gave an exhibition of a large phonograph. Mr. Max Scherek contributed several selections on the pianoforte, and "ping pong" was played by some of the guests. Refreshments and strawberries and cream were served in the ballroom. About 40 guests were present, amongst whom were the Bishop of Bathurst and Mrs. Camidge, Lady Innes, Mrs. Smith, the Hon. George Lee, Mrs. and the Misses Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Suttor, the Misses Suttor, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Suttor, Rev. Herbert Dempster and Mrs. Dempster, Miss Franki, Mr. and Mrs. J. M'Phillamy, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Lee, Miss Joan Lee, Dr. and Mrs. Moore, Mr. Justice and Mrs. Stephen, Mrs. Darvall Barton, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Britten, Rev. O'Brenzen Ball, and Mr. Wilfrid Jones.

On Saturday, October 5, Miss Wallis, Ascham, Darling Point, held her annual garden party, to which were invited the members of the "Ascham Old Girls' Union." It was a pleasant cool afternoon, and tables for ping pong were arranged on the lawn, and tea and strawberries were served in the dining-room. During the afternoon Miss Murray Prior sang. Amongst those present were Mrs. Cassan Simpson, Mrs. Alison, Mrs. W. D. M. Merewether, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Mant, Mrs. F. Cowper, Miss Madeline Docker, Miss M. Knox, Miss Teece, Miss Hayes, the Misses Yeomans, the Misses Lingen, Miss Baxter Bruce, Miss Agnes Purves, Miss Jones, and Miss Elsie Salter.

On October 3 a drawing-room meeting was held by Mrs. Stanger-Leathes at her residence, The Rift, Bowral, with the object of interesting the ladies of Bowral (especially those connected with the Ministering Children's League) in establishing a free kindergarten at that place. About 35 leading residents were present. The Rev. Mr. Wilkinson introduced Miss Buckey, who gave an account of the work done in Sydney along these lines, and explained the uses of kindergarten materials, &c. The following Tuesday afternoon—October 8—the Bowral Free Kindergarten was declared open by the Mayor of Bowral in the presence of a number of interested friends. Mrs. Stanger-Leathes explained the motives of the free kindergarten work among the poor, and pointed out the fact that such an institution would prove a very valuable part of the work done by the Ministering Children's League, and she hoped it would be adopted by that society. She has, however, for the present assumed all financial responsibility. At her request Miss Buckey explained the value of kindergarten work from both a moral and intellectual standpoint. Miss Carey, a graduate of the Free Kindergarten Training College, Sydney, is in charge.

On Wednesday, September 25, at Christ Church, Lavender Bay, a pretty wedding took place between Miss Ida Deane, second daughter of Mr. Henry Deane, solicitor, of this city, and Mr. L. A. Burleigh Stuart, only son of Mr. George Stuart, of Hobart, Tasmania. The rector (Rev. J. H. Maclean) officiated. The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, wore a handsome dress of brocaded satin with the customary wreath and veil, and carried a beautiful shower bouquet. She also wore an opal ring, the gift of the bridegroom. The bridesmaid, Miss Beatrice Deane, sister of the bride, wore a dress of rose-pink figured glace silk, with transparent yoke and sleeves of white chiffon, white chiffon hat with touches of pink, and carried a shower bouquet of pink and cream roses. The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Frank Amphlett as best man. On passing out of the church the "Wedding March" was played by Mr. Warmsley, the church organist. After the ceremony the guests, numbering about 160, adjourned to Deancliff, High-street, North Sydney, the residence of the bride's parents. The wedding breakfast was served in a marquee erected in the grounds.

A wedding was solemnised at St. Thomas' Church, North Sydney, on Wednesday, September 18, when Mr. William Joseph Small, eldest son of the late Mr. William Walter Small, North Sydney, was married to Miss Amy Maude, eldest daughter of Mr. Isaac Trimble Gate, of Tapio, North Sydney. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. S. H. Childe, M.A. The bride was escorted by her father, who gave her away, and wore a dress of white grass lawn trimmed with torchon lace and chiffon. She wore a coronet of orange blossoms and a beautiful veil, also a pearl crescent brooch, and carried a shower bouquet, the gifts of the bridegroom. The bridesmaids were Miss Una Gate (sister of the bride) and Miss Vera Hopkins, who were dressed in white grass lawn trimmed with Valenciennes lace, large hats with ostrich feathers; their shower bouquets of wistaria and pearl heart and bar brooches were gifts from the bridegroom. The bridegroom was attended by Mr. W. O. Hopkins, who acted as best man. Mr. and Mrs. Small left by the Northern mail for Maitland, where the honeymoon is to be spent. The bride's travelling dress was a pale green voile, with white hat trimmed with pink roses.

The marriage of Miss Beatrice Lucy Drescher, daughter of ex-Alderman K. Drescher, Bowral, with Mr. John Aubrey Hodgson, son of Mr. John Hodgson, late of Brooklyn, Bowral, took place at the Bowral Presbyterian Church on Monday, October 7. The Rev. G. A. Gordon was the officiating minister. The church was filled with spectators, and was profusely decorated with flowers, amongst which waratahs were conspicuous. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore white muslin and the usual wreath and veil, also a gold brooch (the gift of the bridegroom), and carried a bouquet. The bridesmaids were Miss Hodgson, Miss Kent (Sydney), and Misses M. and F. Drescher (sisters of the bride), who were all dressed in white, with hats to match, and each wore a gold brooch, the gift of the bridegroom. Mr. Lidcock acted as best man. After the ceremony the party adjourned to the Oddfellows' Hall, where the wedding breakfast was served. Among the guests present were—Mr. and Mrs. Johnson (Sydney), Mr. and Mrs. Kent (Sydney), Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Ferguson (Robertson), Mr. J. B. Hill (Bowral), Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Christie (Mayor and Mayoress of Bowral), Mr. A. Mitchell (Goulburn). Mr. and Mrs. Hodgson subsequently left by the evening train for Sydney. The bride's travelling dress was reseda green, trimmed with cream silk and ecru lace, and a green toque. The wedding presents were numerous and valuable. The bride's parents entertained about 100 guests in the evening at the Oddfellows' Hall.

The church at Moorfields was the scene of a wedding on Wednesday afternoon last, when the marriage of Mr. A. J. Davey, son of the late Mr. W. E. Davey, of St. Leonards, and Miss Blanche Howell, of Haldon House, Belmore, was celebrated. The interior of the church was decorated with flowers, and a floral arch had been erected in front of the altar. The bride, who was given away by Mr. Price Howell, her brother, was dressed in white trimmed with ribbon and lace, and wore a wreath and veil and carried a shower bouquet. The bridesmaids were the Misses M. Howell and Wills, who wore cream and white respectively. Mr. F. Hardy was best man and Mr. A. Allison groomsman. The Rev. Thomas Jenkins, M.A., officiated, and Miss Forsyth played the "Wedding March" at the close of the ceremony, when also the children of the Sunday school, where both the bride and bridegroom had been prominent workers, showered them with rose leaves. A reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Davey left later in the evening for Blackheath. The bride's going-away dress was grey with hat to match.

The silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Robinson was celebrated on Monday, when the relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, numbering 50, assembled from Waratah, Newcastle, Bowral, and Sydney to do honour to the couple. At the dinner the Rev. J. Chaffers Welsh, the Rev. A. Renwick, and Mr. E. B. Cragg (Mr. Robinson's old schoolmaster) made speeches. Mr. Robinson has been an alderman for many years, is a J.P., and has been five times Mayor of Singleton.

READ MRS. H. FLYNN'S TESTIMONY: Nowra, 16th July, 1901.

The Proprietor of VITADATIO.

Dear Sir,—This is to certify that I have taken VITADATIO, and it has completely cured me of Bright's Disease, Erysipelas, and Liver Complaint, and has also cured me of swelling in the Legs and Arms, from which I had suffered for the last 40 years. I can now go about my work, and do it as well as I could 30 years ago, which is saying a good deal. I am over 67 years old. I procured the VITADATIO from Woodhill and Co.'s store.

Yours very gratefully,

A VICTORY FROM JUNEE.

30 YEARS A SUFFERER.

VITADATIO CURED HIM.

Mr. S. A. PALMER, Sydney.

Dear Sir,—It is now close on 30 years since I had the first attack of a cold, which has troubled me continuously. At first the cough was only slight, and, as most people thoughtlessly do, I did not take any particular care of myself, thinking the cough would soon leave me. I was then about 14st. in weight; but I began to get much worse, and, in spite of medical attendance, I soon found the cold had such a severe hold on me that nothing apparently did me any good. For years I tried many of the advertised remedies, but they all failed to cure me. The cough increased, and before I could lay down in bed at night I would be seized with a fit of coughing which frequently lasted for an hour, during which time I would expectorate a great quantity of phlegm. I lost flesh rapidly, and my clothes were simply hanging on me like bags. However, a short time ago I commenced taking "Webber's Vitadatio," and, after taking the second bottle, I began to improve, and now, after taking six large bottles of Vitadatio, I feel splendid, and have regained my loss in weight—I am 14st. again. I cannot express my gratitude for the recovery of my long-lost health. I intend taking a few more bottles so as to make the cure thorough and complete, and I am sending you this testimonial in the hope that other sufferers may be induced to give your wonderful medicine a trial.

Yours gratefully,
(Signed) W. R. LYONS.

MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

Friday Evening.

In the Stock and Share market business in investment stocks has been more than usually quiet for some days past. There is no apparent cause for this other than an unsettled feeling regarding the tariff and its possible consequences. Certainly there has been no weakening of the situation. Shareholders in the various companies are apparently not disposed to make concessions. As regards prices, the market continues very steady. A few of the stocks are a trifle higher, one or two rather lower, with no considerable movement in any, and no sign of anything to disturb the list. The money market is adequately supplied, and all necessary accommodation tends to keep things easy. The demands upon the banks by merchants and storekeepers to enable them to hold £5,000,000 or £6,000,000 of merchandise in excess of ordinary requirements will now be at an end, and advances by them may be expected to run off within the next few months, giving funds which, with the proceeds of the wool and wheat crops, and the running off of the winter advances to producers, will all tend towards ease. The expected permanent restriction of imports consequent on the protectionist tariff will also tend to lessen the demand for money, though perhaps not very much, for the counteracting influence of the higher prices of imports must be felt. The drain on the money market for Government loans will in these conditions not have so much effect as it would in ordinary conditions. To-day's business, though not considerable, included more transactions than on earlier days in the week. Queensland and New Zealand debentures, due in 1913, were offered at 104. In banks, New Zealand brought 37s 6d, for City Bank (new) 93s was offered. Australian Joint Stock Bank A and B deposits continue to sell at about late rates, 14s 11d being paid for the former and 12s for the latter. Port Jackson Steam Co-operative were offered at 37s, and the last quotation. Australian Mutual Fire Insurance were inquired for at 33s. Australian Gaslight (new) advanced ¼, selling at 8¾. Tooth's Brewery were sold at 27s. Permanent Trustee were inquired for at 1s 11d. There was inquiry for Volunteer Land Orders at 130.

On the Sydney Stock Exchange to-day the following sales were reported:—Forencon: Sydney Hydraulic, contributing, 26s; A.J.S. Bank B deposits, 15s; Sydney Ferries, 31s Noon: A.J.S. Bank A deposits, 14s 11d; Sydney Ferries, 31s; Emu Gravel, 13s 6d; Australian Gaslight (new), 8¾. Later: Tooth's Brewery, 27s. Afternoon: Nil. Later: Bank of New Zealand, 37s 6d: Tooth's Brewery, 27s. The closing quotations were:—

One of the consequences of the introduction of the federal tariff is the retirement of the Commissioners of Customs of New South Wales, who since 1879 have rendered good service as between the Collector of Customs and importers. Where disputes have arisen they have been appealed to with advantage, more particularly in the times when ad valorem duties were in force. No provision was made in the Commonwealth Customs Bill for the appointment of Commissioners, though the matter was discussed in Parliament. There was no arrangement of the kind in the other States, it being thought that if Commissioners were appointed at all there might be some clashing of decisions. In favour of the appointment of course is the check that would be given to the arbitrary, and it may be inconsiderate, exercise of authority by the Customs officials, who would naturally be more cautious with a revising board behind them. However, we are not now to have Commissioners. The first board in New South Wales in 1870 consisted of Messrs. B. Molineaux, J. R. Street, and John Alger. Subsequently the members appointed were Messrs. Michael Metcalfe, Edward Lee, J. H. Starey, Jas. Powell, and Mr. J. R. Allt. Messrs. B. Molineaux, Jas. Powell, and T. R. Allt are those who now retire. Mr. Molineaux held the office of President from the creation of the board, in 1879.

The fifth series of London wool sales, which began on September 17, has now closed. Opening with a rise of 7½ to 10 per cent. in the case of merinos, the market improved, and within a week a further advance of 5 per cent. occurred. In rather less than a week afterwards, however, there was a weaker tendency, as on September 30 it was stated that prices of merinos were irregular and slightly in buyers' favour. The movement then practically meant the lapse to the opening rates, for we have been advised that the market has remained firm since, and has now closed with prices at from 5 to 10 per cent. above those current at the opening. Fine crossbreds have followed pretty much the same course, and the sales close with prices 5 to 7 per cent. higher than at the close of the last series. But coarse wools have not maintained the advance of 5 per cent. noticed at the opening of the sales, but are now said to be scarcely on a par with the closing prices of last series. Messrs. Jacomb, Son, and Co. give the following as the quotations then current:—

N.S. Wales Washed Fleece—
Secured	1/6 to 1/8½	1/1½ to 1/5½	0/7½ to 1/1

Queensland Washed Fleece—

Greasy fleece	0/9 to 1/0	0/6½ to 0/8½	0/5 to 0/6
Merino Lambs—Washed
Greasy	0/10½ to 1/0	0/3 to 0/10	0/2½ to 0/4½

Last year it will be remembered that only five series of sales were held in the year, the fifth and last beginning on October 9 and ending on November 4. The business done at that series, and at the fifth series of sales in the previous year, in comparison with that at the sales now closed, is as follows:—

	Sept.-Nov. 1900.	Oct.-Nov. 1900.	Sept.-Oct. 1901.
	Bales.	Bales.	Bales.
Home consumption	170,000	162,000	143,000
Continent	102,000	71,000	127,000
United States	8,000	8,000	5,000
Held over	4,000	133,000	34,000

The feature of this business is the large increase in the amount of wool bought for the Continent. Last year the quantity taken by the buyers there was small; stocks have become very much reduced in consequence, and with another sale still to be held, and only 34,000 bales held over for the statistical position cannot but be regarded as more favourable.

Though the bank of England stock of gold and the reserve show smaller figures for the week, the proportion of reserve to liabilities also being smaller, the market rate of discount has declined 1-16 per cent. The influence of the 15 per cent. instalment of the £60,000,000 loan, due at the bank yesterday, is apparent in the return, in the accumulation of private deposits, and doubtless to some extent in the public deposits being as high as they are. The Government have again borrowed from the bank. Next week's return will probably show a restoration to normal conditions. Consols have recovered ½ from the drop advised two days back, though they are still ½ below last week's quotations. All colonial securities are unaltered.

In illustration of our statements regarding the operation of the disallowance of rebates on underproof spirits it is pointed out that if the new regulation is insisted on the New South Wales public will pay over £25,000 as duty on the water contained in the 70,939 cases of whisky and brandy, and 20,246 cases of gin, schnapps, and other spirits at present held in bonded stores in Sydney, and something more on stocks of underproof liquids afloat for this port.

The directors of Reuter's Telegram Company, Limited, have declared the usual interim dividend for the half-year ended September 30 at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum.

Parts VIII. and XII. of the "Statistical Register" for 1900 and previous years, dealing with financial institutions and hospitals and charities, have been published. The following table shows the amount of deposits in the classes of institutions named during the last five years:—

Dec. 1896	29,533,916	8,522,623	911,124	39,068,955
Dec. 1897	29,605,755	9,190,703	759,361	39,827,224
Dec. 1898	29,832,711	9,490,044	780,668	40,423,500
Dec. 1899	31,428,257	10,069,434	682,710	42,180,401
Dec. 1900	32,320,501	10,901,392	883,383	44,305,056

The total figures include the deposits in benefit building societies, of which the amount in 1900 was £283,690. In four years there was an increase in deposits of £4,608,101, or 11·6 per cent., wholly represented in the figures of the banks of issue and savings banks.

BREADSTUFFS.

Wheat was particularly scarce, milling wheat being exported as chickfeed at 3s per bushel f.o.b. Flour was steady and unchanged at £6 5s to £6 15s for local brands.

The exports of wheat from the port of Sydney during the week ended October 5 totalled 25,149 bags, all of which were shipped to Falmouth. The shipments of flour during the same period were:—To Hongkong, 370 bags; to the Islands, 124 bags; to Noumea, 370 bags; to London, 640 bags; and to Queensland, 3095 bags.

Up to date the shipments have been as follows:—

* Flour in half-sacks, quarter-sacks, and packages has been converted into its equivalent in sacks for comparative purposes.

The "Argus" gives the shipments of Victorian and Riverina produce via Melbourne to date as follows:—

	Wheat. Bags.	Flour. Bags.
Victorian produce	1,836,021	315,928
New South Wales produce	274,676	13,000
Total	2,111,697	329,518

Of New South Wales produce shipped from Sydney and Melbourne the exports represent 6,761,374 bushels of wheat, while those of Victorian produce represent 9,323,388 bushels.

There are also 133,584 bags, equivalent to 667,774 bushels, of wheat in bond and in transit through Victoria. If they are added to the exports by sea from Sydney and Melbourne they give an approximate total export of 7,329,148 bushels from New South Wales up to date.

IMPORT MARKET.

Great unsettlement still prevails, though prices are gradually being once more quoted. Except in the case of agency goods, however, it is difficult to find two houses quoting exactly the same rate. Actual business was small in all departments.

The immediate effect of the imposition of the uniform tariff has been to strengthen prices of many articles. Some few have immediately responded to the full extent of the new tax, but in the great majority of instances the movement has been only partial, and in many cases there has so far been no alteration at all. Those articles coming under the last-named category have been influenced either through the tariff being inoperative, as is the case with much local produce, of which Australia produces more than sufficient for her own requirements, or they have been influenced through the great weight of stocks, which will make response to the altered conditions of slow development. We have compiled a table, showing the prices that have ruled of late for a good number of the leading articles of merchandise in comparison with the prices now current, the new duty being given in each case. The prices formerly ruling have been specially selected in such a way as to bear them as far as possible of the increased rates obtained for some articles from those who discounted the new proposals. One instance may be quoted by way of comparison. English malt was quoted, prior to the tariff proposals being known, at 7s 6d to 8s per bushel. We have, however, taken 6s 9d as the price ruling prior to the new duties being declared, for the increase from that rate was of the anticipatory character referred to, and is therefore not fair to quote. The comparison made be made as follows:—

* In the case of Mildura lexias and Tasmanian apples, there has been a reduction in prices, due to the abolition of the inter-State duty of 2d per lb.

As far as articles of food are concerned, there have been a good many advances in Victoria, as well as in New South Wales. The "Argus," in its commercial columns, comments on some of the changes in the following terms:—

The wholesale houses in nearly every department of trade have agreed to follow the tariff implicitly in their prices, whether higher or lower. But as the tariff is severe upon many of the smaller articles of consumption there are also about a hundred advances to a few reductions in grocery lines. As the proposed duty on currants is 1d lower than the new one-and-a-half Victorian duty, currants are quoted at 6½d for Provincials and 6¾d for Vostizzas. Maizena is lower at 7d, and Lahey's arrowroot at 5d. Clement's corn flour is quoted at 3½d, and Brown and Polson's at 7d. Starch has been advanced 1½d per lb., quotations being for both Lewis and Whitty's and Silver Star 4½d in paper and 5½d per lb. boxes. Peel, both English and Tasmanian, is 1d per lb. higher. Nestle's milk food is quoted at 1lb 6d, Neave's food at 1lb 6d. Taylor's and Fry's cocoas have been raised 1d per lb., and Van Houten's is per dozen. Schweitzer's cocoa is dearer per lb. Pepper, spices, and mixed mangos, sauces, ginger, &c., have been advanced 2d per lb. The new duty of 2s per central on linseed has caused the price of linseed to be increased 3d per bushel, the duty on uncleaned being increased from 4s to 5s 3d per 100lb., and on cleaned from 6s to 8s. Sago and tapioca, hitherto free, have to pay 4s per 100lb., or 1s per lb. Salt has had its price to advance accordingly. Although raw coffee is made dutiable, prices of raw, roasted, and mixed remain unchanged, in consequence of stocks being large, but Robertson's coffee essences is 1d per bottle dearer. The

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE

THE TURF.

The following scratchings were recorded yesterday in connection with the Rosehill October Meeting:—Granville Stakes: Geneva. Two-year-old Stakes: British Rule, The Trustee, and Mars. October Handicap: Bombshell, Redmond, Wonga. Clyde Stakes: Myall. Hurdle Race: Gygess.

Chryso Kera's dam, Crystalline, by Grandmaster (imp.) from Chrysolite's daughter, Chrysophrase, has dropped a coal foal by Russley (imp.) and visits Vendetta.

Blodwin, by Guinea from Diana, by Robinson Crusoe, has also foaled a colt foal to Russley, and visits him again.

Messrs. H Chisholm and Co. report having effected a lease, for racing purposes, of the chestnut two-year-old filly by Senechal from Patrona (sister to Patron and Ruenalf) to Mr. W. H. Killick, Kogarah.

Burrowa R. C., Paterson and Allyn Rivers J.C., Tabletop Shearers', and Moree race meetings were yesterday granted registration by the A.J.C.

The Bega district J.C. (our correspondent states) has arranged the annual programme. The prizes total £355. 25 horses are in training at Bega for the races on November 6.

The programme is announced in the advertising columns for the Moorfield October Meeting. Entries for the events enumerated therein close with the secretary, Mr. John Jolly, before 4 p.m. on Monday next.

VICTORIAN AMATEUR TURF CLUB.

ANTICIPATIONS BY OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The spring racing campaign in Victoria opens to-morrow at Caulfield, under the management of the V.A.T.C., with every prospect of a pleasant reunion should there be a continuance of the fine weather experienced during the last couple of days, and the class of horses engaged foreshadow high-class sport. The tracks at Caulfield are in good condition, and judging by the interest taken in the racing a large gathering may be anticipated on the heath. The opening event, the Emo Hurdle Race, promises to attract a large field, and bring about an interesting contest. Redeemer, who heads the list for the jumping event, has been allotted his full share, but John Rid, who follows with a concession of 9lb, is more attractive. Victor should give a good account of himself under 11st 13lb, and so should Carbinier, who is the sole representative of the Mill Park stable. Despite the fact that Siara has been sent up 13lb. for his success at Flemington, the son of Lochiel must run well, as also should Beloka, Rickshaw, Tatter Wallop, and Mornington. The battle promises to be well fought out, and places may go to Rickshaw, Victor, and John Rid. With such good performers as Sequence, San Fran, Australian Colours, Vocalist, George Frederick, Ampier, Wakeful, and Hautvilliers engaged in the Caulfield Stakes, the event is invested with more than the ordinary interest. It is more than probable that Hautvilliers will be reserved for the Caulfield Guineas, and should Sequence not be kept for the Toorak Handicap he must be very hard to beat over a mile and a furlong. The distance may not be long enough for San Fran, but Australian Colours will have to be reckoned with at the close of the trip. George Frederick has also a good show, and so have Ampier and Wakeful, who should be suited by the length of the journey. The race looks a good thing for Sequence, who may be escorted home by Australian Colours and San Fran. Though there are half a score acceptors for the Caulfield Guineas the field is not likely to exceed seven, and even though encumbered with 7lb penalty Hautvilliers seems to have the best chance of claiming the judge's attention at the end of the trip. Grasspan has to put up 3lb extra for his good deeds, and if he would run kindly should have a say in the settlement of affairs. Ibex, who is also called upon to put up 3lb extra, has improved greatly since his arrival here, and may be trusted to run a great colt, while Haymaker must be reckoned with. When whips are cracking Caravel also promises to run well, and the battle should be fought out by Quintet, mentioned with Hautvillers, Ibex, and Grasspan, to pass the judge in the order written. A large field is promised for the Ringwood Steeplechase, in which Arcadia, though burdened with 12st 7lb, must be one of the hardest to beat. The Millpark stable will be represented on the list by The African and Riccarton, and the chosen one of the pair is entitled to great respect. Talk of the Hills and Billy Manton next strike the eye as having good chances, and so have Gilbert, Aloha, and Lemonade. The cross-country contest should be well worth witnessing, and the situations may be filled by Arcadia, Mr. Miller's best (probably Riccarton), and Lemonade. With 19 well-bred youngsters engaged in the well-endowed Debutante Stakes a most interesting run may be anticipated, and though a number of them have not yet appeared under silk they have shown work that inspires their respective owners with great confidence, and the contest may be regarded as very open. Those that have been shaping best in public and private are Brakpan, Latchkey, Portcullis, Fishery, Farewell, Blue Rose, Lord Middleton, Heloise, Port Fire, and Homeward Bound, and Brakpan, Lord Middleton, and Portcullis may get home in the order named. The afternoon's sport will be brought to a close with the Toorak Handicap, for which there are 22 acceptors. Even with the complimentary burden of 10st 4lb if Sequence takes the track he must be very hard to beat, while Paradox, in the same interest, is also engaged, and is entitled to respect. Wakeful should be nicely suited with 9st 2lb, while with 7lb less Ampier must have a good look in. Combat should also run well, as should Kenley, Canada, Omrah, Blunderer, Honeybee, Acetine, and Bonnie Chiel. A great race may be expected, in which the most prominent parts should be played by Sequence, Wakeful, Ampier, Paradox, Kenley, and Acetine, and the situations may go to Mayo's choice, Sequence or Paradox, Ampier, and Wakeful. Appended is the programme:—

VICTORIAN TRAINING NOTES.

(BY OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

MELBOURNE, Friday.

This being an off morning very little work of importance was done on the training tracks. At Flemington Manlock put up a season's record over half a mile, covering the distance in 50 seconds. Altitude and Positive went over half a mile at a strong pace, but the others of Scobie's team were restricted to steady work. Blunderer slipped over 4 furlongs in 51¼ seconds. Brakpan and Milner showed good pace over three furlongs, and Grasspan beat Lord Rudolph over half a mile in 52 seconds.

The Caulfield tracks were in good order. Caravel and Warrior II., cast half a mile behind in 52 seconds. Malva beat Saker over three furlongs in 39¼ seconds. Sequence got over half a mile in 51 seconds, and Gunga Din accounted for a similar distance in 54 seconds. Massinissa, Caledonia, Lucknow, Paradox, Ohio, and Honeybee were treated to easy tasks. Victorian and Beloka were sent over three hurdles, and the former shaped badly, but Beloka negotiated the obstacles in good style.

MELBOURNE BETTING.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

At the Victorian Club to-day Wakeful was backed for the Caulfield Cup to win upwards of £4000 at 10 to 1, and is now first favourite, 9 to 1 being the best price on offer. £2000 was accepted about Hymettus at 100 to 7, and 1000 to 60 booked about Vocalist.

LATEST SCRATCHINGS.

The following scratchings were posted to-day:—V.A.T.C. Spring Meeting:—Caulfield Stakes: Lady Grafton and Omrah. Caulfield Guineas: Master Key, Fotheringay, and Buller. Caulfield Cup: Ohio. Eclipse Stakes: Lady Grafton. Australian Hunters' Cup: Buzz. Ringwood Steeplechase: Tipperary Lass and Dodo. Emo Hurdle Race: Carbinier. Wyuna Steeplechase: Tipperary Lass and Tangiers.

V.R.C. Spring Meeting:—Derby: Winchester and Manchester.

ROSEHILL RACING CLUB.

A race meeting will be held at the prettily arranged Rosehill racecourse to-day, and, as usual, a large attendance can be looked forward to, despite the fact that many sportsmen are at this time of the year visiting Melbourne to witness the running of the important spring events there. The management has, however, provided for the results of the different events on the opening day of the V.A.T.C. meeting being without loss of time telegraphed to the course. To obviate the inconveniences of crushing at the ticket office patrons may obtain tickets to admit to the grand stand and Leger reserve at the Redfern railway station; central booking office, George-street; tram terminus, Bent-street; and tramway waiting-rooms, at Park and Liverpool streets. A service of special trains will run direct to the racecourse platform, leaving Redfern station as follows:—11.40 a.m. (horse train), 12.20 p.m., 12.50 p.m., 12.55 p.m., 1 p.m., 1.8 p.m., 1.23 p.m., 1.41 p.m. Just sufficient rain has fallen at the course to make the "going" good, and should the weather remain fine to-day there is nothing to prevent the meeting being as successful from every point of view as any of the preceding ones. In the Hurdle Race, timed to start at 2.5 p.m., the positions may be filled by Oberon, Crick, and Margrave. The next event, the Clyde Stakes, may be secured by Royal King from Leapfrog and Dalmore. The Two-year-old Stakes should be won by Good Speed, with Jim Gosper and Fighting Charlie filling the other positions. In the Granville Stakes the chances of Miss Robinson, Foxy, and Webbe look the most assuring. The principal event of the day, the October Handicap, should provide a good contest, and the judge's verdict may be in favour of Glenore, while Lady Darling and Azure should also run well. Sport will conclude with the Welter Mile, which may be won by Popgun from Bulli and Negrito.

Strathfield G.C.—Medal match.

INTER-CLUB MATCHES.

The last round of suburban inter-club matches will be played to-day. Hunter's Hill A team is leading in its series. In the B grade the competition is very close. A good deal of interest is being taken in the matches by suburban golfers. The matches are:—

Hunter's Hill v. Dobroyde, A teams.—Hunter's Hill: F. A. A. Russell, R. D. Fitzgerald, W. A. Windeyer, C. T. Metcalfe, H. R. Lysaght, N. F. Christoe, G. H. Partridge, C. H. Philips. Dobroyde: T. C. CRICKET.

THE LOCAL COMPETITIONS.

The second round of the grade competitions will be concluded to-day. The heavy rain to midnight on Thursday and the threatening clouds last night pointed to bowlers' wickets for to-day. At the Sydney Cricket Ground Paddington and Sydney will resume their match, which the former have already won. Trumper, who is 96 not out, should get his hundred, which would be his second in succession. Waverley will no doubt declare at once, and will set Redfern the task of scoring 364. Notwithstanding that Redfern have their strongest batting side, Waverley should win. North Sydney have obtained 241 for six wickets against Glebe. The latter have proved very successful in playing drawn games when there was little hope of their winning. If the wicket be sticky, 241 should be enough to secure a victory, but if it be greasy, the runs may be obtained if North Sydney "declared" straight away. Central Cumberland, with one wicket for 129, are in the best of positions with Burwood, who were dismissed for 86. The following are the engagements:—

FIRST GRADE.

Sydney v. Paddington, Sydney Cricket Ground.
North Sydney v. Glebe, North Sydney Oval.
Central Cumberland v. Burwood, Parramatta.
Redfern v. Waverley, Redfern Oval.

Paddington v. Central Cumberland, Hampden Park.
Glebe v. Burwood, Wentworth Park.
Petersham v. Waverley, Petersham.
University v. North Sydney, University.
St. George v. Sydney, Brighton.
Leichhardt-Balmain, a bye.

THIRD GRADE.

Leichhardt-Balmain v. Manly, Balmain.
Burwood v. Petersham, Burwood.
St. George v. Sydney, Alexandria Oval.
Waverley v. Paddington, Waverley.
Glebe v. University, Wentworth Park.
Redfern v. North Sydney, Waterloo Park.

SYDNEY CRICKET GROUND TEAM V. LEICHHARDT-BALMAIN.

The match between the team chosen by the trustees of the Sydney Cricket Ground and Leichhardt-Balmain will be resumed on No. 2 area to-day. The former scored 251 and Leichhardt-Balmain have lost three wickets for 70.

THE DOMAIN WICKETS.

By advertisement elsewhere it is intimated that match wickets are to let on the Domain.

NEW SOUTH WALES CYCLISTS' UNION.

The chief interest in cycling circles to-day will centre upon the race meeting of the Cyclists' Union. A good programme of cycling and athletic events will be submitted. The cycling events comprise half and ten miles scratch races, half, one, and two miles handicaps, and one mile Glebe Bicycle Club, one mile Western Suburbs B. C., three miles Redfern B. C. members' handicaps. These events, including finals and heats, will provide 19 races, and they have drawn 197 entries. The half and ten miles scratch races are being run for the purpose of assisting the executive in selecting a representative to compete in the Australasian amateur championship at Brisbane on October 26. All the best amateur riders in the State have entered. The three open handicaps should provide good races, for in no heat are the back-markers handicapped out of the events. The first race, the 10 miles test, starts at 2.45 p.m.

25 MILES ROAD CHAMPIONSHIP.

The Balmain Bicycle Club are the winners of this important event, with D. Ellis, of the Newtown Bicycle Club, as individual winner. The judges have not placed the runners-up as yet, but will do so next week.

Several members of the Metropolitan Wheel Club toured the northern district during the holiday. Starting from Newcastle they rode to Dungog, via Raymond Terrace and Stroud, and returned by way of Paterson and East Maitland, having had a very enjoyable time.

LAWN TENNIS.

STRATHFIELD TOURNAMENT.

It was decided last night to postpone the games in the above, set down for to-day, because of the rain.

THE INTER-STATE MATCHES.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Melbourne Cricket Club has arranged with the New South Wales Cricket Association that the inter-state lawn tennis match with New South Wales will take place on the Warehousemen's Cricket Ground on November 16 and 18. Both States will be represented by their full strength. It is almost certain that a match with South Australia will be played on the same days, which will make the tournament one of the best yet held. The Victorian championship will be played for on the 19th and following days, when there will be numerous handicap events played off.

BOWLS.

TO-DAY'S FIXTURES.

City v. Annandale, on the City Green, 4 rinks.
Victoria Park v. Chatswood, at Victoria Park, 4 rinks.
St. George v. Balmain, at Balmain, 4 rinks.
St. George v. Petersham, at Rockdale, 4 rinks.
Redfern v. Manly, at Redfern, 4 rinks.

YACHTING.

PRINCE ALFRED YACHT CLUB.

The monthly meeting of the Prince Alfred Yacht Club was held at the club rooms, Moore-street, last Thursday evening. Mr. C. T. Brockhoff, rear commodore, presided over a good attendance of members. Mr. Calvert's motion, to the effect that all yachts competing in club races should carry a number on each side of the peak of the mainsail, was carried, and it was also agreed to confer with the Royal Sydney Yacht Squadron as to the same numbers being used by both clubs. Mr. Dempster's motion, "That the club consider the advisability of purchasing a piece of freehold water-frontage land, and of building a club house thereon; that no decision be arrived at earlier than the annual meeting in 1902, and in the meantime the committee, with the assistance of the members, obtain information, details, photos, &c., of similar institutions in various parts of the world," was also carried. A letter was received from the Life Saving Society pointing out the advantage it would be to members of the club to have a knowledge of how to rescue a drowning person, or to resuscitate one apparently drowned. It was decided to try and arrange for an exhibition and lecture to be given in the club rooms.

Messrs. W. M. Paul and J. A. Muston were elected members of the club.

At a committee meeting of the above club held last Tuesday evening a new sailing course was laid out for the coming season, and which will be known as No. 5, and is as follows:—Starting from the Royal Arthur's buoy round Manly, Shark Island, Fort Denison, Pile light, Shark Island, Fort Denison, Shark Island, and back to starting line. This course is to be used for the championship event and the commodore's cup. The course for the ocean race will be laid to give as much windward work as possible. With northerly winds, Curl-Curl will be chosen; easterly or westerly winds, five miles due east; southerly winds, Coogee will be the direction; the commodore of the day to declare which course is to be sailed. The committee have decided to frame two handicaps for all handicap races, one for a working and the other for a leading wind.

The first race, which was set down for the 26th instant, has been postponed until November 9, and on the original date a rendezvous of yachts will take place in lieu of the race.

A private match between Mr. Waterman's Myee and Mr. Marks's Cronulla has been arranged to take place to-day, starting about 2.30 p.m. from Fort Denison, thence round the Lightship and Pigs, Shark Island, and finish at starting point.

ROYAL SYDNEY YACHT SQUADRON.

The committee of the above club have added a race to the programme for boats not exceeding 20-rating, under the Sydney Amateur Sailing Club's rules. The monthly meeting of the members will be held next Monday evening.

SAILING.

SYDNEY AMATEUR CLUB.

The official opening of the season by the Sydney Amateur Sailing Club will take place this afternoon. The event is to take the form of a couple of handicap races over short courses and a rendezvous of the fleet. The conditions attached to the contests provide that the competitors shall carry their ordinary working sails on, no booming out being allowed, and the handicaps will not be made known till after the conclusion of the events, when they will be deducted from the finishing times. The crews of the competitors are to assemble on the club steamer, and the prizes will accordingly be handed over to the successful owners. The class B event, which is to be started at 3 o'clock, will be sailed over a course from the No. 2 buoy, Farm Cove, round the Watson's Bay Pilelight, thence round Shark Island, and finishing at the club steamer, which is to form the rendezvous. The competitors in the other race will be despatched at 3.15, the course for this being the same, with the exception that the Lightship and Sow and Pigs will be rounded instead of the Pilelight. The following are the boats entered:—Class A: Magic, Cooya, Sunbeam, Fleetwing, Bona, and Heather. Class B: Mercia, Dragon, Bunyip, Yankee, Fay, Karagi, Netta, Patongie, and Phryne. The actual rendezvous has not yet been chosen, but if the prevailing breeze is from the north-east or east it will be in Athol Bight, or from the south or south-east at Point Piper, while in the event of its being from the western quarter Taylor Bay will be resorted to.

For the convenience of members and their friends the fine new steamer Woy Woy has been chartered for the occasion, and she is advertised to leave No. 3 jetty, Circular Quay, at 2.45 p.m.

SYDNEY SAILING CLUB.

The Sydney Sailing Club will decide its initial race of the season this afternoon, the event being a general handicap. The course is from Fort Denison round the Lightship, Sow and Pigs, and Shark Island, and back to Fort Denison, thence round Shark Island a second time, and finishing across the starting line. Prizes have been fixed at:—First prize, £6; second, £3; third, £1; fourth, 10s. The entries, skippers, and handicaps are as follows:—Plover (Chris. Webb), scratch; Keriki (O. Taylor), ¾ minute; Hiawatha (W. Anderson), 3½ minutes; Southern Cross (J. J. Macken), 4 minutes; Young Harry (S. Richardson), 6½ minutes; Guinevere (R. Green), 7½ minutes; Donnelly (G. Holmes), 9 minutes; Iris (H. Langford), 11 minutes; Ethel, 23ft. (J. Nichols), 12 minutes; Arthur Pearce (W. Burkett), 14 minutes; Genesta (A. E. Carpenter), 16 minutes; Yogi (R. C. Scott), 17½ minutes; Mascotte (C. Dunn), 19 minutes. From this allotment it would appear that some of the handicap boats have been liberally treated, and in anything like a good breeze they should have no difficulty in defeating the "backmarkers." Plover, it will be seen, is to concede Keriki a start of ¾ minute, and in any case these two should make a close race of it, but they have been set a task in the matter of handicaps which they will not find easy to overcome.

The club steamer Lady Mary will follow the race, calling at the customary Balmain wharfs as advertised, and finally leaving Circular Quay at 3 p.m.

JOHNSTONE'S BAY CLUB.

The weekly meeting of the Johnstone's Bay Sailing Club was held on Thursday night at the club rooms, Pacific Hotel, Stephen-street, Balmain. The commodore (Mr. A. W. Sommerville) occupied the chair, and there was a good attendance of members. Correspondence was read from the St. George Sailing Club inviting the officers and members to the official opening of the season by that club on Saturday. It was decided to accept the invitation, and that the club should be officially represented. The commodore (Mr. A. W. Sommerville), the vice-commodore (Mr. George Ellis), and Messrs. E. H. Vale (trustee), E. H. Brett (treasurer), and A. E. Elliott (secretary) were instructed to officially represent the club at the late Mr. A. E. G. Thomas's funeral on Sunday next. Arrangements were made for the 8-footers' race set down for to-day. The entries, skippers, and handicaps are as follows:—Inez (T. Timbrell) work scratch, lead scratch; Britannia (J. Thompson), work scratch, lead scratch; Valkyrie (A. West), work 1 minute, lead 30 seconds; Era (W. Ellis), work 7 minutes, lead 4 minutes. The following course was decided upon: From Goat Island, round Shark Island, finishing at Goat Island. The entries for the 10-footers' handicap were as follows:—Zanita (J. Hartland), work scratch, lead scratch; Crescent II. (C. Dunn), work scratch, lead scratch; Pheasant (T. Cuneo), work 2 minutes, lead 1½ minute. The course was the same as for the 8-footers.

IRON COVE CLUB.

A committee meeting of the Iron Cove Sailing Club was held at the club rooms on Wednesday night, the commodore (Mr. W. H. Ball) occupying the chair. It was decided to open the season by holding a general handicap on Saturday next, 19th instant, entries for which will close on Monday at a general meeting to be held at Deegan's shed, Leichhardt.

ST. GEORGE SAILING CLUB.

This club opens its season to-day with a picnic up George's River, followed by a social at Frater's Hall, Sans Souci, in the evening. The steamer Eclipse is to leave Sans Souci at 2 o'clock, and will make another call about one hour later. The programme adopted by the club for the season is as follows:—

1901.—October 12, opening day; October 19, general handicap; October 26, class A; November 9, general handicap; November 16, class B and C; November 23, championship (14-footers); November 30, class A; December 7, general handicap; December 21, class A.

The class A fixtures are for boats over 16ft. in length, the class B for craft 16ft. and under, and class C for pleasure boats.

LANE COVE AMATEUR SAILING CLUB.

The first race of the Lane Cove Amateur Sailing Club will take place to-day. There are nine entries for this event, the handicaps being as follows:—Dorothy, 16ft. (H. Rainaud), scratch; Effort, 14ft. AN AQUATIC FUNERAL.

The aquatic funeral of the late Mr. A. E. G. Thomas, who died at Samarai, New Guinea, some 12 months since, and whose remains have been brought to Sydney, is to take place to-morrow afternoon. The deceased was for some years an officer of the Sydney Flying Squadron, and this club has made the necessary arrangements in connection with the funeral. The remains are to be conveyed to Watson's Bay by the steamer Garnet, which will accommodate members of the squadron and their friends wishing to attend, and thence to the South Head Cemetery, where the interment takes place. This steamer is advertised to leave Circular Quay at 2 o'clock for Clark Island, where she will be joined by the sailing craft taking part, the procession being timed to start from the island at 2.30 p.m. It is estimated that over 50 sailing craft will be in attendance, and it is intended that these shall form in two lines and follow the steamer. The question as to whether this can be done, however, must to a large extent, necessarily, depend on the direction of the wind. Any wreaths which may be forwarded will be received at the refreshment-room, Watson's Bay Jetty, Circular Quay.

AMATEUR BOXING CHAMPIONSHIP.

The New South Wales Sports Club, Limited, recently took in hand the question of the proper control and management of the New South Wales Amateur Boxing Championship, and as notified in another column, the first year's contests will take place next Thursday, Friday, and Saturday evenings, at the Queen's Hall, Pitt-street. 24 entries have been accepted, and Colonel Williams (P.M.O. of the New South Wales military forces) has consented to act as referee. Mr. W. T. Kerr has charge of the watch, and the committee of management consists of five members of the board of directors, with Messrs. W. F. Corbett, F. E. Diamond, and Dr. Reuter E. Roth. Eight bouts will be contested on Thursday night, eight rounds on Friday night, and four rounds (i.e. the final) on Saturday night, when two or three interesting fencing exhibitions will also eventuate. A large number of invitations have been issued for the opening night. The secretary reports a large number of acceptances already to hand, including the Mayor of Sydney, Sir James Graham, Major Lee (O.C.S.M.), Captain M'Glinn, and others. His Excellency the Naval Commander-in-Chief has expressed his sympathy with the movement, but is unable to attend. The ring will be 20ft. square, each bout will consist of three rounds, and seating accommodation has been provided for a large number of spectators. The booking plan for reserved seats is now open at Paling's.

BILLIARDS.

ROBERTS V. WEISS.

The match between John Roberts and F. Weiss for £100 a side, in which the latter is receiving 5500 in 21,000, was continued yesterday afternoon and evening at the Queen's Hall, Pitt-street. The attendances were good. At the adjournment on the previous evening the scores stood:—Weiss (in play with 101 unfinished) 15,837, Roberts 12,999. The Australian completed his over-night score at 129. Roberts was in much the better form. While his opponent advanced by particularly small compilations, Roberts went on with one run over 200, and two over the hundred, viz., 112, 262, and 169. On the previous evening Weiss reached his points; when play closed yesterday at 5 o'clock he was 1127 short of his quota, while Roberts, who was in arrear to the extent of 1001, went back only 59, so that the latter had much the better of the session. The scores at adjournment were:—Weiss 15,355, Roberts 13,815.

The form was completely reversed in the evening. Weiss, with contributions of 91, 121, 61, 73, and 114 unfinished, ran to his points (17,128) just before 10.30, while Roberts, notwithstanding that he thrice got into three figures, with 129, 199, and 140, left off worse by 52 than he was on the previous evening. The play of both billiardists was frequently applauded, and especially the artistic work of Roberts. The game was called at the finish of last night's session—Weiss (receives 5500, in play with 114 unfinished), 17,128; Roberts, 14,697, the latter being 1053 in arrear. The match will be continued this afternoon and evening.

WESTMEAD HOME FAIR.

The fair in aid of the Westmead Boys' Industrial Home continues to attract large numbers of people to the Town Hall. Stall-holders announce that throughout the week business was quite up to expectations, and that already the success of the function is assured. Last night additional interest was added to the proceedings by a number of organ selections, which were rendered by Mr. A. Mason. This afternoon, when the fair will be continued, an exhibition of fancy dancing will be given by the pupils of Miss Florrie Caldwell, and songs will be submitted by little Roy Cashin. A concert arranged by Mr. S. R. Kennedy will be given in the evening. Fresh and novel attractions to the fair are daily being added.

LLOYD'S TEA, THE PURE, GOOD KIND.

Everybody wants GOOD TEA—wants to find the place where the BEST is to be had for the LEAST MONEY. In every town or city, village or hamlet, there is always to be found some ONE man or firm who gives the public MORE for their money than they can get elsewhere, and that ONE man or firm usually gets the LION'S SHARE of trade. Now, in regard to tea, doesn't LLOYD'S occupy this position in Sydney? If the number of satisfied tea buyers who visit our tea stores week after week and the increasing sales of LLOYD'S TEA are to be taken as a criterion, then MOST CERTAINLY we say LLOYD'S do HOLD this position in Sydney. You can't well judge the value of tea without first testing and comparing the quality and price of LLOYD'S TEA with other teas. To enable you to do this we offer to send samples FREE OF CHARGE. Send us your address to-day, or call and buy a half-pound parcel as a trial. We do not employ canvassers. Telephone, 2777.

THE WAY OF THE INCOMPETENT.
THE WAY OF THE INCOMPETENT.

Many have experienced it. You enter, saying sight not so good. Is it glasses that's required? Interviewee tries, finds none suitable, and advises that "The optic nerve (or anything else he can think of) is seriously affected and recommends immediate attention of a Doctor!" Or else, party behind counter places ready-made glasses before your eyes until you can read. You pay money, go home, and find they give your eyes fits! You return complaining. After floundering about awhile, finding he cannot cope with the case, party volunteers that "A very serious condition that necessitates medical advice at once."

Now why can't these people deal honestly with you and say, "Your trouble is evidently of a complicated nature, and will require special lenses for its correction. See a skilled firm making a speciality of these matters; it is beyond us." No fear. Rather than allow their incompetency to be correctly gauged, they do as aforesaid, mulcting you in heavy professional fees in addition to the high cost of the glasses at the establishment to which the doctor directs you to get them made. Bear in mind—90 per cent. of eye troubles are simply due to misshapen refracting media of the eye, or in the form of the globe itself. Glasses are the ONLY remedy. The effect of any other treatment is both transient and destructive.

THE COMMONWEALTH PARLIAMENT.

THE SENATE.

MELBOURNE, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 11.

The President took the chair at 10.30 a.m.

DISPUTED ELECTION.

Senator Sir J. SYMON (S.A.) gave notice that, contingent upon the report of the Elections and Qualifications Committee being submitted, he would move that the petition be not further entertained.

THE MOTION OF CENSURE—QUESTION OF ADJOURNMENT.

Senator HIGGS (Q.) moved,—"That the House at its rising adjourn until 2.25 p.m. on Wednesday next. He said he took this course, having observed that a motion of want of confidence was to be moved in another Chamber after certain business had been transacted. He was given to understand that it was proposed to bring forward a supply bill in the Senate, and that when it was passed the Vice-President of the Executive Council would move that the House should adjourn, and that it would remain in recess until the motion of censure had been decided. It might be said that it would be following precedent for the Senate to adjourn until the motion had been disposed of, but he did not take that view. The press did not appear to regard the attack as a serious matter, and he quite failed to see why they should adjourn. The House occupied a position which was unique in the British Empire. If a similar motion were to be brought forward in the Senate would the other House adjourn? There was an immense amount of business to be done, and he regarded the vote of want of confidence as the act of a man who had not the true interest of the Commonwealth at heart. There was no possible hope of the motion being carried. The only possible result would be a long debate, which would hang up the business of the Commonwealth for a considerable time, and perhaps delay it for years. He objected altogether to the subordination of the business of the country to some propaganda of endeavour to educate the public of Australia up to certain principles. It had been alleged that the tariff was one which affected the interest of the poor; but there were at present two measures before the other House which directly affected vital interests of the Government, viz., the Alien Immigration Bill and the Kanaka Bill. The member who was to table the motion of censure had not put forward any policy that would commend itself to the Commonwealth. He remembered that in his speeches during the campaign——

Senator Sir J. SYMON (S.A.) rose to a point of order. The hon. gentleman was travelling too far.

The PRESIDENT upheld the objection.

The VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL regretted that the hon. gentleman had thought proper to bring the matter forward in this form, as it would take up time and could not be of any service. The Senate had before it the Public Service Bill, and it was intended to pass a three months' supply bill before the House rose. There was no doubt that the motion of the hon. gentleman raised a very important question, which would have to be dealt with by the Senate. He did not wish to make further allusion to the vote of censure than was absolutely necessary, or to say anything that was of a party character, but he had no doubt that the only course which could be taken when the existence of the Government was challenged in another place was to adjourn. (Hear, hear.) That was not because they were following slavishly any old time precedent, but because it was the rule and inherent in the very principle of responsible Government. (Hear, hear.) The Government was represented in the House of Representatives by Ministers, and in the Senate by others. The business was conducted by Ministers in the Senate in the same way as it was in the other Chamber. When its right to rule was challenged in one House how could it continue in another?

Senator HIGGS (Q.): Does that apply to the Senate?

The VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL admitted that the Senate differed from other second chambers in other respects. But in regard to this matter he urged that it was simply one of two chambers in which the business must be conducted and controlled by the Government, subject to the control of Parliament. He saw no reason to suppose that there would not be any derogation of the power and dignity of the Chamber by following the course, which would be suggested by the Government. The Government might be proceeding with business, which, as the result of the proceedings elsewhere, might be absolutely contrary to the desire of Parliament. If there was one thing more than another on which British people prided themselves it was that the legislature was a practical machine, and it could not be so unless the principle were accepted that there was one Government carrying on its proceedings in both Houses. His view was that the only course they could take when the existence of the Government was challenged in one House was to adjourn.

Senator Sir J. SYMON (S.A.) was of opinion that the Vice-President had taken a correct view of the position.

Senator BEST (Vic.) thought that the arguments used by the Minister were unassailable. As to the argument that business would be delayed, he thought that whilst the tariff was under discussion in the House of Representatives the Chamber would have ample time.

Senator GLASSEY (Q.) disputed the contention that the progress of the Kanaka Bill would be delayed by an adjournment.

Senator Sir J. DOWNER (S.A.) considered that the tendency of the Chamber would be in the future to depart more and more from traditions of the past, and that when the Government was attacked in one House the Government in another would go on with the business which had nothing to do with the life of the Government.

Senator HIGGS (Q.), in withdrawing the motion, expressed the opinion that there should in future be more Ministers in the Senate. He did not regard the motion of censure seriously. If the Premier regarded the motion of Mr. Watson as one of censure why did not the Senate adjourn?

The POSTMASTER-GENERAL: Exactly the reverse.

The motion was withdrawn.

PUBLIC SERVICE BILL.

The Public Service Bill was further considered in committee, and on clause 5, sub-clause 2,

Senator HIGGS (Q.) withdrew the amendment providing for the appointment of the Commissioner during the pleasure of Parliament.

Senator DOBSON (Tas.) entered a severe protest against proceeding with a measure which involved heavy expense. He thought there was a majority in the Chamber against the principle contained in the Bill, and that the Government was gradually satisfying waverers.

After some discussion progress was reported.

SUPPLY BILL.

A Supply Bill for £928,322 was received from the House of Representatives and read the first time.

The VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL moved the second reading of the Supply Bill for £928,322. He said that the bill was for supply for the three months ending December 31. The bill did not cover any increases which appeared on the Estimates, and they would not be paid until the Appropriation Bill was finally passed. The Government was asking for £126,000 less than they were entitled to.

The second reading was agreed to, and the bill committed.

Senator Sir F. SARGOOD (Vic.) alluded to the large amount for contingencies, viz., £193,300, concerning which the House knew nothing.

The VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL said that an explanation would be found in the Estimates. It would be impossible to put in every item.

Senator DOBSON (Tas.) inquired whether the item of travelling expenses referred to members or officers.

The VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL stated that "expenses" were those of officers.

Senator DOBSON (Tas.) said he would like to raise the question of equalisation of salaries.

The VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL said this could only be carried out by some such authority as was provided for in the Public Service Bill. He could not say when it would be done.

Senator PEARCE (W.A.) thought that the time had arrived when allowances paid to well-paid military officers should be stopped.

The VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL said that the Treasurer had cut these down as much as possible, but they could not be done away with altogether.

Senator HIGGS (Q.), whilst recognising the necessity of keeping up the defence force in view of the talk of resorting to arms, complained of the swelling of the Estimates under this head. It was evident that the Government did not regard the matter very seriously, as they did not do as the Queensland Government did once, viz., put people in gaol.

Senator HIGGS: He would be very glad to see all industrial strife die.

The bill was passed through Committee, read the third time, and passed.

The VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL moved: "That the House at its rising adjourn until the 23rd instant."

The motion was agreed to.

A message was received in relation to the Postal Bill, and its consideration was deferred until the 23rd instant.

Senator Sir J. DOWNER (S.A.) gave notice of his intention to move "That it be an intimation to the elections and qualifications committee to inquire into the petition against the return of Mr. Matheson (W.A.), without further considering the preliminary objection."

The House rose at 4.5 p.m., until the usual hour on Wednesday, 23rd instant.

MELBOURNE, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 11.

The Speaker took the chair at 10.30 a.m.

TEMPORARY SUPPLY BILL.

The TREASURER, in submitting the schedule of supply for three months amounting to £928,322, said that the last amount voted was for expenditure up to September 30. Out of this amount now asked for it was necessary to pay salaries. He had received a list previously of what had been asked for by the departments, but on going through it carefully he had found he could reduce the demands by nearly a quarter of a million. The schedule only included absolute requirements for the current quarter. The total expenditure out of loans amounted to £3,636,000. This included a large amount of arrears, £246,000, brought forward from the previous half-year. The total expenditure for the half-year would be £2,065,000 although the total requirements were only £1,939,000, but the difference was made up by arrears. This only referred to the ordinary expenditure, including repairs and maintenance. He regretted his inability to bring down a schedule earlier, but members knew the exceptional circumstances under which he had been working, and as money was required for the payment of public creditors he trusted the matter would be dealt with quickly. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. REID (N.S.W.) said that there need not be much discussion on this matter, owing to the peculiar circumstances. He hoped, however, that an agreement to this request for a three months' supply would not be taken as a precedent. Under ordinary circumstances one month's supply would be sufficient. He had certain strictures he wished to make on the public expenditure, but he would reserve them until the general financial debate. He was quite prepared to give the Treasurer all the facilities he could to get this bill passed. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. POYNTON (S.A.) thought they should have more details.

Mr. HIGGINS (Vic.) hoped no defence expenditure would be made out of loan moneys, and that in the interest of future generations the new policy would be initiated on fairer and sounder lines than had been observed by State Parliaments.

Mr. REID (N.S.W.) deprecated any unnecessary discussion.

Mr. COOK (N.S.W.) said that throughout the Commonwealth post offices required attention. He also could not understand the delay in connection with fixing a site for the federal capital. (Hear, hear.) The New South Wales State Premier had said his Government had done all it possibly could to expedite matters.

Mr. CHAPMAN (N.S.W.) ——

Mr. REID (N.S.W.) protested against this delay. (Uproar.)

Mr. CHAPMAN said that he did not intend to sit quietly by and not enter his protest against what he thought an improper action by Government officials. They had had an instance lately in the case of Mr. Outtrim. He knew of instances in New South Wales where the high-handed action of the postal officials had caused great delay in establishing postal services and facilities. A system of tyranny and favouritism had grown up. Information had come to his knowledge within the past few days, and he intended to ask the Postmaster-General to let these officials know they did not own this country. (Hear, hear). He also hoped that under the new order of things greater opportunities should be afforded those desirous of forming rifle clubs. While enormous sums had been easily obtained for expenditure in large centres of population, nothing had been done in the way of establishing scout corps to watch our shores. He also hoped that no further delay would be experienced in settling on the site of the Federal capital. He thought members should be afforded every opportunity as early as possible of visiting and deciding on the most suitable site. He had no doubt as to which place would be selected. (Hear, hear, and laughter.) When it was once settled upon they should have temporary quarters erected, and then they could settle down.

Mr. HUME COOK (Vic.) complained that promises made many months ago that post-offices would be built had not been kept. Sir Langton Bonython had been repeatedly told there was no money available for Walkerville or Tarcoola Post Office, but by dint of application and the fact of his having a great paper behind him he got his work done. This was unfair, and savoured of favouritism. He also referred to certain cases of injustice to employees in the Postal Department.

Mr. G. B. EDWARDS (N.S.W) said that at South Sydney a post-office had been specially promised, as it bore somewhat the same relation to Sydney that Richmond did to Melbourne. He thought the work should be done. He hoped the items would be earmarked and everything kept down as low as possible.

Mr. WATKINS (N.S.W.) said he did not think it would be true economy for the Federal Government to delay the erection of necessary works. He also thought there was no duty incumbent on the Federal Government to carry out works promised by the State Governments after they knew the departments would be taken over. They could not object to many little matters being hung up on account of the necessary delays incident to the change of management. If, however, there was any foundation for the charge of favouritism made by Mr. Hume Cook as having been shown to Sir Langdon Bonython because he was the proprietor of a large newspaper, he must enter his strongest protest against anything of the kind. He and his constituents had been quite agreeable to wait when they understood all were being rated alike. (Hear, hear.) In his electorate they had been promised certain additions to the post-office, and had the Lyne Government remained in office in New South Wales the work would have been carried out.

The MINISTER FOR HOME AFFAIRS said that in regard to the Tarcoola work he found on inquiry that it was an important mining centre without any postal accommodation, and under the urgent and exceptional circumstances he thought it wise and proper to authorise the works being carried out in the various States in pretty well the same ratio. The Post Office must be run on commercial lines to a large extent. In reference to the complaint by Mr. Watkins, he thought that the work should have been carried out. Newcastle was a large and important centre of population, and it was decided long ago to build a post-office there as a national work, and estimates having been prepared the work was begun and carried out to a certain point. The particular addition referred to was a clock tower.

Mr. PAGE (Q.): What would it cost?

The MINISTER FOR HOME AFFAIRS: About £10,000.

Hon. Members: Oh!

The MINISTER FOR HOME AFFAIRS: He thought the work should have been provided for in the first estimates, and carried out at that time. The whole of the work would have cost from £18,000 to £20,000.

An Hon. Member: Is it for a clock?

Mr. PAGE (Q.): Let the people subscribe the money.

THE MINISTER FOR HOME AFFAIRS: When he went into the matter previously, and applied to his Minister of Public Works, he found that it would cost £2000 to pull down the work already done in order to provide foundations for a tower.

Mr. WATKINS (N.S.W.): I have seen estimates showing that the work could be properly done for a third of the amount.

The MINISTER FOR HOME AFFAIRS did not feel justified in spending £2000 in pulling down work already done, but he still thought the original plans and estimates should have provided for the work.

Mr. WATKINS (N.S.W.) agreed with that, and would protest over the Federal Government taking over the responsibility of building the Hobart Post-office, of which the foundation-stone had been laid.

The MINISTER FOR HOME AFFAIRS said that as regarded the inequality of the treatment of the line-repairers in New South Wales and Victoria he intended to abolish the anomaly. As soon as the Public Service Bill was passed all must be treated alike.

Mr. PAGE (Q.): Will you level up or down?

The MINISTER FOR HOME AFFAIRS: He always believed in levelling up when possible. At present he had a large number of small works going on in the various States. As regarded the federal capital site, he must remind members that it would take years to erect the buildings and a large amount of money. He found that the Washington buildings cost 20 millions sterling, so with that sample before them they must go slow. He hoped to arrange for members to take a week's tour before the end of the session to inspect the various sites. So far as complaints were concerned he would always welcome legitimate requests to look into real abuses, but he did not propose to deal with trivial matters. (Hear, hear.)

The TREASURER said that unless supply was granted that day the public servants could not be paid. It would not be fair to send the bill up to the Senate at the last moment and expect them to pass it without consideration. The proper time to make complaints was when the Estimates were being discussed, and not now, when it was imperative to obtain supply in the face of an impending motion of censure. If that vote were carried it was an additional reason why supply should be granted.

Mr. MAHON (W.A.), while sympathising with the Treasurer, still wished to draw attention to small places like Euro, in Western Australia, where a population of 4000 people were absolutely without postal facilities.

Mr. WILKS (N.S.W.) hoped the Government would make some early arrangement about visiting the federal capital sites selected by the New South Wales commissioner.

The TREASURER again asked that the bill should be dealt with at once.

Mr. WILKS hoped the Treasurer's remarks were meant to apply to the Government whip, who, with other members on that side, had wasted the whole morning. (Uproar.)

The message was then agreed to and the bill passed through all its stages.

POSTAL BILL AMENDMENTS.

The Senate amendments on the Postal Bill having been explained in committee by the Attorney-General, progress was reported.

PACIFIC ISLANDS LABOURERS BILL.

Mr. WATKINS (N.S.W.) said he deprecated any further delay in dealing with this subject. To appoint a commission was futile. Commissions sat in 1885 and 1889, and all the information was obtained. To talk about extending the time to seven or 10 years was wrong. Could he have his way he would not give five years or three, but as a matter of expediency he and those who thought with him must accept the bill. Queensland had spoken clearly and effectively through the ballot box in favour of the abolition of kanaka labour. He read extracts showing that the conditions surrounding kanaka labour importation and life were of the most revolting character. These had altered perhaps for the better, but only to a small extent. The system of obtaining this labour by kidnapping simply amounted to slavery, and had been denounced as such by the English press. Now that they had inter-state freetrade they had to consider the injustice the continuance of the traffic would be to the planters of Northern New South Wales, where in self-defence a number of kanakas and Hindoos had to be employed. The work there, however, could be done by white men just as it could in Queensland. It was all a question of money. To say that white men could not work in the canefields was absurd. Working in railway cuttings was much harder than canefield work, and for that work reliance had to be placed entirely on white men. He was glad that the Government had had the courage to bring in a bill to remove this foul blot on the fair fame of Australia. Now that the revolting circumstances surrounding the traffic had become so well known he hoped that Parliament would have the grace to mark the start of their national life with the removal of this foul sore, and so earn the thanks of thousands of people.

Mr. ISAACS (Vic.) supported the bill, although he would have preferred to see the traffic stopped at once. The action of Sir Thomas M'Ilwraith and Sir S. W. Griffith in 1888 showed that both contending parties pledged themselves against a continuance of the traffic, thus showing that public opinion was dead against the traffic.

Mr. WILKINSON (Q.) supported the bill.——

He was proceeding to justify his vote on the Immigration Restriction Bill when the Speaker intervened, and the debate was adjourned.

POSTAL BILL AMENDMENTS.

In committee on the Postal Bill the Senate's amendments were considered. The amendment relating to the retirement age of future telegraph messengers was agreed to. On the amendment on clause 26a, relating to the definition of a newspaper supplement,

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL asked the committee to reject the proposition to omit the sub-clause requiring supplements to be printed within the Commonwealth.

Mr. MAHON (W.A.) thought it unwise not to give way on this point. He had always considered the sub-clause a protectionist dodge.

Mr. THOMAS (N.S.W.) thought they should give way.

Mr. WATSON (N.S.W.) hoped the Government would stand firm.

Mr. S. SMITH (N.S.W.) had always thought the sub-clause out of place in a machinery bill, and still thought so.

The Senate amendment was agreed to by 21 votes to 20 amid loud Opposition cheers.

Other Senate amendments having been agreed to the bill was reported.

MR. REID TABLES A CENSURE MOTION.

Mr. REID at 10 minutes to 4 gave the following notice of motion:—

"(1). That this House cannot accept the tariff proposals submitted by the Government. (2.) Because they fail to adjust the order of taxation and the advantages of the free list in an equitable manner, giving a tendency, which this House regrets, to press upon the necessaries of life and appliances used in our farming, mining, and pastoral industries, and more heavily than they do upon many articles of luxury. (3). Because the stability of the revenue would, in the operation, be destroyed in order to make imposts for national purposes a source of undue profit to a few individuals and a few favoured industries at the expense of the whole community. (4). Because the scheme would place the finances of the Commonwealth and of the States upon an unsound and extravagant basis. That the foregoing resolution be conveyed by address to his Excellency the Governor-General." (Hear, hear.)

The PREMIER said that in view of the notice he would move the adjournment of the House. Whatever the result might be he hoped it would be settled next week, so that the business might be proceeded with. (Hear, hear.)

The House adjourned at 4 p.m. until Tuesday next at 2.30 p.m.

MOORE-STREET IMPROVEMENT COMMISSION.

The Moore-street Improvement Commission met yesterday morning. There were present Judge Murray (Royal Commissioner), Mr. P. F. Dawson (city solicitor), and Mr. Perks, representing certain ratepayers.

Mr. Fleay, who had previously been examined, pointed out further that the original assessment of property was defective because it did not supply the estimated capital value of the property, and did not give information to persons who wished to appeal as to the basis on which the valuators acted. Therefore, had appeals come before the Court when the information was disclosed they might have been upset, and the appellants been put to unnecessary expense.

Mr. George Evans gave evidence with regard to the application of the betterment system and its effects upon properties, more with respect to Fitz Evan-chambers. He said that that property faced Moore-street, and was considerably benefited by the improvement, and he considered that £50 a year would be a fair charge instead of the charge of £105, which was made. The aggregate assessed improvement was £2580, but personally he would not have contributed £1000 towards the improvement. He did not think that properties outside the street frontage and those facing the ends of the street had been improved to any appreciable extent. The present charge on the property in which he was interested would be about 14 per cent. on the net returns. Generally speaking, he thought the charges were altogether too high.

Mrs. Elizabeth Caroline Starkey, widow of the late J. T. Starkey, gave evidence in respect to property at the corner of Moore-street and Castlereagh-street, which she had sold to the Citizens' Life Assurance Company for £32,000, out of which she had been obliged to pay £17,280 to wipe out the betterment charge, and also £2000 to secure an annuity, which was a charge upon the property. The rents which she had received from the property were not sufficient to pay the annual betterment charge and the annuity chargeable upon the property. She had also been obliged to pay general municipal and Government taxes from outside funds. The total amount paid in respect to betterment upon this property was £22,338 16s 1d. The property had not been advanced in value by the improvement to the amount charged against it. Her husband had once been offered £100,000 for the property.

Mr. J. H. Goodlet, managing director of Goodlet and Smith, Limited, said he was the lessee of the Victoria Arcade. That property had not been improved at all, but rather had been depreciated in value by the opening of Moore-street. The traffic was not nearly so great through the arcade as it used to be. The betterment area was too widely extended and the Victoria Arcade ought not to be within the limit.

Mr. C. J. Whiting, accountant, gave evidence with respect to the properties of Mr. Henry Bull, fronting Moore-street. He said that the betterment charges upon the properties amounted to 34 1-6 per cent. on the net returns, and the rates were altogether too high. It would have been more beneficial to Mr. Bull, although he received £36,000 compensation in connection with land resumption, if the resumption had never taken place. The total payments Mr. Bull would have to make spread over the whole period in connection with this betterment would be more than he received for the land that was resumed.

The commission adjourned till Monday morning, when further evidence on behalf of the property owners will be taken.

VITAL STATISTICS FOR SEPTEMBER.

In the report of the Government Statistician on the vital statistics of the metropolis for the month of September it is stated that during the month 969 children were born, being 35 less than the average for September during the previous five years. The deaths during the month numbered 521, or 99 more than the quinquennial average for September, leaving a balance of births over deaths of 448. Among persons aged 70 and upwards there were 73 deaths (33 males and 40 females), at the following ages:—53 ranging from 70 to 79, 18 from 80 to 89, and one each at 90 and 97. In respect both of births and deaths the record for the month is unsatisfactory. The number of births is the lowest for September during the last 10 years, being 4·3 per cent. below the average; and the deaths are 15 per cent. above the average for the same period, the advance in the rate being observable both in the infantile and adult ages. Zymotic diseases caused 54 deaths, or 10·4 per cent. of the death list, the mortality being thus distributed according to origin:—City, 12; Redfern Group, 11; western, 8; Newtown group, 7; north-western suburbs (Balmain group), 6; eastern, 4; northern, 3; southern, 3. Among the principal causes of death were: Influenza, 13; whooping cough, 15; septicæmia, 4; diphtheria, 4; typhoid, 2; phthisis, 52; cancer, 29. The returns of the Department of Public Health show that 22 cases of illness from typhoid and 24 cases of diphtheria were notified during the month.

The births for the quarter ended September 30 numbered 3264, and the deaths were 1688, which are respectively 118 and 312 more than the average numbers registered for this quarter during the previous five years, equivalent to an increase of 3¾ per cent. on the average of births, and of 22¾ on the average of deaths. In the zymotic group there is a decreased rate in measles, scarlet fever, diphtheria, and diarrhœa; and increases in influenza, whooping-cough, and in the septic diseases. In constitutional diseases, with the exception of phthisis which shows an excess of 26 per cent. above the five years' average, there is little variation. Developmental diseases show an advance of 36 per cent., mostly from deaths in old age, caused doubtless by the undue severity of the past winter. The most material divergence from the normal in local diseases, and indeed in all classes, is found in the respiratory group, wherein there were 395 deaths, as against an average of 245 for the previous five years, being an increase of 61 per cent. The main complaint in this group was pneumonia, which brought about 259 deaths, as compared with the average of 119, thus more than doubling the rate from this disease. Deaths from violence present an adverse record, arising from the increase in fatalities through accidents, to which are due 69 deaths, compared with the average of 50 over the five-year period. The birth-rate may be considered as stationary, the quarterly rate of the previous five years being 6·73 per 1000, and that for the quarter under review 6·68. The death rate for the September quarter of the present year is 3·47 per 1000, a substantial increase on 2·95 per 1000, the quinquennial rate.

In the report on the Newcastle district for the month of September it is stated that the births during the month were 147, or at the rate of 2·74 per 1000 of the population. The deaths numbered 53, or ·99 per 1000 of population. There was absolute freedom from typhoid cases of illness; but one diphtheria case was reported, without fatal result. The births for the quarter ended September 30 numbered 458, and the deaths 159.

In a recent "Breach of Promise" case the defendant obtained a verdict because he proved that the girl had always a cold in her "dose," as she expressed it. Thus were two souls with but a single pockethandkerchief, two hearts that beat as one, parted forever, just for the want of Wood's Great Peppermint Cure, which is a certain remedy for all colds, coughs, or catarrhs. Tie a knot about this somewhere.—Advt.

POULTRY.

All questions relative to fancy or commercial poultry-keeping, diseases, &c., must be addressed to Ancona, Herald Office.

E. Wood.—Addled eggs is a term used to denote those eggs which have been fertilised, but from one cause or another have not come to maturity, the embryo dying during the process of incubation. An egg which has not been fertilised cannot be addled, and the fact of its being so addled is a proof that it has been fertilised. A barren egg will simply be stale when sat upon, retaining its colour, but a fertile egg, in which the embryo dies during the first few days of its development, becomes rotten.

Hurstville.—Tuberculosis is just another or more fashionable name for consumption. It is much the same whether in human beings, cattle, or poultry. It is generally conceded that it is contagious, but doubtful whether hereditary. When it gets thoroughly into a flock of poultry the cheapest cure is to kill the entire flock, burn the carcases, dress the ground with lime and salt, and keep free from poultry for at least a year.

X. Y.—Leg weakness is the complaint. Let the birds have a good supply of nourishing food, barley, green-cut bone, and chopped lean meat, with plenty of fresh green food; supply the birds with as much variety in their diet as possible, and do not allow them to roost.

The incubator competition, previously mentioned in the "Herald," should have been brought to a close on Monday last, that being the twenty-first day from the time the eggs were put in the machines. However, on that day there were a few eggs unhatched in each incubator, and Tuesday was then fixed as the closing day. The contest was of absorbing interest to poultry-breeders, and during the three weeks 750 people visited the farm to witness the operations. The records were taken by Mr. Bradshaw early on Tuesday morning. The following is the official report:—

"In presenting this report the public should be aware that owing to the circumstance through which the contest arose, several machines, both local make and imported, did not compete, hence the results of the contest just over affect only the actual competitors. Mr. Ellis, who had charge of the machines, and from whose farm the eggs were supplied, reports that all seven incubators are most easy to work, the regulating apparatus in each, although of different construction, is equally effective, the daily records showing from 102 to 104, and up to 105 on the last two days of the contest. At the close of the first week 60 clear eggs were taken from the seven machines, and although a number of bad eggs were also removed at this time, Messrs. Ellis and Bradshaw considered that outside the clear eggs all others should be treated as fertile. The following tabulated statement will show the actual results and percentage of fertile eggs hatched. Each machine was started with 100 eggs:—

	Clear.	Bad.	Dead.	Chicks.	Percentage.
Zenith	5	19	8	68	71½
Nonpariel	10	16	7	67	74½
Golden Cob	6	28	8	66	70¼
Cyphers	8	19	8	65	70⅝
Eclipse	6	22	8	64	68
Egyptian	7	17	12	64	68¾
Petaluma	19	37	29	15	18½

Quantity and cost of oil consumed by each machine:—

Eclipse, 4½ pints	0	5¼
Egyptian, 6¼ pints	0	8¼
Zenith, 8¼ pints	0	9½
Nonpariel, 9 pints	0	11¼
Petaluma, 15¼ pints	1	7¼
Cyphers, 19 pints	1	11¼
Golden Cob, 22 pints	2	4

The seven incubators are again started with duck eggs, all of which are supplied from Mr. Ellis's farm.

It is a long while since poultry-breeders had such pleasant news as that conveyed to them through the "Herald" on Wednesday morning last, and to the effect that the Chinese egg trade which, although of short duration, is now a thing of the past, the sixpence per dozen being a duty prohibitive in the extreme. During the past two years moderate quantities of eggs arrived here from China. Their excellent condition and the possibilities of that country in this direction naturally caused much alarm among breeders. Hence this duty will be a welcome one. It is said eggs can be purchased readily in China for threepence per dozen; that preservatives, packing, freights, and other charges run up to another fourpence per dozen, which, with the sixpence duty, leaves them at a figure higher than has hitherto been realised here. Whether some new duties in other directions will be a set-off to this is a matter yet to determine.

A famine in fowls—such is the latest phase of the poultry industry. Fowls, ducks, poultry, and geese are all in active demand for the South African markets, but not a tenth part of the orders can be filled. Poultry-breeding has within the last few years largely increased. Still the development of the industry has not kept pace with the demand. The same trouble is being experienced in other States, and, to add to the local exporters' troubles here, Melbourne buyers are also on the Sydney markets. Mr. Hudson reiterates a statement made in the "Herald" some time since that if it paid to breed fowls a few years ago there must be much money in it now. Feed of all sorts is cheap, while pure-bred stock birds of the best varieties have now become so plentiful that at the weekly auction sales such can be had for but a trifle more than the commonest sorts. Those who keep fowls for egg production are also experiencing rosy times, the 9d per dozen now obtainable being 30 or 40 per cent. of an advance during October months of three or four years ago. Added to this are the facilities for cold storage for those who can afford to wait for a few months, the goods frequently doubling their value in that time. It may be noted that the new tariff provides a 20 per cent. duty on live fowls, but if imported for breeding purposes such are exempt.

Goose-eggs can be hatched in a good incubator, but usually the shells are very tough, and many of the goslings are unable to free themselves without help, and the same trouble exists even where the old goose does the incubating. But they can be helped out of the shell with less danger of injury than any other chick. Where large numbers of geese-eggs are being hatched some of them are liable to contain fully matured goslings, unable even to pip the shell, that die unless the egg is opened. This state of affairs can be determined by the noise they are making in their efforts to break through, and if you can tell in no other way just where to open the shell lay the egg in a pan of warm water and make the opening in the centre of the part that floats out of the water. With those that are unable to release themselves, after breaking through the shell assistance should not be offered too soon, as they can remain in that state for 30 hours without injury, but at the end of that time break away the shell sufficient to admit their coming forth without great exertion. Keep the young goslings dry and warm, and give them their first feed when they are 36 hours out, and at this time give them their first drink of water, but none to swim in. When they are three days old commence feeding all the green food they will eat. Green onion tops chopped fine are excellent. Give them a variety of food and feed them often until nearly three weeks old, then let them have access, if possible, to a place where they can get all the fresh green grass they can eat. There is nothing growing feathers that will put on flesh so rapidly as goslings when they have reached the age of three weeks. They mature early and are good eating, and sell readily at good prices in the market.

The shell of a hen's egg consists of carbonate of lime, the same substance as that of which old mortar, chalk, &c., are composed, but in a different state. The particles of carbonate of lime forming the shell are arranged in a similar manner to that in which the stones or bricks of an arch are laid by the builder. This gives to the shell the greatest possible strength to withstand pressure from the outside. Between the carbonate of lime are innumerable minute holes or pores to admit a limited amount of fresh air to the egg, and also to permit the moisture to escape during incubation. If, however, the smallest pinhole be pricked in the shell it effectually prevents the embryo chick from hatching. Again, if the shell is covered with a coat or other impervious substance, thus closing the pores, this also is fatal to its chances of producing a chicken, for the obvious reason that no germ of life can develop without a supply of oxygen. As the strength of the shell of an egg in its ordinary state would present an almost insuperable difficulty in the way of a chick extricating itself nature has provided its own remedy. By the heat of the hen's body or the incubator the particles of carbonate of lime forming the shell undergo an important physical change. They become blended and confused, and lose their regularity and strength of arrangement, thus making the shell brittle, and consequently easy to break. This alteration in the aggregation of the particles accounts for the cracked, brittle sound which may have been noticed when turning eggs in an advanced stage of incubation in an incubator.

The hen may be looked upon as an egg-producing machine, but she must have the raw material from which to manufacture her products. Place within her reach all she requires for her work, and instinct will teach her which to select. The omission, however, of any one essential in the composition of the egg, though everything else be supplied in abundance, will interfere with egg production, if it does not stop it altogether. The value of green-cut bone as an egg producer cannot be too widely known. It contains the elements required in the complete egg in almost identical proportions, and in a highly digestible form. In 100 parts of egg the constituents are about in the following proportions, viz., 64 water, 15 dry albumen, 11 oil and salts, 10 shell and mineral matter. The lean meat, fat, marrow, and gristle of green bone contain just the elements necessary to form the white and yolk, and the bone yields the necessary lime salts for the shell. Dry bone meal, furnishing material for shell and bone only, is no substitute for green bone. There is a wide difference in their nutritive values. Green bone, being a food as much as wheat or oats, can be fed largely with excellent results, whereas only a limited amount of ground dry bone is of any use in the bird's system.

If there is one error in poultry-keeping supreme over all others it is what is called ventilation. Long experience has failed to find a single person who rode this hobby who has not done more harm to his flocks than has resulted from cholera, roup, or other disease. It may, however, not be far wrong to class ventilation and roup as twins, for as a rule where there is plenty of ventilation there is plenty of roup. Just how the theory was ever launched forth, that a flock of hens would suffocate in a warm and comfortable poultry-house is more than can be learnt.

Although ducks are such voracious and almost continual feeders, even eating by moonlight if they have the chance, they are not very particular as to quality, and if penned and fed on suitable food to force rapid growth they will prove very profitable if got ready for market within about 10 weeks. In rearing the aim for the first four or five weeks should be to build up the frame on which to place flesh during the last two or three weeks' feeding. Hard corn is quite unsuitable, and with the soft food there should be no scarcity of drinking water. It is the duck's nature to swallow its food in spasmodic gulps, apparently getting little assistance from the muscles of the throat, consequently it soon chokes unless it has water with almost every mouthful.

WAGES AND HOURS OF LABOUR.

The annual report of the Labour Department of the Board of Trade on "Changes in the Rates of Wages and Hours of Labour in 1900" has been published as a Parliamentary paper.

Mr. H. Llewellyn Smith, in a letter to the Comptroller-General of the Commercial, Labour, and Statistical Department of the board, gives a general summary of the events of the year. He says:—

"The year 1900 was the culminating point of the upward movement of wages which began in 1896. Not only did the general level of wages in the United Kingdom stand higher at the end of 1900 than in any other year for which statistics exist, but the rate of increase during last year was unprecedentedly high. If we confine ourselves to the industries for which it is possible to obtain definite statistics, we find that no fewer than 1,112,684 workpeople, or about one-seventh of the total number employed, received advances during the year amounting to no less than £212,000 per week, while only 23,010 sustained decreases to the unimportant amount of £2800 per week. The net weekly rise of £209,000 compares with £91,000 in 1899 and £81,000 in 1898.

"As in the two previous years, by far the larger amount of the increase is accounted for by the rise in miners' wages, which rose on the average nearly 4s 5d per week in the course of the year, and accounted for £168,000, or 80 per cent. of the total weekly increase of wages.

"Taking into account the various dates at which the changes came into operation, it is estimated that the additional amount disbursed in wages during 1900, occasioned solely by the increases of wages recorded in this report apart from any change in the number of the working population, was not less than £6,000,000.

"Towards the end of 1900 signs were not wanting that the period of rising wages was drawing to a close. During the first half of the present year 1901 the increases of wages, though still more widespread than the decreases, have not balanced them in amount, so that for the first time since 1895 the net effect has been a fall amounting to nearly £30,000 per week, the decline being most marked in the mining and iron and steel trades which recently had shown the greatest rise.

"It is satisfactory to be able to record that in spite of the great amount of alteration which wages underwent during 1900 the changes were arranged for the most part without stoppage of work, only 5 per cent. of the workpeople whose wages were changed being engaged in disputes on this account. This is largely due to the extent to which wages in the coal, iron, and other staple trades are now adjusted by conciliation and wages boards, sliding scales, or similar machinery. In the case of more than half the workpeople affected in 1900 the changes were arranged by methods of this kind."

BOURKE TO CUNNAMULLA RAILWAY.

PLEA FOR A NEW PASTORAL LINE.

Mr. Robert L. Gray, of Sydney, has written the following letter to a gentleman in Sydney:—

"According to promise, I have given an outline of the railway lines that would benefit Queensland and New South Wales. If these were completed there would be easy access by trucking stock into the centre of Queensland, which would be a great gain both to the grazier holder and the Government of that State, as they would have wool to carry over their lines so much sooner. It would be a great outlet for their good cast-for-age ewes in New South Wales, which would be most valuable to Queensland to improve its flocks with. Besides opening up country it is giving labour to many, and with more wool to go out of the State more money comes back; therefore it benefits all. What would be a great national benefit to the States of Queensland and New South Wales would be the following railway lines to be connected from Winton to Longreach, thence to Charleville, then from Cunnamulla to Bourke, that would allow the rolling stock on the three principal lines in Queensland to be made use of where required, instead of being detached as at present. The Government of both States should run stock trains at as low a cost as practicable to enable graziers and others to restock their holdings after droughts, or to assist in getting stock away. By doing so, holdings would be restocked about three to four years sooner than under the present system of breeding up. The railway lines would benefit to the same extent, as more wool would be carried to the seaboard sooner. Holdings would be stocked up, therefore there would be more work for the labourers, and more money would be returning into the State quicker by the sale of their produce (wool). The great advantages in trucking stock long distances are: they can be landed near their destination without loss of condition and less loss, put in lamb at the proper time, have a better percentage of lambs, grow more wool through not losing condition and getting the wool dirty. Therefore there is a great gain in wool and lambs to both the holders and the State. First year stock are put on under the present existing conditions it takes sheep six, seven, eight, or nine months to travel into the best parts of Queensland from the south of New South Wales. There is always the chance of heavy losses on the road, arriving in low condition—wool short and dirty—most probable no lambs that season, therefore no returns for that season's heavy outlay. Graziers at present will not come south and take these risks. All would be altered if the railway lines were completed as described. Graziers would come south in fair seasons and buy good cast-for-age five year-old ewes out of good established flocks to improve theirs, whereas at present sheep of that description are not procurable in Queensland, and will not be for many years under the present conditions and circumstances. Having lived lately in west of Queensland for over three years I have a fair knowledge of their requirements in that State. Prior to that I lived in Riverina for 18 years."

MARRICKVILLE COTTAGE HOSPITAL.

The monthly meeting of the committee was held in the boardroom of the hospital on Tuesday evening. Lieutenant-Colonel Longfield presided, and there were also present—Mrs. Trivett, Messrs. George Holland, H. B. Linthorn, P. W. Berne, B.A., C. W. Bloomfield, James Gould, W. Wyatt, and Alderman W. T. Henson. Apologies were received from Miss Lawson, Major James, R.E., J.P., and Mr. A. R. Ducker. Accounts amounting to £50 3s 4d were passed for payment. The treasurer reported a bank balance of £144 2s 8d, and that the Government subsidy, amounting to £77 10s 5d, would be available in a few days. The matron's report for the month was as follows:—Admissions 12—males 5, females 7; discharges 10—males 5, females 5; deaths, 2; remaining in hospital, 11; operations, 7; out-patients treated, 12. On the motion of Mr. Bloomfield, seconded by Mr. Holland, it was decided to increase the matron's salary by £10 per annum. The following sub-committees were appointed:—Visiting committee, Miss Lawson, Mrs. Trivett, Messrs. H. B. Linthorn and George Holland; house committee, Lieutenant-Colonel Longfield, Messrs. G. Holland and H. B. Linthorn.

MANLY COTTAGE HOSPITAL.

The board of the Manly Cottage Hospital met on Thursday, when Mr. John Woods presided. There were also present:—Mr. W. H. Fletcher (hon. secretary), Mr. W. J. Douglass (hon. treasurer), Dr. David Thomas, and Dr. L. Watson Harvey (hon. medical officers), Miss Latreille (matron), Mesdames F. J. Plomley and Royan, Messrs. J. Hanson, J. Macintosh, E. E. Bayliss, G. U. Hosking, and F. T. Smith.

The Mayor (Alderman E. W. Quirk, M.L.A.) forwarded a cheque for £11, being the proceeds of the recent band demonstration on the park and Corso. The hearty thanks of the board were voted.

Mr. Marcus Bryant announced that he would direct a concert shortly, the object of which would be the raising of a fund for the purchase of a piano for the hospital.

The treasurer reported amounts payable, £57 13s 9d, and a credit balance after paying them of £88 1s 5d.

The matron reported 15 patients admitted during September, 14 discharged, and 13 remaining. The daily average has been 13, and 7 operations had been performed, of which 2 were major and 5 minor.

BURGLARS AND BOTTLES.

The man who has once driven a burglar out of his house with a pistol is likely to keep the weapon handy by for use in the future.

On a similar principle Mrs. Elizabeth Langmaid is never without a bottle of Mother Siegel's Syrup where she can lay hands on it any day.

About four years ago she was taken bad with what was called "complication of complaints." The doctors said she had an abscess on one of her lungs and also indigestion and heart troubles.

And, seeing how she looked and felt, we should have believed him without a moment's hesitation.

"You can get an idea," she says, "how bad I was when I tell you I lay helpless in bed nearly nine months."

(That does give us the idea, and no mistake. Save for the hope of recovery—which seldom quite perishes in the mind—I would as lief be dead, and so have the trouble over and done with.)

"Finally," Mrs. Langmaid goes on to say, "when I got out of bed, all of me that could waste away was gone. I was just a skeleton covered by a skin. In truth, they wrapped me in wadding—for appearance and for such comfort and warmth as the protection might give me.

"Whatever my complaint was I always had a dreadful pain in my sides and under the shoulder-blades; but the medicines I took had no more effect on it than so much sweetened water would have had.

"While in this miserable condition I remembered how different friends of mine had spoken of the virtues of Siegel's Syrup for many kinds of ailments that nothing else seemed able to help.

"Anyway I was sure it would be no mistake to try it, and so I got a bottle from Campbell and Co.'s store in this town. Up to that time I always had a great feeling of weariness and drowsiness after eating, and could not shake it off.

"But to my delight I soon discovered that a dose of the syrup dispelled this almost immediately, and by the time I had finished the first bottle I was greatly improved.

"As you would suppose, I persevered in taking the remedy until by degrees I got strong again. Gradually, too, I picked up my lost flesh and recovered my former good health.

"Ever since then I keep a bottle of Siegel's Syrup in the house, and take a dose whenever I feel out of sorts in any way.

"You may publish this if you like, and I shall always be glad to hear of Siegel's Syrup doing for others what it did for me."—Elizabeth Langmaid, Market-street, Muswellbrook, N.S.W., Sept. 26th, 1899.—Advt.

WHAT SUBSCRIBERS AT HOME THINK OF THE LIBRARY OF FAMOUS LITERATURE.

THIS GREAT WORK IS OFFERED IN AUSTRALIA AT THE LONDON PRICE

IS ALL THAT IS NECESSARY TO SECURE A COPY OF THE LIMITED EDITION, WHICH IS BEING RAPIDLY SOLD.

NO LONGER REASON FOR DOUBT.

One has no need to read Herbert Spencer to know that the final test of a book, a picture, a piece of music, a dramatic performance—be what it will—is that it must, in a large sense, give pleasure. And by this is meant pleasure to the individual man. There is no other criterion.

So with the great "Library of Famous Literature," which Dr. Garnett and a distinguished company of men of letters have edited, and the "Standard" has published. It was prepared by minds of the finest training and the highest culture. It enlisted the services of a corps of the most eminent writers of England, the Continent, and America. It has been welcomed in the warmest way by the Press of Great Britain. It has received the approval of other critics and scholars than those concerned in its making. With all this in mind, a reader might well feel himself amply safeguarded in making purchase of the "Library." He might well feel that he had the largest sanction in placing his subscription for a work thus put forth and thus received.

Day by day the writer of these public notices appearing in the newspapers has endeavoured to describe and explain exactly what the "LIBRARY OF FAMOUS LITERATURE" is, how, and by whom, and for what purpose it has been made, and to show its great usefulness to everyone who loves good literature.

A MAN WHO LIVES IN SYDNEY

or its suburbs, having read these notices, may call at one of the addresses given below, examine the volumes, choose his binding, write his order form, pay in full, or it may be only 10s, and receive the complete set of books in a few days. He has the satisfaction of seeing, examining fully, and knowing exactly what he is buying. The resident of the State, however, although greatly attracted by the offer, and perhaps actually convinced that he wants the books, may hesitate merely because he has a constitutional objection to buying anything that he does not first see. This is a perfectly legitimate objection; at least it would be in 99 business transactions in the hundred.

"At home" more than 19,000 persons have bought the 20 volumes of the "LIBRARY OF FAMOUS LITERATURE," and it is probable that not more than 10 per cent. of them saw the books until they arrived at their homes. They had not only been convinced by the prospectus, but they had read day by day in the newspapers what was quite as convincing as the prospectus, viz., the testimonials, hundreds upon hundreds of them, spontaneously given to the "Standard" by purchasers of the "Library." These letters described in terms of almost extravagant praise the hearty satisfaction of the subscribers with every detail of the "Library," the binding, the paper, the type, the illustrations, the beautiful coloured plates, as well as with the remarkable terms upon which the "Library" was offered. No book ever published has ever received an approval so unanimous and so spontaneous. It is clear, therefore, that thousands of persons, living, let us say, in Aberdeenshire, or in Cornwall, or in Norfolk, who were unable to come to London to the "Standard" Office to see the books themselves, felt that they had ample justification in subscribing in view of these remarkable tributes from people who already possessed the books.

There are printed below a few of these letters written to the manager of the "Standard" by subscribers "at home." It would be possible to supplement them with hundreds of others. The resident of Australia, therefore, who has had the slightest doubt regarding the offer, or regarding the book, can no longer have any doubt in the light of those convincing testimonials to the value of this incomparable work.

WHAT TEN SHILLINGS WILL DO.

A REMITTANCE OF 10 SHILLINGS, with an order form properly signed, which we will send you, will be sufficient to secure a copy of the "LIBRARY" before the offer has been withdrawn.

THE SAME 10 SHILLINGS will be sufficient to effect the IMMEDIATE DELIVERY of the ENTIRE 20 LARGE VOLUMES, containing 10,000 Pages and 500 full-page Illustrations. Free delivery as far as Sydney. Small Monthly Payments to follow, according to binding selected.

THE SAME 10 SHILLINGS will be sufficient to effect the IMMEDIATE DELIVERY of the BOOKCASE, payment to be made after the payments for the Books are completed.

"RECEIVED WITH FAVOUR BY MY FRIENDS."

Therapia, 61 St. Andrew's-road, Southsea.

I was more than surprised on looking through the volumes. Dr. Garnett is, indeed, to be congratulated on the compilation of a work of such exceptional magnitude, which will be indispensable and of the greatest value to students in every branch of literature.

It is a pleasure to record the favour with which this work has been received by all my friends who have had the opportunity of glancing through its pages. They were not long in determining to order copies for themselves before too late.

"THE WORK MEETS EVERY REASONABLE EXPECTATION."

24 Via Gregoriana, Rome, Italy.

The "International Library of Famous Literature" arrived a few days ago. It was well packed, and the books reached me without the slightest damage.

I personally have not had time to look into the volumes, but my wife and daughters are highly pleased with them, and tell me they produce an impression corresponding to that of a Salon where one catches glimpses of old friends, who revive pleasant memories, and gains impressions of some new acquaintances that determine one to seek a fuller and more intimate knowledge of them in their own homes.

The work appears to meet every reasonable expectation formed of it, and it seems to give much pleasure and instruction to everyone who dips into it.

ISAAC HENDERSON.

Moretonhampstead, Devon.

It may be some interest to you to know that I, for one, am never likely to regret that I became a purchaser of "The International Library of Famous Literature."

I was greatly attracted by the preliminary advertisement of the "Library," and now that the twenty volumes have reached me, and I have had an opportunity of examining some of them, I must say that my expectations have been fully realised.

The "Library" is a veritable treasure house of good things. No person who owns it need have any more dull hours. One is confident that time spent in reading these volumes is time well spent, and that what is read is the best of good Literature.

I am thoroughly content with my purchase, and look forward with much pleasure to a closer intercourse with my twenty new friends. That they will prove true friends I do not doubt.

S. H. NOBECK (Solicitor).

Although I complained at the length of time you kept me before delivering the volumes of "Famous Literature," I must confess, now that I have received them, they were well worth waiting for.

I have only cursorily glanced through the books, but I have seen sufficient to make me more than gratified, and I look forward to many years of pleasure in the complete perusal of the works.

"A BOON TO THOSE WITH MODERATE-SIZED LIBRARIES."

Merchant Taylors' School, E.C.

A perusal of the volumes confirms my anticipation that the work would be a boon to those whose moderate size libraries do not usually contain the works of the lesser authorities, but who would be glad to possess such things as the Speeches of Lincoln, Bright, or Washington; "Shall I Wasting in Despair," "The Lass o' Gowrie," "Bingen on the Rhine," &c. The selections from American authors are particularly acceptable. The same might be said of the translations from the less known languages, Russian, Persian, &c. The work should appeal strongly to foreign students of English, and I sincerely hope a similar work for French and German will appear in due course.

J. G. ANDERSON.

"ALL THAT WAS REPRESENTED IN THE PROSPECTUS."

Dijon, Spain.

The "International Library of Famous Literature" has been received. It is a compendious treasure for every busy man—more so to one situated as I am far from the reach of any library or centre where there are facilities for reference.

In the cursory examination that I have been able to make, I find it to be all that was represented in the prospectus, and it will afford me infinite pleasure to have at all times within reach the possibility of being in touch with the literary master minds that the world has produced.

J. A. JONES.

Halton Bank, Pendleton.

I received to-day the twenty volumes of "The International Library of Famous Literature." I am delighted with the material, paper, print, and binding of the "Library."

W. J. SPROTT, M.D.

"THE CLEARNESS OF THE PRINT AND ILLUSTRATIONS."

Sydling Court, Dorchester.

I am delighted with the "Library." The chief thing that struck me was the clearness of the print and illustrations, and the handy lightness of the volumes, considering their size.

G. Q. BECKTON.

2 La Terrasse, Dinard.

I have been daily intending to write and tell you how pleased we are with the books, and I feel sure that we have continued and great enjoyment in store.

L. M. HODY.

"I AM VERY MUCH PLEASED WITH THE WORK."

Ruskin Cottage, Sherborne, Dorset.

I am much pleased with what I have seen of the work. It is a great advantage to those of us who are no longer young that the print is so good and clear. I find I shall be able to make acquaintance with many writers whose works I have not met with, while my old favourites are also well represented.

MARY E. PORTER.

"THE ESSAYS ARE GEMS OF LITERATURE."

80 Peacock-street, Gravesend.

I awaited an opportunity of glancing through the volumes, so as to add to the number of expressions of appreciation and delight you already have. I have much pleasure in so doing. They enable one at short notice to find any desired passage, and I have already had occasion to refer to two Roman writers and Russian authors. The Essays prefacing the volumes are in themselves gems of Literature.

W. HAYDN VAUGHAN DAVIES.

"THE POSSESSION WILL BE A CONSTANT PLEASURE."

Rosenath, Stanger-road, South Norwood, S.E.

I have received books safely, and am delighted with them, and anticipate many hours' enjoyment whilst reading the very varied matter contained in them. The possession will be a constant pleasure.

ARTHUR F. O. WATLING.

"I AM CONVINCED OF ITS GREAT VALUE."

Manzanares, 114 Cavendish-road, Balham, S.W.

As one of the early subscribers to your great "Library of Famous Literature," I wish to express my gratification at owning such a treasure, and my congratulation to you on the completion in such admirable style of so stupendous a task. I thought long before buying this "literary gold mine," but I am convinced of its great value.

CHAS. RUMNEY.

"RECOMMENDED AS AN ESSENTIALLY FAMILY WORK."

Heatherlea, Christchurch.

The work is an admirable one, filling a want long felt, but never before satisfied, whether for a quarter of an hour's entertainment or for a week of study.

The names of one or two of the authors quoted gave me some anxious moments as to whether all the volumes could be left open before the young and pure, but the Editor has dealt with those authors (doubtlessly entitled to notice in such a work) in so judicious a manner as to remove even a shadow of such anxiety. I recommend this great work to all as essentially "a family work" of immense value.

ED. W. DOUGLAS.

"THE REMARKABLE MERIT OF THIS UNDERTAKING."

Strand, Falmouth.

Even from a hasty examination of their contents one cannot fail to be impressed with the remarkable merit of this great undertaking. "Infinite riches in little space" exactly describes the character of the work. Dig where he may, the true book lover is certain to find nuggets of pure gold.

J. P. DENYER.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Intending purchasers are notified that they should apply for an Order Form and full particulars at the earliest possible moment. All orders will be executed as received, and prompt delivery will be made out of a supply now in Sydney. Those who delay will have only themselves to blame if they miss this great chance.

One year ago this great work was offered to the British public by the London "Standard" on terms so generous that the book was welcomed by all classes in the United Kingdom, who subscribed for it at such a rate that the "Standard" had difficulty in meeting the demand. This same work on the same favourable terms is now offered for a short time to residents in New South Wales. The copies now available were reserved from the first edition issued in England specially for subscribers in Australia. Although a generous provision was made for the book-loving public in this country, it now appears that the demand has been under-estimated, and that the available copies will be exhausted earlier than was expected.

It is indeed difficult to understand why anyone should hesitate to take advantage of an opportunity so exceptional—an opportunity that may be considered the chance of a lifetime.

SPECIAL ARRANGEMENTS FOR DISTRIBUTION.

In order to ensure prompt delivery, the Publishers of the "Library of Famous Literature" have made arrangements with Messrs. Gordon and Gotch for distribution of the work in New South Wales.

Lot 1. That beautiful brick and slate Cottage of 8 rooms, detached kitchen, servant's room, pantry, stabling, on 2 roods 23 perches of land, having a frontage of 250 links to Windsor-street, in the town of Richmond, and now in the occupation of M. By order of the Mortgagee.
Lot 4. 160 Acres (more or less) of very choice Land, situate at Grose Vale, Kurrajong, and now occupied by Mr. John Stewart. The improvements consist of W.B. Cottage (nearly new) of 9 rooms, kitchen, &c., bakehouse and oven, new barn and 5-stall stable, never-failing supply of good water at the cottage and in the paddock. About 4300 choice citrus fruit trees, all bearing; about 1200 choice summer fruit trees, all bearing. This is a lovely property, splendidly situated, most healthy locality. Inspection solicited.
TERMS AT SALE.

SITUATED near Normanton, North Queensland, 40 miles from existing meat works, and 45 miles from proposed freezing works.
AREA, STOCK. 4723 square miles. Annual rental, £582 9s. 10,500 cattle, 200 horses. There are now about 3000 bullocks, 3 years and older, to duly turn off as fats, and the whole heard is in splendid order.
IMPROVEMENTS. The holding is very compact, and naturally fenced on three sides by water. 4 sets of yards, bullock paddock (10 square miles), horse paddock, homestead, &c., &c.
To be sold for a lump sum, but cattle to be mustered, and any excess or deficiency paid or allowed for.
PITT, SON, and BADGERY, Ltd., have received positive instructions to sell the above by auction, at the Royal Exchange, Sydney, on WEDNESDAY, November 20, at 2.30 p.m.
A special feature of this very attractive cattle station is that droughts are unknown—a particularly important recommendation in the light of recent experience; and the enormous decrease in the number of cattle in Queensland, together with the vastly increased outlets for the annual outputs, make such investments as "DELTA" the most remunerative obtainable. There is also a steady demand for the fat cattle for local consumption—a lucrative outlet.
The Auctioneers particularly wish to impress that Delta must be sold, and will be glad to arrange for cattle station buyers to inspect, but no time should be lost. Terms: Cash, or half cash, balance at one and two years.

FENCING.—The property is subdivided into 35 paddocks by about 200 miles of high-class fencing, all in good order, and care has been exercised that the boundaries of each subdivision are fenced.
WATER.—The whole of Burburgate is remarkably well watered. It has a double frontage of about 16 miles to the Namoi River, and each paddock is splendidly watered by an admirable system of tanks and wells, experience proving that a large supply of water is available on any part of the run at a shallow depth.
IMPROVEMENTS.—These are too numerous to mention in an advertisement, sufficient to say that they are substantial, in good order, and ample for the efficient working of the property as a whole.
THE OWNERS are desirous of selling the Property in one line, but in response to numerous requests have consented to sell in lots if not sold in one. The subdivision has been carefully planned, but if desirable a further subdivision will be made at time of sale.
THE AUCTIONEERS with every confidence call the special attention of the Public to this very important sale, offering as it does to large Capitalists an opportunity that seldom or never occurs of securing such a large tract of valuable country in perfect working order, and situated in one of the most important and highly favoured centres of the State, with a good investment certainly secured from the time of purchase, and with an absolutely assured large unearned increment. TO MIXED GRAZIERS AND FARMERS the Estate is especially valuable, and being close to the Freezing Works at Gunnedah, full benefit can be taken of the proved value of the estate for breeding crossbred sheep and lambs for export, and carrying on farming and dairying to the best advantage.
The terms are liberal, being fixed at 40 per cent. cash, balance extending over five years, bearing interest at the rate of 4½ per cent. per annum.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 5th, at 2.30 p.m.
EDWARD WEAVER and CO. have received instructions to offer by public auction, at their Offices, Court-street, Forbes, on TUESDAY, November 5, at 2.30 p.m., all that Magnificent Dairying and Farming Property, known as Pine Park, situated 2 miles from Forbes Railway Station, half a mile from the Lachlan River, and containing 1189 acres 3 roods 2 perches of Freehold Land. The Land is of the very best description, nearly the whole of the area being fit for cultivation, the timber being open box, interspersed with pine and myall—mostly all ringbarked. The property is securely fenced, and is watered by tanks and wells, and is adjacent to a permanent lagoon. There is a house on the property containing several rooms, and 60 acres are cleared for the plough. As a Dairy Farm, combined with wheat-growing, and fattening stock for market, Pine Park could not be surpassed. The Forbes Butter Factory is in full work, and showing magnificent returns to dairymen. Extract from Forbes Times, September 21, 1901:—"Milk Records.—In our issue last week we quoted Mr. J. Kennedy as having received over £20 as his cheque for a month's milk from 20 cows, the milk being supplied to the Forbes Co-op. Dairy. We have since learned that the results are even better than were stated. Mr. Kennedy milks only 18 cows, and the amount of his cheque was £21 3s 6d. Besides this he supplied his own house with milk and butter." Population of the town of Forbes is 4500. Average rainfall extending over the last 26 years is 21in. The town contains 2 large steam roller flour mills, butter factory, and large meat-freezing works are erected adjacent to the town, capable of treating enormous quantities of stock. Pine Park is a property that must soon become very valuable, being within 10 or 15 minutes' drive from the town of Forbes, with a splendid metal road to the door. Terms: One-fifth cash; balance 1, 2, 3, and 4 years at 5 per cent. EDWARD WEAVER and CO., Auctioneers, Forbes, New South Wales.
